USSIA IS SAID TO PLAN GREAT ARMY INCREASE

Details of Czar's Military Preparations Declared to Include Several New Corps and Extension of Period of Service

FLEET WORK RUSHED

As Result of Activity Opinion in Germany and Austria, Along Frontier of Which Troops Are Placed, Is Becoming Disturbed

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

ST. PETERSBURG—In spite of the strictness of the press censorship, details no doubt largely inaccurate are leaking out respecting the military preparations Russia is making. It is even said that several new army corps are to be added to the peace strength of the army and the period of service with the colors extended.

This would mean an enormous increase, extending to about 100,000,000 roubles, in the army estimates during the next few years. The bulk of the increases will be piled on the German and Austrian frontiers and in addition to this, the redistribution of the units under the reorganization scheme is understood to be steadily increasing the number of troops all along these frontiers.

At the same time immense additions are being made to the fleet and every exertion is being devoted to expediting the construction of the shipbuilding program.

As a natural result of these preparations public opinion on the other side of the frontier, both in Germany and Austria, is becoming somewhat disturbed.

GERMAN EDITORS DISTURBED OVER RUSSIAN ACTIVITY

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

BERLIN—The Cologne Gazette, in an article on the Russian question, draws attention to the enormous military preparations being made beyond the frontier and whilst pointing out that there is no immediate danger, from these, goes on to insist that ever since the despatch of a German military mission to Constantinople there has been a growing menace in all political references in the Russian press to Germany.

The Schlesischer Zeitung, writing on the same subject, declares that war comes most unexpectedly and not as a result of protracted negotiations and therefore that the German government must never go to sleep on this subject.

POUTILOFF WORKS PLAN TO EMPLOY NO MORE GERMANS

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

ST. PETERSBURG—Directors of the Poutiloff works have issued a notice under which announcement is made that in future no Germans will be employed in any capacity whatever by the company.

The Novoe Vremya, in commenting on this, declares that if it is necessary to employ workers of other countries at all, Englishmen should be employed, inasmuch as they are the finest naval experts and are free from the Teutonic prejudices which require that the Baltic fleet shall be built as badly and as slowly as possible.

COMMERCE HIGH SENIORS GUESTS OF LYNN CHAMBER

Accompanied by their headmaster, James E. Downey, about 20 members of the senior class of the High School of Commerce, are the guests today of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce. On their arrival at Lynn at 10 o'clock this morning they were met by George E. Coates, secretary of the Lynn chamber, and Horace W. Sawyer, secretary of its industrial bureau.

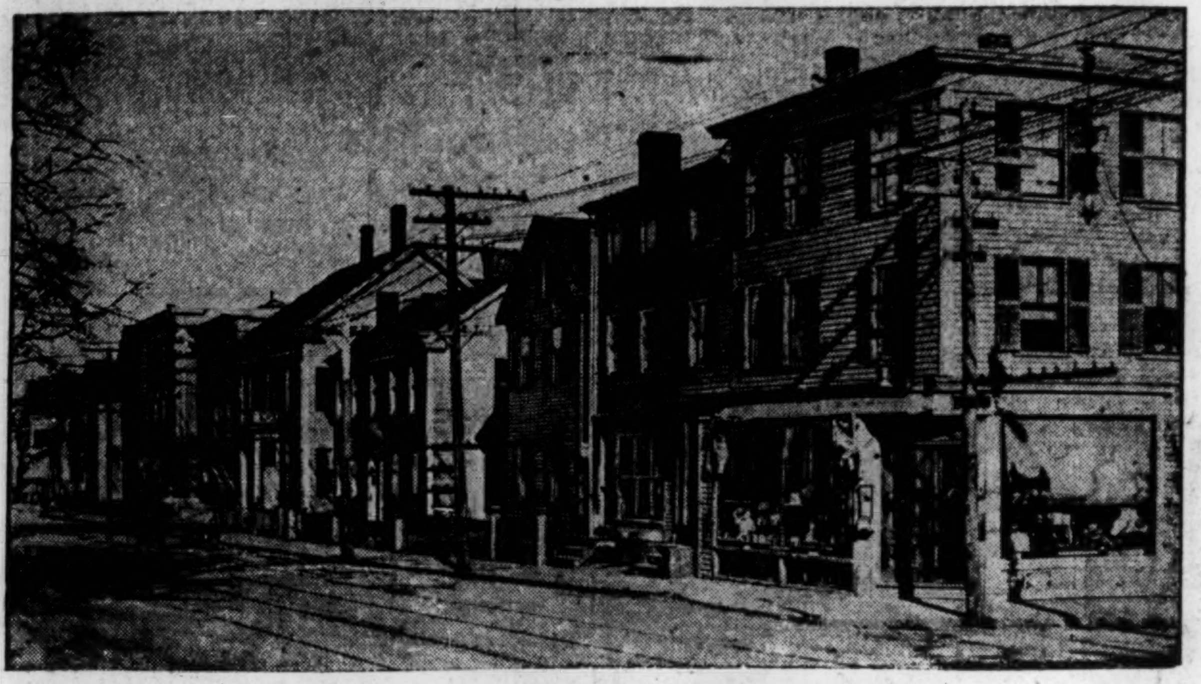
Mr. Coates explained to the boys the commercial and industrial importance of Lynn. It was said that Lynn makes more shoes than any other city in the United States, and has one of the great branches of the General Electric Company, which employs about 15,000 hands. Lynn has a great boulevard and about 2500 acres of parks. Lynn also takes special pride in her excellent public school system.

The party spent the time from 10 to 1 in the works of the General Electric Company. While there the plans of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce for dredging the river to make it navigable up to the works of the General Electric Works were explained.

From 2 to 4 the party visited a shoe factory where the various processes of shoe-making were explained to them.

The senior class of the High School of Commerce expects to make similar trips to some of the other great commercial and industrial centers of the state and of New England. These trips are a part of the scheme of the school to have the boys know well not only their own city but also the cities so closely related to it, both in distance and in commercial interdependence.

SALEM HIGHWAY TO BE IMPROVED



Bridge street where buildings are to be moved back

SALEM, Mass.—Members of the city council, in conferring with the county commissioners in regard to the proposed widening of Bridge street in this city to a uniform width of about 70 feet, aimed to ascertain just what proportion of the cost the county commissioners would pay. The legislative act under which the county and city are authorized to make the improvement jointly, permits the county to expend not exceeding $75,000.

It is estimated that the total cost will be about $154,000. Of this amount the county commissioners have tentatively agreed with the city council members to pay three sevenths, or about $66,000.

EXPRESS RATES TO BE CUT AGAIN IN THIS STATE

Companies Also May Reduce Their Tariffs in Other New England Districts and in New York When Change Is Made

MARCH 20, DATE NAMED

Further reduction in the intrastate express rates in Massachusetts and probably the surrounding New England states and New York is to be made by the express companies. The Massachusetts public service commission has granted special permission to the companies to place the new rates in effect March 20, cutting down the required 30-day limit of announcement.

This new rate announcement is the direct result of steps taken by the public service commissions in various states to bring the intrastate rates into harmony with the new interstate system in effect Feb. 1 through a modification of the latter. The Massachusetts commission has been to the fore every time; it expects to receive the new printed tariffs from the New York headquarters of the express companies any day now.

This gives considerable cause for reflection in connection with the report from New York that the United States Express Company is deliberating on the wisdom of closing out its business. Such a conclusion to the radical decrease in profits to the express companies brought about through the change in rates introduced by the interstate commerce commission was prophesied by many as probable when the new system was announced.

Interstate rates are unchanged and the new rates affect a reduction only within a radius of about 40 miles. Boston rates remain the same, as they were the

BOSTON FIGURES SHOW INCREASE IN POSTAL SAVINGS

Statistics compiled by Postmaster Edward C. Mansfield and made public today show that the postal savings business in the Boston postoffice is increasing. During February 990 new accounts, for sums aggregating $111,725 were opened, and payments of $71,1818 were made. The business shows a slight falling off from the figures for January.

Since the system was inaugurated in this city, August 1, 1911, 31,882 accounts have been opened, upon which was deposited a total amount of $2,721,334.

POINCARE PLAN TO GIVE SPAIN KING'S ARMOR IS OPPOSED

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

PARIS—A small storm has arisen over the proposal of the President to present to the Madrid museum those parts of the armor of Philip II. of Spain which are preserved in Les Invalides.

The pieces are four in number and would complete the remainder of the suit which is preserved in America. The real value of them has been estimated at anything from f.1,000,000 to f.2,000,000.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS NAMED AS THIRD ASS'T. SEC. OF STATE

WASHINGTON—President Wilson today nominated William Phillips of Boston to be third assistant secretary of state, vice Dudley Field Malone. Mr. Phillips was formerly in the diplomatic service as secretary to former Ambassador Choate. He is a brother-in-law of Representative Peters of Massachusetts.

William Phillips was born in Beverly, Mass., May 30, 1878, and is a member of the diplomatic corps. He received his B. A. degree at Harvard in 1900, and after studying at Harvard law school for two and one half years, was appointed private secretary to the ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Great Britain in March, 1903. Mr. Phillips was appointed second secrtary to the legation in Peking, China, March 4, 1905, and appointed assistant to third assistant secretary of state in June, 1907.

He was appointed chief of the division of far eastern affairs of the department of state in March, 1908. Mr. Phillips is a member of the Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston, the Myopia Hunt Club of Hamilton and the Metropolitan Club of Washington.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS FALL OFF

WASHINGTON—Customs receipts for the entire United States for February fell off slightly more than $10,000,000, compared with the same month of 1913.

Among the special articles of particular, local interest there recently appeared one headed "Los Angeles' Port Is Made Known." The reading of these articles has given many readers a better knowledge of general conditions throughout the United States. GRANGE FAVORS LOCAL CONTROL OF THE DAIRIES

Seeks to Substitute Its Own Milk Inspection Bill for the Ellis Measure at Hearing Before Committee on Agriculture

ADVANCE ARGUMENTS

Representatives of the Massachusetts state grange came before the legislative committees on agriculture and public health, sitting jointly, today to offer the grange's milk inspection bill as a substitute for the Ellis milk bill.

William N. Howard of Easton, secretary of the state grange, explained that the substitute bill differed in two important particulars from the Ellis bill. The grange bill provides that the milk inspection work shall be done by the local health boards under the jurisdiction of the state board of health, while the Ellis bill, said Mr. Howard, puts the authority in the hands of the state board, the local boards to work under the direction of the central authority. It is a case of local authority in the question of sanitation regarding milk as against state control, the former method being favored by the grange.

The other difference of importance between the two measures comes in the sections regarding the appointment of five members to the state milk regulation board. Mr. Howard says that the grange believes that it should be authorized to appoint the two members of the proposed board who are "experienced in the production of milk." It further believes that the state health board should appoint the two medical men on the board, and that these four should choose the fifth, who is to be a sanitary specialist.

Under the Ellis bill all five would be appointed by the Governor.

Myron Pierce of Boston spoke in behalf of the Ellis bill, which is now being called by many the consumers' bill, as the special representative of the Massachusetts Milk Consumers League.

Former Representative Amos R. Saunders of Clinton was at the hearing to represent the Massachusetts Associated Boards of Health. He said this organization was taking no side on the question, but was represented merely to see that its rights in the matter of milk inspection were not curtailed.

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam said there are over 270 towns that have no milk inspectors, and that many local boards which have milk inspectors do very little dairy inspection. What the proponents of this bill want is an inspection of milk that shall be uniform and thorough, she said.

Dr. P. H. Mullowney of the Boston board of health told the committee that the Ellis bill had become a hardy perennial because this milk question had never been settled, and it never would be settled right, until the legislative committee reports a bill for a central authority to regulate the production and inspection. "As far as Boston is concerned," said the doctor, "we are satisfied that we have handled this problem of dairy inspection as well as it can be under existing laws and conditions."

Senator Ward of Buckland, chairman, said that as Boston pays one third of the state tax, and the expenditure under this bill by the state would be about $50,000, Boston's share would then be a little under $17,000. Dr. Mullowney said he thought $50,000 altogether too high and that the amount can be materially reduced.

BRITISH PRESS SEES MONROE DOCTRINE EXTENDED IN MEXICO

Discussing Benton Case, Some Papers Say Debarring Nations From Defending Interests Carries With It Declaration of Protectorate Over Continent

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

LONDON—Sir Edward Grey's statement on the Benton case, made yesterday to Parliament, sums up the situation as it at present exists. It is irritating, the Daily News, one of the government's supporters, points out, that a scoundrel should be able to murder a British subject with impunity, but anger should not drive Great Britain into dangerous courses.

Sir Edward Grey's policy is directed to just such an end. It leaves Villa and his party in an extremely uncomfortable position. If he is successful in his campaign he will have to deal with the British government and he will find it a very different thing to defy them from the interior than from Mexico City. If he is unsuccessful he will have to take his chance of evading the result of his conduct elsewhere.

The pretense that Villa acted in any sense legally may be said to have been cast to the winds.

One paper which is inclined to argue that Benton took his risks for his own ends and paid the penalty is the radical Nation. A British subject, it declares, who adventures life and property in search for riches in a semi-civilized country where disturbance is chronic does so at his own risk. The profits are commonly great and it is for him to balance them against the danger.

But even the Nation goes on to question President Wilson's extension of the Monroe doctrine. That doctrine was all very well, it writes, when it was intended to prevent European monarchies from establishing themselves on the American continent, but an interpretation which debars European nations from any action in South or Central America in order to defend their interests logically carries with it a declaration of a protectorate over the whole continent by the United States.

Sir Edward Grey made this perfectly plain. The influence America was capable of exerting was, he explained, owing to geography. It is hinted now, the Nation goes on, that the concessions granted to Europeans are a breach of the Monroe doctrine.

Such an interpretation would be found intolerable in action by European states and would inevitably promote the conflict it is intended to avert. A protectorate of that kind would be an oppression no less monstrous because it was exercised by a republic.

The Liberal Daily Chronicle takes very much the same ground. President Wilson's policy, it declares, is based on the principle that the United States is entitled to say who shall or shall not be the President of the government of any Pan-American republic, and that not on grounds of American interest, but on grounds strictly domestic to the republic in question.

He forbids other American states even to grant commercial concessions unless he approves.

Whether such a doctrine will be supported by American opinion, to say nothing of the opinion of Pan-America or Europe and Japan, remains to be seen, but there is a sense in which the United States are responsible for Benton's murder.

Villa obtained all his arms and supplies across the American frontier, because the President deliberately raised in his favor the embargo imposed by international law. He is enabled to keep his rebellion on foot partly for this reason, but chiefly because the United States government has forbidden European lenders to advance money to Huerta.

If this policy of the United States had not existed Benton would probably be alive today, and if he were not, speedy redress could be obtained by compelling the regular Mexican government to punish his murderer. It is thus really that the United States stands between the United Kingdom and redress.

These are the opinions of the principal ministerial papers after hearing Sir Edward Grey's statement in the House of Commons.

CABINET PLANS AUTONOMY FOR ULSTER PEOPLE

Practical Self-Government as to Administration, Probably With Way for Each County to Require Temporary Exclusion

STATEMENT INFORMAL

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

LONDON—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Asquith undertook to explain the amendments to the home rule bill to be recommended by the Government on Monday, when he will move a second reading of the bill.

The cabinet has not disclosed its intentions officially, but it has become known that the ministry's present intention is to offer to Ulster practical administrative autonomy, coupled, probably, with the opportunity for each county to require its exclusion, by a plebiscite, for a period not exceeding three years.

During this time, it is believed, a Parliament in Dublin will have demonstrated the fact that it has no intention of acting with any injustice to any part of the country.

PROMINENT MEN SIGN COVENANT IN ULSTER'S SUPPORT

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

LONDON—The British covenant in support of Ulster is now ready for signature by the public, and it is proposed that everybody signing it shall receive a parchment certificate and possibly a badge. Amongst those who yesterday subscribed to it were men like Sir Aston Webb, famous architect; Sir Almroth Wright, one of the heads of the medical profession, and Sir William Treloar, one of the best-known business men in the city.

These names are of course only representative of many. Walter Long also announces that the council of the Union Defense League, of which he is chairman, have authorized the use of the league for the collection of signatures to the declaration.

MR. WILSON GETS JOHN B. MOORE'S RESIGNATION

Was Counselor of State Department—May Go With Carnegie Foundation, Is Report—To Remain for Time at Capital

IN CONFERENCE TODAY

Consultation Is Held in White House With President Where Latest Phases of Mexican Situation Are Discussed

WASHINGTON—John Bassett Moore, counselor of the department of state resigned today. It is rumored that he is to become a member of the Carnegie foundation.

Professor Moore refused to discuss his resignation in advance of a statement from the White House. He said, however, that for the time being, he would remain in Washington, practising law.

President Wilson had a conference today with Counselor Moore, regarding the phases of international law in the Mexico case, especially matters involved in General Carranza's refusal to deal with the United States in matters relating to citizens of other countries.

John Bassett Moore came to the state department from Columbia University. He is known as a writer and lecturer on international law. His first appearance in diplomatic work was as third assistant secretary of state in President Cleveland's first administration when Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware was secretary of state Previous to that time, in 1885 and 1886, he had been a clerk in the department of state. He was graduated from the University of Virgina in 1880.

In 1898 he was appointed first assistant secretary of state by President McKinley, succeeding William L. Day, now a justice of the supreme court, when Mr. Day succeeded John Sherman as secretary of state. He was present at the White House at the signing of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain at the close of the Spanish war.

When he came to the department again in 1913 from Columbia, where he had been Hamilton Fish professor of international law and diplomacy, he succeeded Chandler P. Anderson who had occupied temporarily the place made for the late Henry M. Hoyl.

Professor Moore is the author of many books on international law.

CARRANZA NAMES OWN BOARD FOR BENTON INQUIRY

NOGALES, Sonora, Mex.—A commission to investigate the Benton case has been appointed by General Carranza. The decision was taken after a long session of the provisional cabinet.

The members of the commission are Ramon Fraustro, constitutionalist military attorney-general; Miguel Silva, physician and former Governor of the state of Michcacan, and Miguel Lara, attorney and former Governor of Hidalgo. These three men, it was explained, already are on their way to Juarez by way of El Paso, although they have not been advised of their mission there.

George C. Carothers, American consular agent at Torreon, arrived yesterday.

WASHINGTON—President Wilson had a conference today with Counselor Moore of the state department, regarding the phases of international law involved in General Carranza's refusal to deal with the United States in matters relating to citizens of other countries.

Portugal Watches State and Church Division Move

DISCUSSION OF LAW URGED BY LARGE ELEMENT

People's Interest in Outcome of Debate on Question Keen, as Regarding Amnesty of Political Prisoners—Premier's Aim

MOTIVES FOR CABINET

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)

LISBON, Portugal—Ever since the formation of the Republic in Portugal reports of the instability of the government have been freely circulated. To say that in spite of these reports the country has continued to prosper, that trade has improved, and that general progress is manifest, is sufficient proof of the inaccuracy of the statements. The present situation is of considerable interest to those who have followed carefully the growth of the young Republic.

In view of the pessimistic view taken by some of its contemporaries, a representative of The Christian Science Monitor availed himself of the opportunity of discussing the situation with a Portuguese diplomatist whose knowledge of affairs is indisputable. Although taking the keenest interest in the politics of his country, this gentleman possesses little if any political party bias, and is therefore able to consider the situation from an independent point of view. In the course of conversation he traced events as they have occurred since the formation of the Chamber of Deputies under the present government. This Chamber, he pointed out, was divided into three parties, namely, the Democratic, of which Senhor Costa was the leader; the Unionist, led by Brito Camacho, and the Evolutionist party, under Senhor Almeido. With a Chamber of this composition it was clear that no party was sufficiently strong to take a definite lead. An effort was consequently made to form a cabinet of ministers representing all parties. This cabinet was but short lived, for Senhor Costa had the largest following, added to which public opinion was mostly in his favor.

Recognizing that the majority supported Costa, Senhor Camacho waived any chances he might have had of subsequently gaining a majority, and offered his support to Senhor Costa. Senhor Camacho, it should be stated, made absolutely no terms with Senhor Costa, and demanded nothing in return. He merely supported Senhor Costa because he considered that in so doing he would be rendering a real service to his country. With this additional support, therefore, Senhor Costa was enabled to form a ministry at the commencement of last year, and, always thanks to Senhor Camacho, he remained in office until the by-elections took place. On this occasion 37 elections were held, the results of 35 being in favor of Senhor Costa's party, and two of the members returned supporting Senhor Camacho. With this increased support Senhor Costa had now a definite majority independently of Senhor Camacho's support in the Chamber of Deputies. Meanwhile, it should be noted that the opposition were in the majority in the Senate.

So long as Senhor Costa owed his majority to the support of Senhor Camacho, the former was in a position to refuse to yield to the demands of the extremists of his party, since if he were to yield it was obvious he would lose Camacho's support. As soon, however, as Senhor Costa was independent of Senhor Camacho and his party—that is, after the by elections referred to—he had no further excuse for opposing the extremists, and was, therefore, forced into following a line of policy with regard to home affairs which proved unsatisfactory to the opposition, who still had a majority in the Senate and therefore did everything in their power to oppose the government.

It should be noted that according to the constitution, any measure passed by the Chamber of Deputies, but thrown out by the Senate, must be reconsidered at a joint meeting of both houses. Owing to this clause in the constitution, an interesting and complicated situation arose, for Senhor Costa, possessing so substantial a majority in the Chamber of Deputies, controlled also the majority of votes when the two chambers met in joint conference.

Change of Government

According to another clause in the constitution, the Senate has power to nominate colonial governors without any reference to the Chamber of Deputies with regard to the matter. If, therefore, for any reason, it is necessary for a colonial governor to be provisionally appointed by the government, the appointment must be ratified by the Senate when it next meets. It so happened that a colonial governor was provisionally nominated during a parliamentary recess, and the Senate subsequently declined to ratify the appointment. It was this action which led to Senhor Costa's resignation. He considered the refusal of the Senate to ratify the appointment as a distinct rebuff. He decided, therefore, to adopt the dangerous policy of attempting to deprive the Senate of their prerogative at a joint meeting of both Chambers at which his party would be in the majority. The opposition immediately declared, however, that Senhor Costa was determined to violate the constitution. This led to the premier's resignation. His party, nevertheless, still possessed a majority of votes in the Chamber, as well as at the joint meetings of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies. It was, therefore, evident that there were two alternatives, either another Democratic minister must be asked to form a cabinet, or a non-party premier must be elected who would be agreeable to all parties in the Chamber.

DR. BERNARDINO MACHADO

Portuguese premier

Senhor Bernardino Machado, Portuguese ambassador at Brazil, was then about to return and take his seat in the Senate. This gentleman had been foreign minister during the provisional government, but for some time had taken no active part in politics. It was, therefore, decided that Senhor Machado should be requested to form a ministry, and since the opposition insisted upon a general amnesty of political prisoners and the discussion of the law of separation between state and church, Senhor Machada undertook the task of forming a ministry, the members of which agreed to support both these proposals. As a matter of fact, he was unable to form an independent ministry, but, with the assistance of the Democrats and other sections of the opposition, he was successful in forming a ministry of which the majority are Democrats, three or four being independent. The present ministry, with Senhor Machado as premier, therefore, represents more the Democratic than any other party. Meanwhile the outcome of the debates on the two questions referred to above, is being awaited with the utmost interest throughout Portugal.

NORWAY WOMEN SHOW THEIR CIVIC PRIDE BY LARGE VOTE

Number Taking Part in Elections Is Said to Indicate They Will Use Franchise if Given Opportunity—Show Large Percentage of Registered at the Polls

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—"The Woman's Movement in Norway" is the title of an article by Marie Blehr Schlytter appearing in a recent issue of the New Statesman.

The fact that in 1912 political suffrage was granted to women on the same terms as to men, and that in the same year the Norwegian Parliament opened public positions and offices to women, with the exception of positions in the cabinet, the state church and the diplomatic service, makes the history of the women's suffrage movement in that country of great interest to other nations.

It was in 1884 that Norwegian men first secured suffrage on a broad basis. That year saw the birth of democracy in the country. It was a time, says Marie Schlytter, teeming with new thoughts and aspirations. Literary geniuses gave form to problems dimly shaping themselves. Ibsen wrote the "Doll's House" and Bjornson "The Gauntlet," works which were destined to exercise an influence throughout the world, and to open up problems even more far reaching than woman suffrage.

In the same year, 1884, in which the men won their political rights, the Association for Women's Rights was formed, strangely enough through the efforts of a man. The great victory of the women's suffrage movement was won when the "Left" party (the Progressives) in 1906 put on their program political suffrage for women on the same terms as those of the municipal franchise granted in 1901. They won the election and the measure was carried in 1909. Their participation was then as follows:

Persons on the Register,	1909	Per cent voting. Country districts	Cities
Men	485,000	65.7	72.7
Women	295,000	46.7	73.2

At the next election the figures were as follows:

Persons on the Register,	1912	Per cent voting. Country districts	Cities
Men	502,000	67.7	72.0
Women	325,000	50.0	73.8

These figures, as the writer of the article points out, constitute the most powerful argument to show that women will use their political rights when given a chance to do so. In the election campaign of 1912 full and equal political rights for women figured on the program of every party, and political suffrage for women on the same terms as men was carried unanimously.

One point is brought out very clearly in Marie Schlytter's article, and that is that when first political rights were demanded by women in Norway, the demand was only made by a few. The women leaders demanded the franchise and the men found the demand just. The fear was expressed by a good many of the leaders of the Left that women would in many ways prove a reactionary element. Since, however, the matter was one of justice, they agreed that the reform must come. Events have since proved that their fears were unfounded.

(Special to the Monitor)

PARIS, France—M. Lutaud, governor-general of Algeria, has opened a course of instruction in native affairs for the special benefit of officials and military officers whose duties bring them into contact with the native races.

The work carried out by these functionaries is of a complicated and delicate nature, needing a knowledge of conditions which it is impossible for a newcomer to possess. It is in order to remedy this inexperience that M. Lutaud has devised the organization of classes which will be held by university professors, staff officers, interpreters, and also by officials of the woods and forests and customs administrations.

The curriculum of the classes will cover a variety of subjects such as the history of North Africa and of Muhammadan civilization, the Islamic code, the penal code and the Arab and Berber languages.

DECLINE IN COST OF LIVING IS PREDICTED BY BRITISH EDITOR

Sir George Paish Says Completion of Such Great Works as Panama Canal and Termination of Wars on Continent Will Tend to Lower Price of Necessities

(Special to the Monitor)

MANCHESTER, England—Sir George Paish, the editor of the Statist, read a paper lately before the Manchester Statistical Society on "The Cost of Living: Will It Be Maintained."

Touching on the political consequences of the high cost of living, Sir George Paish pointed out that in the United States it had contributed to the defeat of the Republican party, and to the passing of legislation aimed at the reform of the banking system of the country and the reduction of the tariff.

In Germany, where taxation was mainly placed upon the masses when the cost of living was low, the burden of the expenditure under the new army law had fallen on the wealthy classes as the result of the rise in the cost of living. The urgent need of the French government to raise further revenue without adding to the cost of living led to a tax upon incomes instead of taxes upon imports.

In England, he continued, the rise of prices had drawn attention to the desirability of increasing the productivity of the soil by various means, including the creation of a large number of small holdings, the cultivation and improvement of derelict lands, the erection of cottages, and an advance in the rate of wages of agricultural laborers.

The economic consequences of the high cost of living had also been remarkable. The burden of higher prices had fallen mainly on the manufacturing classes, districts, and countries of the world, and everywhere there had been agitation in order to bring about advances in wages which would compensate workers for the higher cost of living.

The advance in prices, on the other hand, had brought immense advantage to the agricultural districts and classes. In the last 10, and particularly in the last seven years farmers, pastoralists, and planters had enjoyed very great prosperity.

Sir George Paish then gave a series of tables showing that since 1906 Great Britain had supplied colonial and other states with upwards of £1,100,000,000 of new capital, and that the whole of this money had gone to the countries which, for the most part, supplied the food and raw materials needed to maintain the growing population of the United Kingdom.

At the moment there were indications that prices would decline for a time owing to the completion of such great works as the Panama canal which had caused an exceptional demand for capital and labor, and owing to the termination of the wars on the continent. At the present moment and for some months prices had, therefore, shown a tendency to decline. At the end of March last the index number of 45 commodities was 86.7, and at the end of January it was 83.5, a decline of nearly 4 per cent. Probably the fall in prices would be more pronounced at the end of the year

LONDON SCHOOL OF ORIENTAL LANGUAGES SOON TO BE OPENED

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The School of Oriental Languages in London will be established under royal charter pending its incorporation in the University of London. The government have intimated that they will approve the school forming part of London University after the passing of an act embodying substantially the recommendations of Lord Haldane's university commission.

As already mentioned Professor Simpson's plans for the repairing and alteration of the buildings of the London institution in Finsbury-circus have been approved, and it is hoped that the work will be completed early next year. The cost of the scheme will be £14,000 annually, according to the calculations of Lord Cromer's committee and of this sum £4000 will be provided by the government and £1250 from Indian revenues by the Indian office.

An appeal is to be issued for an endowment fund and for annual grants and subscriptions for the purpose of securing the further £8500 required annually. The appeal will be inaugurated by a Mansion House meeting held under the presidency of the lord mayor on Wednesday, May 6, at which Lord Cromer and Lord Curzon will speak.

ACADEMY VOTE IS SAID TO SHOW FRENCH THOUGHT

Triple Election Results in Naming M. Bergson, M. Capus and M. de la Gorce for the Ranks of the "Immortals"

CONTEST ANALYZED

(Special to the Monitor)

PARIS, France—The triple election to the membership of the French Academy has resulted as cabled to the Monitor, in the nomination of M. Bergson, philosopher, M. Capus, dramatist and journalist, and M. de la Gorce, historian, to the ranks of the "immortals." Contrary to all expectations, the election did not take more than 35 minutes. It was attended by the President of the Republic and 30 other academicians.

The victory of M. Bergson and M. Capus over their rivals, M. Bourgeois and M. de Pomairols, is extremely interesting for the indication which it gives of the tendencies of French thought at the present time.

The defeat of M. Bourgeois, the Grand Old Man of Radicalism, points to the fact that the academy has lost none of its reactionary tendencies. M. Capus, his successful opponent, though a reactionary, is a decided optimist. His saying, which has been adopted into French speech, "Tout s'arrange," illustrates a mental attitude which will always be found looking on the bright side of things. His best known play is "La Veine."

As a journalist, M. Capus has won a reputation by his articles in the Figaro, which are appreciated by a large number of readers. M. Bergson's victory over M. de Pomairol, the poet, who, it was said, was strongly supported by the Catholic and reactionary members of the academy, is another clear proof of the remarkable renaissance of philosophy in France. It had been affirmed that M. Bergson's candidature to the academy was not likely to succeed because of his Jewish descent, and that it was improbable that the academy would elect another philosopher to its ranks after having so recently admitted M. Boutroux. These anticipations have proved totally incorrect, and M. Bergson has the satisfaction of adding to his other distinctions that of a seat among the "immortals."

TASMANIA ROADS RECEIPTS SHOWN

(Special to the Monitor)

HOBART, Tasmania—The report of the commissioner of railways for the year ending June 30, 1913, was tabled in Parliament recently, and is a very satisfactory document. The receipts for the year were £327,113, and working expenses £217,357, showing a profit over working expenses of £109,756.

PEASANT ARTS FELLOWSHIP HAS LONDON MEETING

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The Peasant Arts Fellowship held its second annual meeting at Morley hall, George street, Hanover square, recently. In the report it was stated that the fellowship had mainly engaged in the holding of social evenings and lectures and of spinning and weaving classes in various parts of the country, as well as in the circulation of papers.

The president of the meeting, Lord Henry Cavendish Bentinck, said that the object of their work was to get back for the people the pleasure in their work and to encourage their capacity for reflection.

G. Sandeman said the society was endeavoring to revive the perception of the significance and beauty of lowly work done by humble people, a principle which was an essential of Christianity but which seemed to have been forgotten.

British Labor Men Urge Nationalization of Railways

RESOLUTIONS OF CONGRESS HEARD BY MR. ASQUITH

In Discussion of Electoral Reform Premier Declares Emphatically That Government Will Not Bring in Woman Suffrage Bill

ARMAMENT A TOPIC

LONDON—A deputation of the parliamentary committee of the trades union congress waited upon the prime minister recently in his private room at the House of Commons, and submitted a number of resolutions passed at the congress at Manchester.

A resolution in favor of nationalization of railways was dealt with by A. G. Walkden, who contended that in every country where the railways had been nationalized the condition of railway employees had improved as a result. He admitted, however, in reply to a question by Mr. Asquith that he could not name one country where the conditions were so good as they were in England.

The question of electoral reform was discussed by Mr. Sexton, and H. Elvin brought forward a resolution in favor of women's enfranchisement. Mr. Asquith interjected an emphatic declaration in the course of Mr. Elvin's speech to the effect that the government would not bring in a bill dealing with the enfranchisement of women.

In bringing to Mr. Asquith's notice a resolution condemning compulsory military service and the growth of armaments, which he said was backed by 6,500,000 trade unionists, J. A. Seddon declared that a royal commission was required to inquire into the interlocking or financial relationships of the various companies supplying implements of war to the British government with other companies and combines supplying the governments of other countries with similar profitable and deadly accessories to national hatred. Further, he said, trade unionists held that men who were in receipt of pensions should be prevented from joining those companies which were largely responsible for the inflated navy they had today.

Replying to the various points raised, Mr. Asquith remarked that much of the ground covered had been covered before. On the question of nationalizing the railways he pointed out that such a step would be inevitably followed by two sets of not easily reconcilable demands. There would be a demand on the part of the railway employees for shorter hours of labor and higher rates of wages, and there would be a demand on the part of the trading community for a reduction of rates. It was not assuming an attitude of laissez faire to point that out. He did not say that these demands might not in the long run prove to be reconcilable.

The step they had taken in appointing a royal commission to go into the whole question was an important and substantial advance, and they must leave the further consideration of what they must agree was not an easy question until they had the advantage of the inquiry and report of that body.

After some remarks on the subject of electoral reform Mr. Asquith turned to the question of armaments. He had expressed his opinion emphatically, he said, as to the grievous burden which the present expenditure imposed upon all European countries, and the check which it gave to the natural growth of industry and prosperity by the diversion into unproductive channels of money which ought to be productively employed. It was not any satisfaction to those whose ambitions were set upon social reform, to ask large sacrifices from the taxpayers for the purpose of maintaining military and naval security. Security they must have. Without security of trade their worldwide interests in the rest of the empire, and their national interests at home, were all imperiled and might in time become impossible. He adhered to the view that the true remedy, if a remedy were to be found for that state of things, must be discovered in the concerted and combined action, not only of governments, but, what was still more important, of the peoples. They, after all, were the persons who were responsible.

In these days the spirit and practise of democracy, however much it might be disguised, was practically universal. Intelligent public opinion, if sincere, well-organized, and intelligent in its operation and application, seemed to be the best way of escape from a state of things which none more than those responsible for the government of nations had at heart.

SUBMARINES FOR AUSTRALIA READY

(Special to the Monitor)

PORTSMOUTH, Eng.—The Australian submarine A. E. 1 was recently joined at Portsmouth by the A. E. 2, which came from Barrow. Both submarines were built at Barrow by Vickers, Ltd., and both have a length of 176 feet and displacement of 800 tons. Their surface speed is 16 knots and they have a submerged speed of 12 knots. They will be taken from Portsmouth to Singapore by a British warship and thence to Sydney by an Australian warship.

GLASGOW COMMERCE CHAMBER SEEKS SPECIAL NEW YORK MAIL

Withdrawal of the Saturday Afternoon Service Because Cunard Steamers No Longer Stop at Queenstown Said to Work Hardship—Convention Plans

(Special to the Monitor)

GLASGOW, Scotland—The Glasgow Chamber of Commerce is arranging for the visit to Glasgow of the Association of Chambers of Commerce, which will take place in the first week in August. This date should not only suit local conditions but also be a convenient one for visitors from the south who may wish to combine attendance at the conference with a trip north to enjoy the beauties of the highlands, at that season abloom with heather. The guarantee fund for the visit amounts to £3300.

A communication from the Glasgow Corn Trade Association reported a resolution arrived at by a conference of various trading industries in the city that the strike clauses proposed by the International Shipping Federation for insertion in bills of lading were arbitrary and imposed a serious liability on owners of cargo in circumstances which they could not control. It was therefore resolved by the conference to give the proposal their strenuous opposition. A resolution to the same effect has been sent by the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce for the consideration of the Association of Chambers of Commerce at their meeting in March.

Regarding the action of the chamber in requesting a special mail from Glasgow to New York by the Anchor line steamers, a letter to the postmaster explains that this is done in consequence of the withdrawal of the regular Saturday afternoon mail, owing to the Cunard steamers no longer calling for mails at Queenstown (Ireland) on Sunday mornings. The United States mail now closes at 9.15 a.m. instead of 1.15 p.m. as formerly. Practically letters have thus to be ready by Friday night. Steamers receive cargo up to noon on Friday, and documents can hardly be completed and sent off the same night. Invoices of goods for America must be certified by the American consul, and this can only be done when the goods are actually on board.

The proposed Anchor line mail service would allow the mail to close at 1 p.m. which would admit of letters arriving on Saturday morning, the usual time of the incoming American mail, getting answer by return instead of long and inconvenient delay. The arrangement would therefore be a great advantage to the trade and commerce, not only at Glasgow and Scotland generally, but also to exporters in the north of Ireland.

DECORATIONS ARE PRESENTED BY KING GEORGE

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The King recently held an investiture at Buckingham Palace at which decorations for acts of gallantry were presented to many members of the police force throughout the country, to members of the London fire brigade, and to several others.

Among those decorated was Cecil de Sivrac Dunn, who showed conspicuous gallantry at Dul Madoba on Aug. 9, 1913, in the engagement between a detachment of the Somaliland Camel Constabulary and followers of the Somaliland Mullah.

GERMANY WINS AVIATION RECORDS FROM THE FRENCH

(Special to the Monitor)

BERLIN, Germany—For the moment German airmen are achieving greater success in the various branches of flying than Frenchmen, whereas formerly the reverse was the case. Attention has been drawn to this matter lately in France and appeals have been made in that country for the allocation of funds to encourage French aviation.

Records which have hitherto been held by Frenchmen are passing one by one into the hands of Germans, the latest being the world's record for an ascent with passengers, which has just been captured by the German airman Thelen. Flying at Johannisthal with four passengers the latter ascended to a height of 2850 meters, which is 100 meters higher than the previous record held by the Frenchman Garaix.

Thelen piloted an Albatross biplane with a 100 horsepower Mercedes motor, and the flight occupied 75 minutes.

CUNARD COMPANY SAID TO BE READY FOR GRADE SYSTEM

(Special to the Monitor)

LIVERPOOL, England—It is understood that the directors of the Cunard line are about to introduce an extremely important innovation with regard to the preponderating section of the different office staffs. This will be known as the grading system, and will apply, it is said, to the head office at Liverpool and the other principal branch offices in England, on the continent, and in America.

Further particulars of the system will be given later, but it may be stated that the grading plan, while making for the highest form of efficiency in departmental work, will offer pronounced advantages to employees. It is understood that A. A. Booth, the chairman, and A. D. Mearns, the general secretary, have given considerable thought and time to this new organization.

UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR AT VIENNA LEASES RESIDENCE

(Special to the Monitor)

VIENNA, Austria—Mr. Penfield, the American ambassador to the Austro-Hungarian court, has at last succeeded in finding a suitable residence. There are very few American embassies which can boast of a permanent home of their own.

The lease which Mr. Kerens, his predecessor at Vienna, held of the Rothschild Palace in the Prince Eugen street has expired, and Mr. and Mrs. Penfield had great difficulty in obtaining the lease of a representative house. They had to hold their first official reception in the industrial hall on the Schwarzenberg Platz a short time ago.

Mr. Penfield has, however, secured the palatial house which the banker Herr Zichrer bought some years ago in the Alleegasse and which he had had thoroughly modernized and beautifully decorated. Herr Zichrer recently sold the house to Baron Louis Rothschild, who let it on lease to Mr. Penfield.

The park of the American embassy and the Rothschild Palace in the Prince Eugen street adjoin. The first floor of the house will be made into reception rooms and the second floor is reserved for the private use of the ambassador and his family. The offices of the American embassy are in the immediate neighborhood of the Palais Toskana.

BELGIAN SOCIETY APPEALS FOR AID ON THE HOUSING PROBLEM

(Special to the Monitor)

GHENT, Belgium—The Belgian association for the improvement of workingmen's quarters recently held its annual meeting in Brussels. The session was presided over by Mr. Velghe, president of the society, assisted by Messrs. Soenens, judge of the court of appeals for infants, Deffon, Alphonse le Clercq and Louis Andre, well-known lawyers, as well as H. Henrard, chief of the department of justice.

In opening the meeting the president expressed the thanks of the association to Her Majesty the Queen of the Belgians, who had honored the association with her patronage, and in an interesting discourse set forth the conditions prevailing in Belgium in the matter of housing accommodation for the workingman, emphasizing the importance of a prompt and satisfactory solution of the problem.

In concluding he directed an urgent appeal to the various committees interested in this matter to make strenuous efforts towards insuring the success of the fete which is to be given in support of the movement in Brussels.

BUTTER EXPORTS FROM AUSTRALIA CONTINUE LARGE

(Special to the Monitor)

MELBOURNE, Victoria—During the week ending Jan. 11, 23,797 boxes of butter in bulk, weighing 595 tons, were inspected in Victoria for ports beyond the commonwealth. Of these boxes 16,197 were of salted and 7800 were of unsalted butter. The entire quantity was destined for export to the United Kingdom.

The actual exports of butter during the same period totaled 514 tons of which the approximate value was £56,540. During the month of December 1913 a total of 3746¼ tons of butter was exported as compared with 2608¾ tons for the same month of 1912. During the six months ending December, 429,699 boxes weighing 10,910¾ tons were inspected in Victoria for ports beyond the Commonwealth.

In the same period the actual exports totalled 10,252¼ tons of which the approximate value was £1,127,748, and of this quantity the United Kingdom received 9668 tons while 95 tons went to South Africa and 489¼ tons to eastern and other ports.

EXCHANGE PLAN FOR TEACHERS PLEASES GERMANS

(Special to the Monitor)

BERLIN, Germany—The Prussian-American system of exchanging school teachers has proved an unqualified success, so much so indeed that Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg and other German states are urging an extension of the scheme.

The America institute of Berlin is interesting itself actively in the matter, and before long it seems fairly certain that the exchange system will be in force all over Germany. During the past year Prussia sent out seven male teachers to American high schools, whilst 10 American teachers were assigned to Prussian schools, the majority being sent to Berlin.

Since the inauguration of the exchange in 1907, 32 American teachers have been placed for a year in Prussian schools, and 30 Prussian teachers have passed a year in American scholastic institutions.

BRITISH WOMEN AGAIN ACTIVE IN SUFFRAGE WORK

Statement of Miss Phyllis Brady as to Forcible Feeding Said to Differ in Complexion From That of Bishop of London

FRENCH ORGANIZING

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)

LONDON—There can be no doubt at all that the women's suffrage campaign has entered upon another extremely active phase. Mrs. Pankhurst was barely back in London from her stay in Switzerland before a fierce struggle took place in the vicinity of her house in Camden Hill square between the militants and the police. A full account of the occurrence was cabled to the Monitor at the time.

The episode of the visits of the Bishop of London to Holloway is an entirely unsatisfactory one. On his second visit the Bishop interviewed Miss Kitty Marion and Miss Phyllis Brady. He states that they neither of them accused the officials of administering forcible feeding or cruelty, but he also states that they both complained of sufferings caused by the process.

These complaints were serious enough for the Bishop to consider it his duty to lay them before the home office. Miss Brady was visited by her solicitor two days after her interview with the Bishop. Her statement on that one occasion is published by the Suffragette and differs, if not in actual words, at any rate in complexion, to that made public by the Bishop of London. Wanton cruelty on the part of the officials responsible for forcibly feeding the prisoners has not been proved, but nothing changes the fact that forcible feeding is being practised on women in His Majesty's prisons. That the operation is revolting, painful and harmful has been vouched for by persons eminently competent to form an opinion.

Incendiarism caused, it is said, by militant suffragists, is responsible for the destruction of a small public library at Northfield, a suburb of Birmingham. An attempt has also been made to destroy Moor Hall Green, a house belonging to the Chamberlain family.

The great part taken by Glasgow in the support of the cause of women's suffrage was referred to recently at a large meeting held by the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies and the Glasgow Society for Women's Suffrage.

Mrs. Fawcett, president of the National Union, who was in the chair, said that women felt a great debt of gratitude to the municipality of Glasgow. Three years ago they had been the first to petition Parliament in favor of the conciliation bill. Now they had gone a step further when, by a majority of 60 to 27, they had agreed to send a deputation to wait on the prime minister to lay before him their view in support of the extension of the parliamentary franchise to women. Though the prime minister was apt to refuse a request made by voteless women, he could hardly decline a request coming from the great municipalities.

A second society for the promotion of the cause of women suffrage in France has been formed. It is to be known as the Ligue Nationale pour le Vote des Femmes. This association will assume a distinctly more militant tone to that of the other suffragist society, the Union Francaise pour le Suffrage des Femmes. The new league will carry on a vigorous campaign at the approaching general elections.

IRISH HOME RULE UNDER RESTRAINT SAYS MR. HEALY

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—Speaking recently at the United Empire Club on the imperial aspect of the Irish question, T. M. Healy, M. P., referred to the statement, made by several Unionist speakers, to the effect that General Botha's recent action in transporting labor leaders was but an instance of what would be possible in Ireland under an Irish Parliament.

Mr. Healy declared the statement to be a "new terror." So careful, he said, had the government been in the drafting of the home rule bill that the imperial executive would still continue to exist, and that if an Irish Parliament committed any folly of that kind, the imperial Parliament would repeal its legislation.

PEOPLE'S THEATER PROJECT IS TO BE TESTED IN LONDON

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The management of the Victoria theater have given Miss Rosina Philippi the free use of the theater for four days in the week during April in order that she may test the amount of support which would be given to a people's theater. If the experiment prove successful Miss Philippi will be given the use of the theater in September for a whole season.

Matheson Lang who is extremely interested in the venture has offered to lend Miss Philippi scenery and costumes for three plays. The performances will consist chiefly of Shakespeare plays. Opera will also be given.

ATLANTIC MOTOR LINER LAUNCHED FROM GLASGOW

(Special to the Monitor)

GLASGOW, Scotland—There was launched recently from the Glasgow yards of Messrs. Harland & Wolff, Ltd., an internal combustion engined liner built by that firm for the Atlantic Transport line. The vessel is intended for the Atlantic service.

The Mississippi, as the vessel is called, will be fitted with two four-stroke cycle, single-acting Diesel engines, each coupled direct to its line of shafting, and two four-stroke, cycle, single-acting auxiliary Diesel engines, each coupled direct to its dynamo and air-compressor. The normal horse power will be 1600 i.h.p. for each engine.

The new vessel is 383ft. 9in. long and has a beam of 50ft. 4in. Its gross tonnage is about 5000 tons.

WOOL EXPORTS OF AUSTRALIA DROP

(Special to the Monitor)

MELBOURNE, Australia—It is anticipated that the quantity of wool available for sale in the Australian market during the current half year will amount to over 450,000 bales. During December last the amount of wool exported showed a sudden drop, the figures for the half year ended Dec. 31, showing an increase of only 63,896 bales as compared with 100,367 bales at the end of November.

Present Commission Is Doing Work of Broad Scope in Making System One of Finest and Most Varied in United States

METHODS ADVANCED

Griffith Reservation, Third Largest in Nation, Being Developed With Paths and Roads—Has 30-Mile Drive

SCENERY IMPRESSIVE

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Vigorous efforts for effective development of the park system of this city by the present park commission are showing results which arouse enthusiasm among both residents and visitors. This commission came into office three or four years ago and has worked and still is working persistently for the advancement of the work, of which it has charge.

The city contains about 25 named parks, besides several unnamed triangles at street intersections. The total area of the park property is approximately 4100 acres, three quarters of which is embraced in Griffith park. The larger and more important, with their acreage, are: Griffith park, 3015 acres; Elysian park, 748 acres; Exposition park, 117 acres; East Lake park, 45 acres; West Lake park, 32 acres; Echo park, 29 acres; Hollenbeck park, 20 acres; Sycamore Grove park, 19 acres; South park, 18 acres; Sunset park, 11 acres; Central square, five acres.

Grant From Spanish King

Probably the best known park in Los Angeles is Central square. With its fountain, evergreen lawns and splendid specimens of tropical trees it is regarded as one of the most beautiful formal squares in America. It is situated in the heart of the business district and is the only park area of the sort lying within the downtown section of the city. Its reconstruction from a run-down village park to a dignified city square was among the first pieces of work performed by the present commission. Central square has a great deal of historical interest. It is the oldest of the city parks and was a portion of the original grant to the pueblo of Los Angeles by Charles II. of Spain, in 1781.

Exposition park, which is being constructed through the joint efforts of the city, county and state, is expected to be, when completed, one of the finest formal parks in America and the most elaborate park of similar area in the West. The country art and natural history museum, with its famous collection of fossils discovered in local oil beds, is located within this area. Here also is the state exposition building where all forms of California products are exhibited and for whose maintenance the state appropriates $30,000 a year. The state armory also will be located here and is at present in course of construction. The park contains a 20-acre playground and athletic field. This field is to include a sunken concrete stadium. A $60,000 steel and concrete grandstand, the gift of C. A. Canfield, has recently been erected by the park department. Later a clubhouse and locker building, with an outdoor swimming pool in connection, is to be constructed.

On "El Camino Feliz" (the Happy road) in Griffith park

A striking feature of this park is the architectural effect secured by the arrangement of the three buildings, which are of the same material and style, all of great architectural beauty, and are grouped about three sides of a quadrangle, which contains a sunken garden. In the center of this garden is to be located the memorial fountain commemorating the completion of the Los Angeles aqueduct.

One Reconstructed

Eastlake park is the most popular and the most used. During two years it has been in process of a complete reconstruction, the work being at present nearly finished. Eastlake is among the oldest of the system and the magnificent specimens of tropical trees and the areas of lawn give it a charm perhaps greater than that of any other park in the city.

It has contained for many years the city conservatories and greenhouses, and a complete new plant is being built to replace the old buildings. This new range is composed entirely of fireproof materials and, it is said, will be practically indestructible. This conservatory is called one of the finest in the United States and, it is claimed, will be the largest and most elaborate public plant of the kind west of Chicago. This conservatory has been designed and built by the park department with its own force of workers and at a cost of approximately $80,000.

Griffith park, with its area of 3015 acres, the largest of the city park areas, is rated as the third largest park in America, being exceeded in size, it is said, only by Fairmount park in Philadelphia and the Blue Hills reservation in Boston. The scenery in Griffith park is said to be more varied than can be found in any other city park in the United States, and includes high mountains, deep canyons, open meadows and heavily wooded river bottoms.

From the roads and trails splendid views are obtained also of the distant mountains on one hand and of the sea on the other. There are forests here of native trees of large size, and the shrubs and flowers native to southern California are found in abundance.

The work of developing this park was begun three years ago, and a great deal already has been accomplished. Some 12 miles of road has been built and the park department at present is cutting six miles of additional roadway through the mountains on the southern side of the park.

This new road will connect with the portion already complete and form a 17-mile circuit of the park, completing what is to be known as "El Camino Feliz" (the Happy road), which will be one of the finest scenic park drives in America. In addition to the roads, five miles of bridle trails and several miles of foot trails have been opened, while numerous picnic grounds, supplied with tables, seats, cooking furnaces and drinking water, have been constructed. A complete water system has been installed with several reservoirs, pumping plants and many miles of main and supply pipes furnishing water to every section of the grounds.

Zoo Is Planned

A beginning has been made in this park of what is destined to be a great open-air zoo, with animals kept as nearly as possible under natural conditions. A permanent range of bear dens is completed and a number of temporary cages and corrals have been built to house the large collection of animals formerly kept in Eastlake park.

One of the features planned for Griffith park is a public country club. This will consist of a large and well appointed club house with adjacent athletic grounds, tennis courts, golf course and open-air swimming pool. All these will be entirely free to the public.

A project is at present before the city which looks to the acquisition of two great parkways in the Silver lake and Arroyo Seco valleys. The lands for these parkways are being condemned and when secured and developed will form the principal features of a great parkway drive leading from the federal forest reserve north of Pasadena, through the cities of Pasadena and South Pasadena by way of Elysian park and Wilshire boulevard, to Santa Monica and the sea. This will form a continuous park road more than 30 miles long.

Administration and maintenance of these parks is a large and complicated business. The inventory of the department for the present year shows real estate, buildings, equipment and supplies valued at $9,911,728. In the fiscal year just ended the department paid out $313,168, approximately $1000 for every working day. Of this amount $250,200 was the budget allowance of the city council, the balance being from private gift, department revenue, special appropriation or receipts for work performed for other city departments.

Equipment Large

The park department employs 250 men and 100 head of stock and owns much rolling stock and machinery. The department also owns and operates two fertilizer plants which manufacture yearly 800 tons of fertilizer from refuse which the department receives free. It also operates a nursery which propagates more than 500,000 plants and trees annually; owns two blacksmith shops, three pumping plants and a well equipped store and warehouse; it maintains a permanent, well organized construction force of skilled mechanics and artisans, and all building and construction work of every kind formerly done by private contract, is performed by this force. So great is the saving effected that the park department, almost continuously throughout the year, is called on to perform construction work for other city departments.

In all its work the department maintains an accurate cost accounting system, all work being carefully estimated and performed according to and the final cost checked against approved work orders. An exact system of apportioning maintenance and standardizing labor units has been worked out so that a large saving has been effected in maintenance costs, which saving has been applied to permanent improvements.

Of the total expenditure for the past year, 57 per cent has gone into permanent improvements, as against an average of 13 per cent previous to the regime of the present park commission.

SYMPOSIUM SEES LABOR PROBLEMS FROM MANY SIDES

Workers and Employers, City, Church and State Views Heard in Worcester Meeting

WORCESTER, Mass.—Representatives of state, city, church, labor and capital spoke in a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night, addressing themselves to the industrial problem from all those angles.

Mayor George M. Wright said in his speech on "Municipal Cooperation" that he believed that organized labor, in its fairness, would some day come to recognize as one of its mistakes in the past, that every man who learns a trade is not worth just the same number of dollars and cents to his employer as every other man engaged in that line of work.

Charles G. Wood, New Bedford, member of the state board of conciliation and arbitration, described the work of the board and spoke to the topic "Making Massachusetts a strikeless state."

The other speakers included Albert E. Lyons, of the Worcester Publicity Association; the Rev. Allyn King Foster, who thought that the meeting was so successful the speeches ought to be printed in pamphlet form and that a similar meeting be arranged within 60 days; Jacob Levine, of the United Garment Workers; James S. Noonan, of the Steam and Gas Fitters Union; George H. Miller, of the Electrical Workers Union, and John P. Coghlin, of the Employers Association, who advocated an open shop policy. He said that the employers association of Worcester county has for one of its objects the opening of a free employment bureau where worthy workers may secure employment.

REFERENDUMS IN VERMONT TAKEN

MONTPELIER, Vt.—Defeat of the proposition to build a $300,000 addition to the State House is indicated. The vote on the question at the city and town election Tuesday was: Yes, 15,136; no, 15,512.

Another referendum calling for an expression of opinion from the people in the matter of establishing a primary system showed a larger vote for a direct primary for all state and county officials and congressman than for a preferential primary. The vote was: Preferential primary, yes 9388, no 7439; direct primary, yes 16,469, no 6000.

BOSTON Y. W. C. A. TELLS PLAN FOR $500,000 BUILDING FUND

Organization Seeks to Form Committees and Raise Sum for Modern Edifice to Shelter Work It Carries on as Goal for Golden Jubilee Three Years Hence

Plans for the raising of a $500,000 building fund for a new Young Women's Christian Association in Boston before 1917, the fiftieth anniversary of the organization, were made public at the forty-eighth annual meeting held at the Hotel Vendome yesterday afternoon. About 100 women are needed to serve on committees for the raising of the fund, it was said.

Miss Harriet Broad, general secretary of the National Association, who is in charge of the Boston institutions, said that the Boston Y. W. C. A. was the pioneer of the organization in America which has a membership of more than 300,000 women. In the two local buildings, at 68 Warrenton street and 40 Berkley street, 6000 girls have been cared for in the year 1913, and 4900 girls have been placed in positions of employment, she reported. Incoming steamers and trains have been met and 3692 women and girls assisted, it was declared.

The new building as outlined by Miss Broad should contain rest rooms, club rooms, cozy parlors a gymnasium with a swimming pool in addition to the necessary sleeping rooms, dining-rooms, etc.

Revising of the constitution, including the foundation of a new junior association for girls between 10 and 15 years, election of officers, and change in the voting powers and work of the board of management was completed. About 250 members were present.

Managers elected include honorary managers for one year, Mrs. Henry F. Durant of Wellesley, Mrs. Arabella Howe, Mrs. Thomas J. Lee, Mrs. Andrew J. Loud, Mrs. Junius W. Hill, Mrs. Liberty D. Packard and Mrs. O. M. Wentworth.

Other elections were: Managers, to serve for a term of one year, Mrs. John F. Suckling, Mrs. Sarah B. Root, Miss Dora Roberts, Mrs. Arthur M. Strong, Miss Abbie B. P. Walley, Mrs. Fayette Curtis, Mrs. George M. Porter, Mrs. Alfred L. Darrow and Mrs. Howard P. Converse.

To serve for a term of two years: Mrs. R. C. Appleton, Mrs. James H Lake, Mrs. Herbert S. Johnson, Mrs. Frederick H. Eaves, Mrs. Sydney E. Farwell, Mrs. J. O. Foss, Miss Laura Post, Miss Abbie W. Covel, Miss Eleanor H. Jones, Miss Isabella B. Pratt; and for three years: Mrs. Benjamin Tenney, Miss Myra B. Child, Mrs. Dillon Bronson, Mrs. Arthur Ross, Mrs. Frederick H. Hunter, Mrs. Albert Van Wagenen, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Miss Margaret Lothrop, Mrs. Chamberlain Lyford and Mrs. Augustine B. Conant.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN BUDGET ESTIMATED AT $15,250,626

Government Officials Figure on Added Guarantees to Railroads by Construction Betterments — Receipts Reckoned at $4,000,000 Less Than Present Year

OTTAWA, Ont.—Estimates of the British Columbia government for the year beginning April 1 show a decrease of over $4,000,000 as compared with the present year.

The estimates for next year's services amount to $13,742,009. Added to this are supplementaries for the past two years amounting to $1,508,617, which brings the total up to $15,250,626.

The provincial government is increasing its guarantee to the Canadian Northern from $35,000 per mile to $45,000 per mile on account of a higher standard of construction being carried out than was stated in the previous agreement. This means an additional guarantee of $5,110,000.

The guarantee to the Pacific Great Eastern from Vancouver to Ft. George was raised from $35,000 to $42,000 per mile. The increase in this case will amount to about $3,000,000.

A third bill provides for a guarantee of $35,000 per mile to the Pacific Great Eastern for the extension of their line 330 miles beyond Ft. George into the Peace river country. The contractors for this piece of road undertake to finish the work within two years from the time the bill passes the legislature.

President to Read Toll Message

Chief Executive Thursday Will Ask Joint Session of Congress to Repeal Panama Canal Exemption Clause

SHOW REVERSAL NEED

WASHINGTON — President Wilson will address a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p. m. Thursday, advocating repeal of the Panama canal act clause which exempts American coastwise shipping from payment of tolls.

The President has prepared a brief address in which he sets forth his opinion that Congress should reverse itself and keep the obligations of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which he believes were violated by the Panama canal act.

The President holds that the national honor of the American people is at stake and that European nations should not be allowed to get the impression that treaties made by the American government are not adhered to.

The exemption clause, he believes, was passed on the assumption that while the Hay-Pauncefote treaty guaranteed equal treatment to all nations in the matter of tolls, the document was to be interpreted as meaning all nations except the United States.

The President believes there should be no debatable ground on treaties once made.

Originally Mr. Wilson had not intended to deliver a message on this subject. He had conferred with senators and members of the House and sentiment in favor of the repeal appeared to him to be strong. Some of the leaders, however, thought that the international phases of the situation should be emphasized in a communication from the President to Congress to impress upon those who had voted for the exemption previously the necessity of changing their votes regardless of domestic questions involved.

Since the tolls question was last before Congress the President has told senators that European nations generally were taking the view that the United States had violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the inter-oceanic canals committee, is expected to oppose the President's view. It has been said that a majority of the committee would favor a repeal. The White House is confident that in both houses of Congress the repeal will be passed, Republicans joining Democrats in making the change.

Wheat "Trust" Charged

The Chicago Board of Trade was called a "giant of fictitious wheat transactions" and the weapon of a price-controlling monopoly Tuesday by Samuel H. Greeley, who for more than 20 years was a member of the board. Appearing before the House rules committee in behalf of several wheat growers' organizations of the Northwest, Mr. Greeley urged federal action against an alleged monopoly maintained by the public warehousemen of Chicago and other market centers.

Samuel H. Greeley, independent Chicago grain broker, appeared before the committee today. He held that the "legitimate handling of grain was so monopolized and the conditions of trade so unfair that the general membership was forced to attempt to throw open the board to $5 and $10 transactions in order that they might make a living."

HOWARD ELLIOTT TELLS NEW HAVEN BOARD OF TERMS

NEW YORK—At a special meeting of the executive committee of the board of directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company on Tuesday, Howard Elliott, chairman, told of the results of his conferences with Attorney-General McReynolds as to methods of separation from the Boston & Maine.

Mr. Elliott declined to talk of the meeting further than to say that he hoped to be able to arrive at a satisfactory understanding with the department of justice relative to the time to be allotted in which the New Haven could dispose of its Boston & Maine holdings. The stated meeting of the board will be held on Friday.

The only definite action taken on Tuesday was the further curtailment of the New Haven train service. The retrenchment in the train service will go into effect March 15 and is in line with the general policy of reducing operating expenses.

RECORDS SOUGHT IN STRIKE INQUIRY

WALSENBURG, Colo.—Witnesses before the congressional committee at its sitting here Tuesday investigating the coal miners' strike asserted that the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company controls Huerfano county.

When Malley Ball took the stand to testify that a deputy sheriff attacked him county records were called for in an effort to show that deputy sheriffs sat on the jury which acquitted Mr. Ball's assailant. T. M. Hudson, clerk of the district court, said he thought seven or eight of the jurors in the case were deputy sheriffs.

SALESMANSHIP IS TO BE SHOWN FOR ADVANCED CLASS

An advanced class in salesmanship will be started this evening in charge of H. Whitehead at the Young Men's Christian Union to continue the work done by the course in salesmanship brought to a close last night with the addresses by George S. Smith, former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and Walter Hawkins, superintendent of the Jordan Marsh Company. At the request of a number of students the continued course was planned, giving persons that have taken the first course an opportunity to sell goods in the class room, and to be helped by people from the different branches of industry. There will be no lectures during this course. One of this series of 20 sessions will be held each Wednesday.

Mr. Smith in his talk, "In Business for Yourself," spoke of the interest that clerks and errand boys should take in the establishment where they are employed and of the power of observation that should be developed. Mr. Hawkins in his talk on "Ideals of a Salesman," said that to hold a position a person must be able to please the customer, selling what will be satisfactory, not selling something that would merely make a sale.

WASHINGTON TO BE TOLD INCOME TAX OF STATE TODAY

An approximate estimate of the amount of income taxes to be collected in Massachusetts will be wired to Commissioner of Internal Revenue Osborne at Washington today by John F. Malley, collector of internal revenue for this district. What the amount is the collector said he would be unable to make public. He said, however, that the returns were not so large as he anticipated.

Many Boston people are traveling in the South and in Europe, he said, and up to the present time these persons have not made returns. He admitted there were less than 1000 persons in the state who had been granted an extension of time.

Within a fortnight the collector hopes to have figured out the total amount of tax collectable in this state. Then the work of making out the bills and collecting the tax will be started.

The date for payments starts on June 1 and continues for 30 days. Collector Malley does not expect that there will be much difficulty in collecting the tax.

CHURCHES PLAN TO FEED NEW YORK UNEMPLOYED MEN

NEW YORK—Nine clergymen issued a statement Tuesday night in which it is said that the New York churches are ready to do everything possible for the unemployed, but in view of the agitation by the Industrial Workers of the World, it would be best to place all relief work under the supervision of the city, so that fostering vagrancy may be avoided.

The problem of unemployment, the statement says, can be met only with far-reaching and constructive measures.

In the parish house behind old St. Pauls Episcopal church at Broadway and Vesey street many men were fed and sheltered for the night. The Rev. Dr. W. Montague Geer, vicar of St. Pauls, was in charge.

Frank W. Tannenbaum, organizer for the I. W. W., said 358,000 unemployed men were being enrolled to demand work for eight hours a day at 30 cents an hour.

$250,000 WOMAN'S HEADQUARTERS IN CHICAGO PLANNED

CHICAGO—Ultimate disposition of the $67,000 souvenir fund held by the lady managers of the world's Columbian exposition in 1893 was still unsettled Tuesday, while Mrs. Potter Palmer, custodian of the fund, was speeding to her winter home in Sarasota, Fla.

A commission to handle the fund, to increase it by subscriptions, and with it to erect a woman's building as the headquarters for every phase of woman's work was proposed by Harlow N. Higinbotham after Mrs. Palmer had announced that the Potter Palmer $200,000 bequest for that purpose was not available.

MORE RAILROADS SEEK EXEMPTION

WASHINGTON — Ten more railroads have applied to the interstate commerce commission for relief from the operation of that provision of the Panama canal act which requires railroads to divest themselves of water-line holdings before July 1, unless the commission shall exempt them from the law. Among the applicants were the Long Island railroad and the Central Vermont railway.

RAILROAD ASKS TO KEEP BOATS

WASHINGTON—The Central railroad of Georgia, controlling the Ocean Steamship Company, which operates boats between Savannah, New York and Boston, asked the interstate commission today for permission to retain its water lines.

HISTORY OF TOLL EXEMPTION CLAUSE IS TOUCHED UPON

WASHINGTON—House Democrats in charge of President Wilson's campaign for the repeal of the toll exemption provision of the Panama canal act, are pointing out that they never have been committed to the exemption policy. The official record of the House for the second session of the Sixty-second Congress bears out this statement.

The bill to provide for the maintenance and operation of the canal was taken up by the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce in the spring of 1912, at which time the House was Democratic, although by a majority much smaller than that of the present. Representative William C. Adamson of Georgia was chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce then, as he is now.

The committee considered the canal bill for many weeks, and especially that provision which provided for exemption from tolls of American coastwise shipping. Many witnesses were heard. Finally, the committee voted against providing for the exemption, and the bill, as it was reported to the House, put American ships on the same basis as the ships of other countries.

A minority of the committee, led by Representative Doremus of Michigan, now chairman of the democratic congressional committee, and Representative Broussard of Louisiana, submitted a report favoring exemption of American ships engaged in the coastwise trade.

On May 18, 1912, when the bill was being debated in the House, Representative Doremus offered as a substitute for section 5 a provision exempting vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from the payment of tolls. After several days of debate, the substitute was adopted, 147 to 128. Eight members answered present, and 109 were recorded as not voting. The substitute was carried as a result of a combination between the Republicans and certain Democrats. The Republicans present, almost to a man, voted in favor of the exemption, and just enough Democrats joined with them to put the provision into the legislation.

Representative Sims of Tennessee, who on the day following the signing of the Panama canal act by President Taft, introduced a bill to repeal the exemption provision, has laid the facts before President Wilson. He points out that the Democratic committee on interstate and foreign commerce opposed exemption and that a majority of the House Democrats voted against the Doremus substitute. His point is that if the present Democratic House should repeal the provision it would not be reversing the action of the preceding Democratic House.

An analysis of the vote on the Doremus substitute shows clearly that the contest was really between the supporters of ship subsidy and those representatives who opposed subsidy legislation. Those Republican representatives who for years had been trying to get ship subsidy legislation through Congress, voted for the Doremus amendment, and they had the support of Democrats who had been disposed to favor ship subsidy, though some of them had never been quite willing to come out into the open. The fact that 117 representatives did not vote is taken to show that subsidy was the real issue.

During the interim between the passage of the Panama bill by the House and passage by the Senate, the Democratic national convention was held. Through some arrangement which no one now attempts to explain away, the Democratic national platform came out with a plank favoring exemption. How this plank got into the platform is a question of much interest.

Fifteen days aft[illegible] he adjournment of the Democratic convention, when the Senate got ready to take up the Panama bill, there was the plain declaration of the party, in favor of exemption, staring the Senate Democrats in the face.

The influence of the platform declaration was sufficient to carry the exemption provision through the Senate. Numerous Democratic senators who voted for the provision are now confessing that they voted contrary to their judgment.

CLARENDON HILLS CITIZENS PLAN TO INSIST ON BRIDGE

Public Meeting Called to Continue Campaign for Structure Over New Haven Tracks

Members of the Metropolitan Hills Improvement Association and citizens of the Clarendon Hills district are to hold a mass meeting in Carey hall, Roslindale, Friday night to protest against the action of the committee on cities of the Legislature because of the alleged inadequate manner in which a hearing was given on the bill to have a bridge constructed over the New Haven tracks at the Clarendon Hills station. It is claimed that the hearing was not properly advertised, that there was misunderstanding as to dates and that no opportunity was given the petitioners to present their case.

It is stated that the metropolitan avenue to the station was closed by the railroad some years ago, and the meeting plans to demand that the city take immediate action to determine if the New Haven road has seized a public way at that point unduly. The people of the district feel that a bridge is an urgent public necessity, and that it should be built by the city in case the railroad does not.

DOMINION BOARD OF TRADE PLAN OF OTTAWA MEN

OTTAWA, Ont.—At a meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario recently, steps were taken to carry on a campaign for the inauguration of a Dominion Board of Trade.

The Hon. George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, who attended the meeting, asserted that a council of commerce should be organized consisting of members of boards of trade from all the provinces, which would meet yearly at Ottawa to confer with the government.

FORMER COUNCIL MEETS

COL. GOETHALS IS RECIPIENT OF GOLD MEDAL

National Geographic Society, Through President Wilson, Pays Distinctive Honor to Chief Engineer at Panama

IS WORLD WORKER

WASHINGTON—As guest of honor of the National Geographic Society at its annual dinner, Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, received from President Wilson a special gold medal awarded to him by the society in recognition for the work he has and is accomplishing.

Secretary Bryan was toastmaster. At the table were President Wilson, Colonel Goethals, members of the cabinet, supreme court justices, members of the diplomatic corps, army and naval officers, leaders in Congress and others.

Jules J. Jusserand, French ambassador, was notified of his election by the society to honorary membership.

The medal awarded to Colonel Goethals was of heavy Roman gold. It was given as an expression of appreciation by the society and the nation of his distinguished service. Its presentation was the final act of President Wilson's first year as chief executive of the United States.

Inscribed on the medal were the words: "This special medal of the National Geographic Society is awarded to George Washington Goethals, to whose ability and patriotism the world owes the construction of the Panama canal, March 3, 1914."

Presenting the medal, President Wilson said of Colonel Goethals:

"The government of the United States lent him to the world and he has done this thing for the world. For it is our proud boast that we have cut this highway for all the sea-going ships of the world."

Colonel Goethals received the medal and then said: "It is easier to build canals, than to find fitting words to express my gratitude."

Senator Lodge today introduced a bill to make Col. George Goethals a major-general and also give him the thanks of Congress.

SENATOR SHIVELY RECEIVES THANKS

WASHINGTON—President Wilson has written to Senator Shively of Indiana, expressing appreciation of the way in which the senator has discharged his duties as acting head of the foreign relations committee.

"You have certainly performed your duties in a way which deserves the gratitude of the country," the President wrote. "The ratification of the treaties was of the deepest importance to the country and involved matters which you handled with singular delicacy and success."

SARGENT SCHOOL VICTORIOUS OVER RADCLIFFE GIRLS

Radcliffe varsity basketball team lost yesterday to the Sargent school team in one of the close games of the season, the score being 23 to 20. The game was Radcliffe's until the throwing of six goals in rapid succession by Germaine Guiot, captain of the Sargent team, in the last few minutes of the play gave it to Sargent. The game was played in the Radcliffe gymnasium before an audience of 200 girls.

The lineup follows:

Sargent—L. Campbell, f.; R. Crowther, f.; M. Flanders (G. Guiot), f.; G. Guiot, captain (R. Reed), c.; E. Doty, c.; R. Kimball, c.; A. Brown, g.; I. Holway, g.; R. Smith, g.

Radcliffe—A. Davis, g.; D. Tewksbury, g.; S. Lyman, g.; F. Feeley, captain, c.; K. Hodge, c.; M. Ellis, c.; F. Gilbert, f.; K. Dummer, f.; A. Carter, f.

Score—Sargent 23, Radcliffe 20. Goals from floor—G. Guiot 6, L. Campbell 2, A. Carter 3, K. Dummer 2, F. Gilbert. Goals from fouls—Guiot 6, Dummer 8, M. Flanders. Linesmen—M. Putnam and R. Lewis; M. Noll and E. Jones. Timers—R. Wadman and L. Finan. Scorers—M. Woodward and E. Karcher. Referees—Miss Wright of Radcliffe and Dr. Burnett of Sargent. Time—15-minute halves.

MALDEN-MELROSE SPOT POND BILL AGAIN PROPOSED

Whether the city of Melrose will support a bill calling for an expenditure of about $300,000 for providing a deeper and wider channel for Spot pond brook through Melrose and Malden, and for a separate line to carry off the overflow water of the Spot pond reservoir, is to be decided by the aldermen upon recommendation of Senator Charles M. Cox of Melrose. The plan was presented to the Melrose aldermen last night and it is probable that Melrose's share of the expense will be about $100,000, Malden paying a similar amount and the state the other third.

Engineers of the Boston transit commission, upon invitation of Senator Cox, made an investigation of the brook and recommend the adoption of the Engineer Brackett plan, presented to and recommended by the metropolitan water commission.

The commission recently reporting on the brook asked for $5000 for making a survey of the brook.

MONTREAL HARBOR PLANS CALL FOR $15,000,000 EXPENSE

Electrified Railways, Big Storage Sheds and Another St. Lawrence Bridge Contemplated

OTTAWA, Ont.—The Montreal harbor commissioners, appointed two years ago have recently made their first declaration of policy. In carrying out their plans for the improvement of the harbor and terminal facilities they contemplate the expenditure of $15,000,000 in four years. A bill asking Parliament for this amount is being considered by the House at present.

The plans include freight and transportation sheds to accommodate ships for the Hamburg-American and Canadian Northern weekly services, the extension of several large piers, the electrification of the entire system of harbor railways and the building of warehouses and elevators which will give Montreal great storage capacity. It is also proposed to build another St. Lawrence bridge.

NO BOND ISSUE ON ALASKA RAILROAD

WASHINGTON—Senate and House conferees agreed Tuesday on all differences over the Alaskan railroad bill, and a report was expected for final action in both houses today. The Senate conferees yielded to the House amendment providing that the road would be financed out of the treasury instead of by a bond issue and that the maximum of expense should be $35,000,000 instead of $40,000,000.

The House amendment stipulating that all of the proposed railroad should be of standard gauge has been stricken out.

FASHIONS AND THE HOUSEHOLD

SALMON AN ECONOMICAL FOOD

Variety of ways in which to prepare it

Food experts maintain that the place of fish in the diet is the same as that of meat. Canned salmon is one of the most economical varieties. Canned salmon will also prove a friend in need to the country housewife when the meat supply is running low or is lacking in variety. The following recipes, says the Country Gentleman, may prove an inspiration to some who have never thought of canned salmon as lending itself to much variation.

Scalloped salmon with potatoes—Put a layer of salmon in a buttered pan, then a layer of cold, thinly sliced potatoes, sprinkle with salt and pepper and breadcrumbs and continue until the dish is full, the crumbs being on top. Pour over it a cupful of cream and bake three quarters of an hour. Creamed salmon is made by flaking the fish and adding a white sauce. Cook three minutes and serve hot.

Scalloped salmon with peas—Either green or canned peas may be used. If the latter, one can drained from the liquor is required, one can of salmon, from which the skin and bones and liquor have been removed, one cupful of bread or cracker crumbs and two cupfuls of thin white sauce seasoned with salt and pepper. Butter a pudding pan, sprinkle with crumbs, put in a layer of salmon broken in small pieces, then a layer of peas and cover with white sauce, then crumbs; repeat until all are used, the crumbs forming the top. Bake until the crumbs are brown and serve hot in the baking dish.

Salmon croquettes—Mix the meat from one can of salmon drained and minced, half a cupful of fine breadcrumbs, salt, pepper, a little nutmeg, the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoonful of butter. If too dry moisten with a little of the salmon liquor. Form into rolls and flour them well. Set them in a cold place for an hour and then fry in hot fat.

Salmon cups—Chop finely the meat from a can of salmon and add to it half a cupful of soft breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one of lemon juice, two beaten eggs, salt, pepper and half a cupful of rich milk. Mix and pack in greased cups, set them in a pan of hot water and bake until firm. Turn out and serve hot on individual dishes with white sauce.

Salmon salad—One cupful of minced salmon mixed with one cupful of chopped celery. Add a French or mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves. Another palatable salad is made by mixing salmon and peas. Any of the latter that are left from a meal will answer. And almost any proportion of salmon and peas with a dressing will make a very acceptable salad.

Fried smoked salmon—Make a marinade or sauce of four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, two cloves, a bit of bay leaf and six peppercorns. Pour it over a pound of smoked salmon and let it stand for several hours. Then fry the slices in a good salad or cooking oil and serve at once, garnished with sliced lemon.

Salmon souffle—Separate a can of salmon into flakes and add to it the well-beaten yolks of three eggs. Add to these half a cupful of bread crumbs which have been soaked in a like amount of warm milk, mix thoroughly and season with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Beat the whites of the eggs until very light and then fold them into the mixture. Bake in a moderate oven in a buttered dish set in hot water.

GRAPES ON BODICE

Grapes are being used for the bodice decoration. Both afternoon and evening frocks show bunches of deep colored grapes at the corsage, says the Philadelphia North American. The artificial soft gray overbloom and the reddish catawba tints are wonderfully natural. Already fashion has set its seal of favor on this new ornament.

BROWN POPULAR

Brown in dark shades is popular. Blue serge is used for some of the dresses being made and is considered very smart.—New Haven Journal Courier.

PLAITS OF ALL SIZES ARE USED

Now that accordion plaiting has returned to style, it is necessary to know just how material should be prepared to send to the specialty shop where such plaiting is done by machine. Drop skirts, petticoats and dresses now have an accordion plaited flounce about the bottom of the skirt, says the Denver Times. To make such a flounce, about three breadths of 40-inch goods are sewn together. This is enough, when plaited, to make just the right size flounce about the bottom of the skirt. A little less, say 2¼ yards, will make enough plaiting for a petticoat.

All sizes of plaits are used, fine, medium and large. The newest is the very fine kind, which hangs together in a novel and attractive fashion and looks like fluting. Accordion plaiting is wound in serpentine fashion from the waist to the hem of evening skirts, or drops from below wide-swathed sashes in tunic-like fashion.

LAID-ASIDE GOWN REFASHIONED

Old taffeta suit made to appear modish

Excepting that it is somewhat softer in quality, taffeta is very much what it has always been. A dress that was laid aside before it was outworn is distinctly an asset now. It can be made to reappear in a different guise, and one so modish that there is nothing to indicate that it is not making its first bow to the world.

After the dress has been ripped up and pressed with a warm iron, not a hot one, a model should be chosen with the quantity of material at one's disposal in view.

A five or a seven-gore skirt will make a straight skirt of three gores, with sufficient material for an overskirt or a tunic.

Or, to save material, the lower skirt may be attached to a drop skirt of some soft material, such as cheese cloth. This costs only 5 cents a yard, and a yard and a half will be enough.

The tunic should be chosen with a view to one's height and slenderness. Anything that is becoming is right, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

A width from the skirt is needed for the back of the coat. A coat that is loose and rounded and rather short, is effective in taffeta. And if it is open in front far enough to show a waistcoat and stops at the waist line it should have a broad girdle as a finish. This comes from under the back and crosses the waistcoat, fastening at one side with the ends dangling loose and half way to the knee.

A shawl collar of velvet that extends to the girdle is in good style and not difficult to adjust. The waistcoat should contrast sharply with the color of the suit. Three eighths of a yard of one of the flowered silk bengalines or poplins, at $1.50 a yard, will make one both wide and long enough for the fashion of the day.

Wide black mohair or silk braid makes a smart looking sash or girdle. The ends should be gathered or pointed, and should be finished with tassels or balls.

A braid suitable for a girdle can be bought for 50 cents a yard, and a yard and a half will make the girdle and the sash ends. Black silk tassels of the right size and length cost 35 cents apiece.

The coat can be lined with itself if there is enough of the material. Otherwise a yard and a half of some soft, inexpensive silk must be purchased.

Allowing for this and also for a few pretty buttons for the waistcoat, the cost of all the trimmings will be well within $5. And a dashing little costume results that can be worn all during the spring and often in the summer.

MAKING OF PULLED RAG RUGS

Burlap provides a good foundation

The most satisfactory of all home-made rugs, aside from the woven ones, says the Country Gentleman, is probably the hooked or "pulled" variety. This is harder to make than the braided rug, but it is practically indestructible, and if suitable patterns and harmonious colors are selected may be made very artistic.

The first step is to see that all the materials to be used are clean. They should be thoroughly washed, boiled and dried in the sun. Then the cotton and woolen fabrics should be sorted into separate piles, as the two should not be used in the same rug. Cut the garments into strips from a quarter of an inch to half an inch wide, the width depending on the weight of the fabric. Experience is the only absolute guide to the proper width. For ordinary woolen materials three eighths of an inch is usually satisfactory. Cotton must be cut wider. The strips are not to be sewed together.

Assort the different colors so that you may know how much of each you have to work with. The lighter rags may be dyed a darker shade, and all shades may be dyed black, though there will usually be enough old stockings to furnish the needed amount of black.

The pulled rug is worked on a foundation like tapestry. This should be of burlap—the kind furniture is packed in. Turn under an inch hem, all round, and stitch on the sewing machine in order to prevent fraying. The foundation must now be sewed into a frame. You will need four strips of wood, each about two inches wide, half an inch or more thick and at least a foot longer than the rug. The burlap must be firmly attached to these frames. There are two ways of doing this: First, you can bore holes an inch apart along the frames and sew the burlap into the frames with strong twine, passing the needle through each of the holes; or you can tack firmly a strip of strong ticking or burlap all along the frames and sew the foundation closely to this. The longest sides must be sewed in first. Remember that the four pieces of the frame are not yet attached to each other. After sewing in the two long edges, lay the frame on the floor, put the end pieces over the side pieces and continue sewing. Now stretch tightly and fasten the four corners of the frame with clamps, being sure to see that the pieces of the frame make right angles at the corners.

You are now ready to mark your design on the rug with charcoal or colored ink. Raise the frame a suitable height from the floor, supporting it on two tables or four chairs. The design may be a solid border of some dark color and a center of a lighter color. Any cross-stitch design may be copied by dividing the background into squares and following the design. Measure carefully before deciding on the size of the squares in order that the design may come out exactly.

You may be able to get a rug hook at the fancy work counter of a large city store, but any blacksmith can make you one from an old steel fork. The hook should be from two to four inches long, the thickness of a slate pencil, tapering to a fine, sharp point; the handle may be of any shape that is convenient to the user.

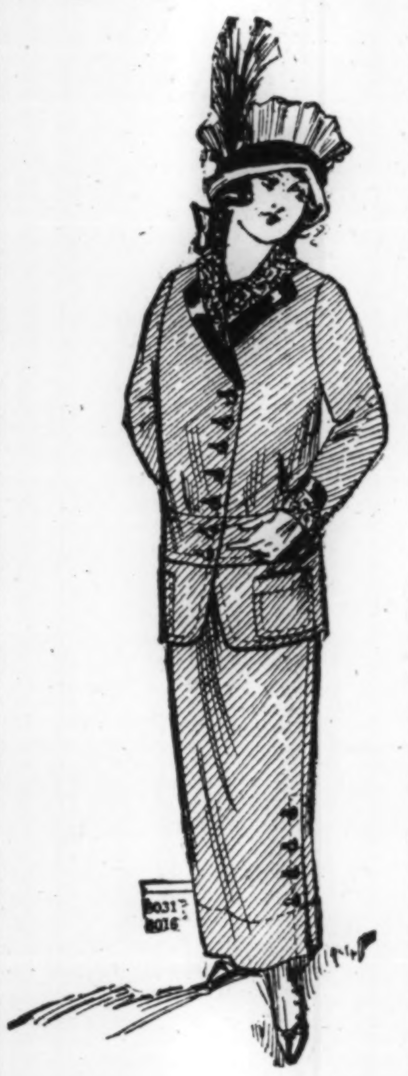
Seat yourself at one of the ends of the burlap and begin to work along the outer edge. Hold a strip of material under the rug, insert the hook from above and pull a loop through. This loop should stand about three eighths of an inch above the foundation. Skip two or three threads of the foundation and draw up another loop, the same height as the first. Continue until you have used all your strip, then pull the end through and leave it on the right side of the rug. Take another strip, bring the end up through the same hole as that through which you pulled the last end of the first strip. Should the design demand a change of color before a strip has been used, pull the unused part through to the right side and cut it off, proceeding with the new color. Make all loops as nearly as possible the same height. If, however, you have difficulty in keeping them the same height, you may, after doing some inches, clip the tops with a pair of sharp shears. Clipped rugs have a velvety appearance which is very attractive but are not so durable as the unclipped ones.

SUIT FOR BETWEEN SEASONS

Brown gabardine, with trimming of velvet and silk

The girl who is going on a mid-winter trip or for any reason wants a new suit with just a hint of the coming season will welcome this design.

In the picture, it is made of the brown gabardine that promises to be a great favorite, with trimming of velvet and silk in bright futurist colors.



The plain skirt is cut in three pieces with the back edges over-lapped. There is a plait at each side.

The coat is belted at the low line that is so becoming to girlish figures. It is slightly full in the back with a separate peplum joined to it beneath the belt.

While gabardine is one of the smartest of all materials, there are a great many others offered. French serge is one of the real standbys; poplin is to be much worn; mohair is to have great vogue through the spring.

For the 16-year size, the coat will require four yards of material 27, 2½ yards 44, 2⅛ yards 52 inches wide, with ⅜ yard of plain or ⅝ yard of fancy material for collar and cuffs; the skirt 3½ yards 27, 2¼ yards 44 or 52 inches wide. The width at the lower edge is 1½ yards, when the plaits are laid.

The pattern of the coat (8031) is cut in sizes for girls of 16 and 18 years; the skirt (8016) of 14, 16 and 18 years. They can be bought at any May Manton agency, or will be sent by mail. Address 102 West Thirty-second street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

WOMAN WINS AS AN ORCHARDIST

Trained in society, she gets golden harvest from neglected trees

The story of how a city woman became a successful orchardist is told in the Kansas City Times, which says:

Five years ago last summer Mrs. Eleanor Risley was a society woman, who had never lived anywhere except in a city and knew nothing of practical affairs except what she had learned in a course of economics at college. Her home was in southern California.

On being left to care for herself, Mrs. Risley found that her only possession was a farm of 260 acres near Nevada, Mo. One hundred acres of the farm was covered by an apple orchard. She determined to go into the apple business, although she did not know a Grimes golden from a winesap nor a pruning hook from a spray pump.

Mrs. Risley reached the farm in late summer. Where she had expected to see an inviting country home and an orchard all ready to drop its fruit into her outstretched apron, she found no house and a tangled wilderness of weeds and brush for an orchard.

But she clambered through the forest of weeds, at the expense of her day dreams and part of her dress, and found that the apple trees were really there. Also they had apples on them. With her last $12 Mrs. Risley bought a pony and a small buggy. By working most of the first day making a road through weeds and brush, which were as high as the horse's back, she got enough apples to fill the buggy. She sold them in Nevada for 80 cents—and bought her dinner. That was the start.

The next five years, which made of the society woman one of the foremost woman orchardists in Missouri, and brought her to Kansas City yesterday to sell two carloads of a $5000 apple crop, Mrs. Risley says were the happiest and at the same time the most trying in her experience.

She found a difficult task, but she was pleased with doing work that made good food which had gone to waste or sold for 3 cents a bushel bring from $1.10 to $1.50 a bushel and be worth the money to the consumer.

When she first went to the farm no one would trust her. The neighbors called her the society woman and said she would soon be gone. They are naming their children after her now.

The first year Mrs. Risley lived in a deserted house near the farm. It had not been occupied for 15 years. There was no barn for the pony, so she turned the dining room over to him and taught him to eat off the mantel. He lived from the apples he ate off that mantel most of the first autumn.

The next summer Mrs. Risley built a little house on the farm and began doing things to that orchard. She had studied all winter. Now the one hundred acres are cultivated like a garden and not one apple—and every tree bears every year—goes to waste.

Mrs. Risley personally superintends all of the work and does a great part of the marketing. She is planning next year to ship a great part of her crop direct to the consumer by parcel post in one peck and half bushel boxes.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT

Boy Architects

One of the recent American magazines published a picture of the bird houses which the boys in a certain school built during their manual training lessons. Every boy had to draw a plan for his house and then build exactly according to the plan. He could make it any way he chose. The boys were all eager to see who could make the prettiest or the neatest or the most convenient bird house. When each was done it was taken out and put into a tree near the school and then everybody watched to see if the birds would come to it. And they always did. Once six hours after a house was put up a bird had begun building a nest there.

The houses are of every possible shape and size. There is a plain one made of bark, with a tall cone standing up beside it like a chimney. Another is made of small sticks laid neatly together for sides and slanting roof and even a railing round a piazza. Another is in two stories, square and covered with bark. Another looks like a small limb of a tree. Another is shaped like an Indian tepee or wigwam. Another is built of short sticks in an eight-sided pyramid. Many of them appear to be pieces of bark carefully removed from a tree unbroken except for one long slit. Most of them have a stick just under the door to serve as a perch for the birds. Every boy in the school built a bird house and before school closed last summer every house was occupied.

THREE COLLARS NOW IN VOGUE

Three sorts of collars lead at the present writing. One of them is the familiar oriental collar which falls away from the shoulders and may be put on either as a straight piece or with shirring. So loose is it that with it must always be worn a closely-fitted inner collar and, with some blouses or gowns, a chemisette as well.

The Medici collar is second on the list of fashionable collars and may be made as tall and as wide-spreading as the individual wearer decides to have it. It is most picturesque when it stops just in front of the ears, says a Denver Times writer, and it is most becoming in transparent materials relieved with the slenderest line of fur.

Normandy collars are prominent among neckwear models and very smart they are on tailored frocks, blouses and waistcoats. The Normandy is a high standing affair having two sharp points that stand out from under the ear lobes.

TRIED RECIPES

VEALETTES

Purchase veal cuts from the leg in slices as large as one's hand and about half an inch thick. On each slice lay a large tablespoonful of dressing made from seasoned bread crumbs, a beaten egg and a tablespoonful of melted butter. Roll up the slices, pinning with toothpicks to keep the dressing in. Put in a baking pan in the oven and bake about three quarters of an hour, basting often with melted butter and hot water. When done, thicken the gravy, pour over the veal and serve on a hot platter.—Kansas City Star.

ENGLISH BAKED CHICKEN

Disjoint the chicken, wash and wipe. Mix some pepper, salt and flour together and roll the pieces in it, covering well. Put the meat in a pan, put bits of butter or salt pork over it. Pour boiling water into the pan till it comes well up on the chicken, baste three or four times, cook two hours or until tender. Remove the chicken and make gravy by adding flour and seasoning to the liquor in the pan; make rather thick; cook 10 minutes; add milk to make the right consistency; strain and pour over the chicken.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GRAPEFRUIT SHORT CAKE

Stir together for two or three minutes one egg, one cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of pure lard. Then add a cupful of cold sweet milk and two cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Stir to mix thoroughly and divide equally between two well-greased and floured jelly cakepans. Put the pans at once into a fairly hot oven, and bake about 10 or 12 minutes. Peel two large grapefruit, and separate the pulp from seeds and membranes. Turn the cakes out of the tins. Lay one of them upside down on a large plate, cover it with the prepared fruit, and sprinkle it liberally with sugar. Pour the juice over and cover with the other cake. Spread over the top a cupful of thick, sweet cream, whipped very stiff and sweetened with half a cupful of sugar.—Newark News.

SIMPLE SPONGE CAKE

To make this simple cake, beat up the yolks of two eggs till they are pale yellow and quite thick; then add gradually half a cupful of sugar, beating all the time; stir in a scant half cupful of hot water, and another half cupful of sugar; next add lemon extract and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Lastly, stir in a cupful of flour sifted with one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Bake for 25 minutes in a moderate oven in a buttered and floured shallow pan.—Newark News.

HANGER OF PAPER

When visiting sometimes, or when on a journey where one cannot carry all they wish, inconvenience may be experienced because of an inadequate number of dress-hangers in the closets. Try a newspaper rolled and tied in the middle with a string. Turn the ends down and you have a hanger just as good for a lightweight dress, and one which will keep it free from wrinkles.—Modern Priscilla.

A Mile of Table Linens At McCutcheon's

Reg. Trade Mark

The vast range of choice offered at "The Linen Store" may be illustrated by the fact that if placed in a line, one Table Cloth and one Napkin of each design, the line would be a mile long—and no two cloths alike!

Can you imagine a woman so exacting that she would not find many, many designs in that long line to please her taste?

And in each of these designs we have ten to twenty sizes.

There has never been a more attractive collection of Housekeeping Linens at "The Linen Store" than at present.

ALIEN WELFARE PROBLEMS TOLD BY CALIFORNIAN

Simon J. Lubin of State Board Describes Work Being Done There for the Immigrant and Most Important Questions

DISTRIBUTION FIRST

Welfare of the immigrant inside the state, his protection from exploiting influences and consequent education and freedom to choose his own career are considered the most essential work of the commission of immigration and housing of California by its president, Simon J. Lubin of Sacramento, who is staying for a brief time in this city.

Mr. Lubin has been conferring with those interested in immigration and housing in this city including Bernard J. Rothwell, chairman of the state commission on immigration, which is soon to make its first report to the Legislature. He has been invited with others to meet the commission on Wednesday to discuss the report which is now in the hands of the state printer.

The Massachusetts commission has been impressed through its investigation of the local conditions with the discovery that so large a percentage of the immigrants population does not speak English, rendering it impossible for the authorities to inform them concerning American policies and institutions.

Mr. Lubin declines to give his views in a national way, confining himself entirely to his home conditions. The California commission, he says, has no interest absolutely in either restricting or inducing immigration; it is engaged solely on a domestic problem.

Mr. Lubin gives Governor Johnson the credit of foreseeing the necessity of preparing for the coming of the 30,000 to California when the Panama canal is opened. So the new commission is working to exclude the unscrupulous employment agent, land agent, dishonest notary, lawyer and padrone who would ply their trade among the immigrants, that they may have a clear road to possible opportunities.

Even the limited experience of the commission so far, according to Mr. Lubin, has been sufficient to show its members that no very deep investigation is required to disclose instances of every kind of abuse that is to be found in the eastern states.

The second field that the commission has entered is that of the education and Americanization of the immigrant. There too, says Mr. Lubin, have been uncovered endless opportunities for work along right lines.

It has seemed to the commission, however, Mr. Lubin says, that the essence of the immigration problem, when analized, is the distribution of the immigrant. This aspect of the problem, he maintains, has many points in common with the question of the unemployed.

The fact is, in the estimation of the commission, when the immigrant lands on American shores he is a man without a job although conceded that unlike the army of the unemployed the mass of our immigrants presents very few instances of the unemployable, thanks to the care used at our various ports of entry. It is to the distribution phase of the commission's problem, then, that Mr. Lubin says the members are devoting most of their attention at this moment.

In explaining the basis upon which the commission works, Mr. Lubin calls attention to the act creating it which gives unlimited authority to investigate and if necessary to hold public hearings and take evidence under oath. Discovering instances of abuse the commission turns to the competent authority for remedial action.

In finding and devising methods to Americanize and educate the immigrant the commission seeks the cooperation of the proper public and private agencies. In the distribution of the immigrant, Mr. Lubin declares such an expression has no compulsory meaning in any way, but the development of a plan whereby the commission proposes to ask the assistance of every activity within the state to help the newcomer find his own choice.

The theory upon which the commission works as given by Mr. Lubin is that there are in existence practically enough agencies to accomplish all that need be done, but that they lack a clearing house, a coordinating center.

Among some of the things that the commission is now engaged upon, Mr. Lubin mentioned plans for educating the adult immigrant being taken up with the state board of education, housing conditions in San Francisco that are to be corrected by enforcement of existing ordinances, and new laws to present to the next Legislature in 1915. He is in favor decidedly of one commission to give its entime time to work of this nature, rather than a sub-department.

THRESHERS WOULD JOIN FOR BENEFIT

WICHITA, Kan.—Threshermen of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas have come to Wichita this year for the purpose of forming a union through which they can compel uniform prices, quick payment, equal rights upon the highways, and the the building of bridges and culverts that will support the weight of their machines.

Officers of the association, according to the Eagle, are: John A. Scott, Oklahoma City, president; D. Gallaway, Cold Water, Kan., vice-president; J. M. Fulwiler, Wichita, secretary; R. G. Rycroft, Greenfield, Okla., treasurer.

CALUMET HEAD TELLS OBJECTION TO ARBITRATION

Manager McNaughton Declares in Copper Hearing That None May Arbitrate the Union Miners' Strike by His Consent

TESTIMONY CONTINUES

HOUGHTON, Mich.—James McNaughton, general manager of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and its subsidiaries testifying before the congressional committee investigationg the copper strike Tuesday, declared he would permit no one to arbitrate between his loyal employees and the striking unionists.

Chairman Taylor asked Mr. McNaughton, if he meant that the companies would not allow the Governor of Michigan or the President of the United States or any other high-stationed person to mediate.

"I personally will not agree," Mr. McNaughton said, "to allow any person to arbitrate a question between 4700 employees who are faithful and loyal and 240 employees who are on strike.

"As long as I am general manager of the Calumet & Hecla Company no striker will be taken back to work unless he gives up his membership in the Western Federation of Miners.

"The western federation and its members as such have tried in every way possible to put the mining companies out of business. There are a great many strikers who wouldn't be taken back under any conditions."

Mr. McNaughton denied that a "black list" was maintained by any of the companies with which he was connected. He read the record of one man who had been reemployed several times in the same mine after he had been discharged repeatedly.

The company, said the witness, discharged a mine captain who was proved to have sold jobs.

The witness said the company was not interested in any store, and the men were free to trade wherever they wished.

Mr. McNaughton declared the Waddell-Mahon and Asher guards had been imported at the instance of Sheriff Cruse, who said they were needed to preserve order. The witness said he supposed they had handled strikers pretty roughly on occasions, as they were not "kid glove fellows."

O. N. Hilton of counsel for the federation directed one part of cross-examination to the witness' opinion of alien organizers. Mr. Hilton then established by questions that the directors of the Calumet & Hecla, except Mr. McNaughton, live near or in Boston.

"They are aliens, too?" he asked.

"Yes," was the answer.

Mr. McNaughton said that if miners had been treated unfairly by petty bosses it was without his knowledge. He also said he knew the miners felt free to come to him with grievances, because many had done so, and he had sought to right wrong many times.

Mr. Hilton asked the witness if he thought conditions under which a man worked 19 months without receiving a cent were ideal. Mr. McNaughton said the man must have liked it or he would have left. He said the companies withheld a man's pay only on garnishment or assignment of salary.

CONCERT DEFICITS IN MILWAUKEE TO BE PAID BY CITY

MILWAUKEE—It was the consensus of opinion among the members of the common council at a recent meeting that deficits on the Auditorium concerts should be met by the city. The city has already met a deficit of $1500 and another of $1500 has come up.

"I believe the concerts furnish amusement and pleasure to a great number of people, and think it proper that the council should pay the deficits," said Alderman G. B. McKinley.

"Unless the money can be raised by public subscription the council will undoubtedly have to pay it," replied Alderman Charles Friedrich. "I think the management should do the best it can to hold down the deficit, and then give us a statement at the end of the season."

SPELLING "BEES" TO BE CITY-WIDE

PORTLAND, Ore.—L. R. Alderman, superintendent of schools, has planned a comprehensive program for the revival of spelling competition in the schools which is calculated to take the place of the old-time "spellin' down matches."

Each grade of pupils will be given from 250 to 400 words to learn each term, according to the Oregonian. These words will be selected from the following sources: Thirty per cent from the regulation spelling book, 30 per cent from the reader and 40 per cent from general sources.

Contests will be held on Thursday and Friday, May 27 and 28, and every pupil present in every class on the day of the contest must enter. The contests will be written.

KOPSERVICE

NEMO KOPSERVICE CORSETS embody an entirely new method of corset construction, being practically two corsets in one. They combine the unequaled comforts of the old short corset with the long, flat lines of the present mode. The corset body, in the front, being entirely free from the influence of the corset skirt and hose supporters, is self-adjusting and remains firmly in place regardless of the attitude or pose.

Nemo
KOPSERVICE
CORSETS

FOUR MODELS—Two for full figures, and two for slender figures. All have the low bust and extra-long skirt; plenty of durable elastic parts to insure complete flexibility and ease. All at one price.......... $5.00

This is a newly patented idea to be found in no other corset and combined with judicious use of durable Nemo "Lastikops" webbing and cloth, gives an almost "corsetless" and "natural" effect insisted upon by those who desire comfort plus style.

Each Nemo model serves a distinct purpose, and is adapted to some particular type of figure. The variety is so great that every woman, from sylph-slender to extra-stout, may find a Nemo that will give her better wear and greater satisfaction than she can get in any other make.

When you buy a Nemo, be sure you get the model designed for your figure. Then you will enjoy real corset-comfort—and true economy.

No. 551 For stout women. Combines the comfort of the old short corset with the newest fashion-effects. Low bust; front steels with incurved ends, a new and clever device that gives perfect abdominal support. Very long skirt, with semi-elastic Lasticurve-Back. Of fine white coutil, sizes 22 to 36.......... $5.00

No. 552 KOPSERVICE CORSET, for full figures. Similar in general construction to No. 551, but with lower bust and front steels somewhat shorter below waist; wide front-gores of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth give additional freedom for the natural figure. Of fine white coutil, sizes 22 to 36.......... $5.00

No. 561 For slender and medium figures. Practically "topless." Entire corset above waist-line is of semi-elastic Lastikops fabrics, lightly boned. Very long skirt with Lasticurve-Back. Absence of boning and lightness of material, reveal the natural lines. Suede batiste, sizes 20 to 30.......... $5.00

No. 562 For medium figures. Very low bust; extra-long skirt, with Lasticurve-Back. Inserts of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth, extending three inches above the waist-line and five inches below, give wonderful ease and the "natural" lines. This effect is ENTIRELY NEW. As in No. 561, the new short front gives all needed figure support. Suede batiste, in sizes 20 to 30.......... $5.00

This new corset idea which we have incorporated in the Nemo Kopservice is so important we are having these models specially demonstrated by experts who will explain their invaluable features.

Will you not ask your dealer to show you these models now, that the advantages they possess as a corset for your figure may be shown?

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Ambassador to Argentina

DETROIT FREE PRESS—President Wilson's decision to ask Congress that the American diplomatic mission in Argentina be raised to the grade of an embassy deserves commendation. At present Brazil is the only South American country to which the United States sends an envoy of the first rank. The inclusion of Argentina in such recognition would place two more members in the category of nations whose relationships with this country are considered matters of prime importance, and would leave only Chile among the governments of secondary importance. Consequently the question naturally arises, Why not send an ambassador to Santiago as well as to Buenos Aires. Doubtless if one advance is made the other will naturally follow.

Women on City Boards

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION — The City Federation of Women's Clubs has made a distinct stride in civic progress in petitioning council that women be given minority membership on certain of the city boards. The resolutions taking this action specify boards having jurisdiction over schools, parks and playgrounds, libraries, health, sanitation and hospitals and charities. Each one of these municipal activities comes very close to the natural duties and natural inclinations of women. In the attitude of these women there is no political animus, no "militancy," no reaching out for new, unfamiliar and dangerous power. The government of no city is complete; it cannot be effectual unless it takes cognizance of the point of view of its women as well as of its men, specifically on issues that comprise the vital business of women. The Constitution believes Atlanta will be a better regulated city for this partial participation of women in a sheerly advisory capacity. We hope to see council take favorable action on the recommendations.

Employment Bureau and Charity

KANSAS CITY TIMES—Jobs for 31,000 men were found by the board of public welfare's employment bureau last year. These jobs netted the workers on the first day of their employment $34,500. Many of the jobs lasted more than a day and some of them proved permanent. So $34,500 is only part of what the board helped men out of work to make. It cost a little more than $5000 to operate the free employment bureau for a year. That is what is called "administrative expense." It would have been much simpler for the board merely to give away this $5000 to the first thousand needy persons, and thus make charity instead of "administrative expense" the chief outlay of the bureau. But does anybody have the slightest doubt that this $5000 spent in "administrative expense" for getting 31,000 jobs was far better spent than it would have been had it been given away in $5 bills to a thousand jobless men?

You and your friends are cordially invited to be present

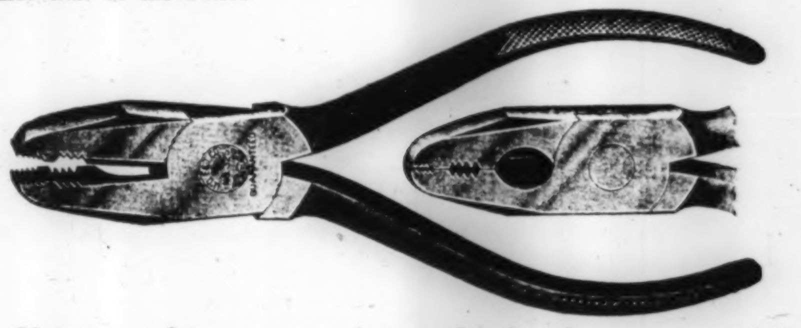
A STITCH IN TIME
WAS OLD WHEN GRANDFATHER WAS A BOY
BUT—IT STILL SAVES NINE

Stitches that can be Saved with a UTICA PLIER

DOES that water faucet or water pipe leak?——Does that umbrella need mending?——Do you want to cut that wire?——Does the sewing machine belt need mending?——Do you want to tighten or remove that screw?——Do you want to pull nails or tacks?——Do you want to remove that tack from the shoe?——Do the children's toys need repairing?——Do the table fork prongs need straightening?——Does that gas jet or pipe need tightening?——Does that chain need mending?——Do the kitchen utensils or household furniture need that attention that always keeps them in perfect order?

Do the thousand and one things happen in your home that you can repair easily and quickly with a UTICA PLIER, and without which in each case you require the services of a skilled mechanic at a cost many times that of the Plier?



If you wanted to sweep your house and had no broom, you certainly would not use a hair brush. You'd buy a broom, wouldn't you? Then why spoil a fine pair of shears cutting a wire? Why use a piece of soap to stop a leaky gas jet? Why use a table knife to tighten or remove a screw, or a rag to stop a leaky water faucet, when a UTICA PLIER will do the work and do it right? And if you don't like the Plier, you can get your money back. It's just as essential for a housewife to have a UTICA PLIER with which to do good housekeeping, as it is for a mechanic to have UTICA PLIERS with which to show his skill.

No substitute is just as good as UTICA.

We make all styles and sizes, for Electricians, Linemen, Autoists, Milliners, Farmers, Wireworkers, Jewelers, Shoemakers, Mechanics, Householders, Plumbers, Inventors, Concrete Workers, Aeronauts and Everybody.

May we send you a copy of PLIER POINTERS? It's free if you ask.

Scrutiny of Railroad Deal Proposed

House Is Scheduled to Consider an Order for Joint Committee Investigation of New Haven and B. & M. Agreement

WORK IS PROCEEDING

In the House today there is scheduled to be considered a proposition to have the joint legislative committee on railroads investigate the proposed arrangement between the New Haven railroad and the federal authorities for the disposal of the Boston & Maine stock now held by the Boston Railroad Holding Company.

This proposition has come before the House in the form of an amendment, offered by Representative Tufts of Waltham, to Representative Washburn's order for an opinion from the attorney-general relative to the need of action by the Legislature in case the Boston & Maine stock in the hands of the holding company is sold.

Mr. Tufts' amendment, if adopted, would leave investigation of the subject entirely in the hands of a committee of the Legislature rather than transferring to a judicial department of the state.

The Tufts amendment was offered late yesterday when Mr. Washburn's order come up for debate. The amendment authorizes the joint committee on railroads "to investigate the proposed arrangement between the New Haven railroad and the federal authorities in order to ascertain how far such settlement requires legislative consent, and if such assent is required, on what conditions and terms it should be given, the committee to have the right to send for persons and papers."

It was voted yesterday to let consideration of both the order and the amendment go over to today's session.

On motion of Senator O'Rourke of Worcester debate on the equal suffrage amendment was postponed by the Senate late yesterday to Tuesday, March 10, because of the absence of several of the senators.

Without debate or division, the Senate rejected the bill to give city and town employees Saturday half-holidays. Subsequently, on motion of Senator Doyle of New Bedford, it was voted that such action should be considered as not having been taken, and, on motion of Senator Gordon of Springfield, consideration was postponed today.

On motion of Senator Norwood of Hamilton, the Senate reconsidered rejection of the Buttimer bill for increase of salary of the district attorney of southeastern Massachusetts, and the bill was given its first reading.

At the request of Senator Clark of Brockton, the Senate reconsidered its adverse action on the bills relative to filling drug prescriptions and prescribing habit-forming drugs and recommitted the measures to the committee on public health.

In the House the bill introduced by Representative Carr of Hopkinton, Progressive, providing that the authority of the inferior courts to determine the constitutionality of acts of the Legislature be limited, was defeated, 43 to 75.

A bill providing that cities and towns may care for stray cats and dogs was ordered to a third reading by a vote of 79 to 52.

Among adverse reports made in the Senate yesterday were the following:

To provide a curfew law for the state.

To allow one day off in eight for Boston policemen.

To prohibit the use and sale of firecrackers.

To allow the Hoosac Savings Bank to hold real estate to the value of $110,000.

To prevent treating in saloons.

To amend the mothers' pension act, several bills.

To increase the wages of the elevator men and the watchmen at the State House.

To include within the veterans' preference act men who have received medals of honor.

Adverse reports made in the House were as follows:

To amend the standard form of fire insurance policies.

To allow vacations for police outside the city of Boston.

To provide that coal must be housed by dealers in cold weather.

To discontinue the investigations as to the supply and prices of ice.

Senator Doyle of New Bedford appeared before the committee on cities in advocacy of his bill to give the mayor of all cities in the state the power to appoint all assessors and assistants subject to the civil service laws. There were several speakers in favor of the measure and no opposition.

BEDFORD TO VOTE $30,000 BUDGET

BEDFORD, Mass.—At the annual town meeting tonight a record appropriation of upward of $30,000 is to be voted upon.

CITY EMPLOYEES' WORK LIMITED TO SIX DAYS A WEEK

Mayor Curley Orders the Heads of Departments to Arrange Their Plans so That No Overtime Will Have to Be Paid

WILL SAVE $75,000

Mayor Curley issued orders today to the heads of the various departments to the effect that they were to arrange their schedules so that no man was obliged to work more than six days a week. If it is necessary to have any work done on Sunday, men are to be used that can be given a day off during the week. The mayor expects to save about $75,000 a year by the elimination of unnecessary overtime pay.

The mayor sent a communication to the acting head of the park and recreation department, John M. Minton, saying that owing to the condition of the city's finances it was necessary to discontinue on the payroll the following persons in the department as pianists: Lillian Mountain, Katherine F. Bogan, Mary Boudreau, Anna Bristow, Bella E. Crawford, Mary J. Eide, Marie Galvin, Annie M. Kelly, Mary V. Murphy, Ida G. Denney and Matilda F. Ractliffe. Miss Mountain receives $12 a week, the Misses Denney and Ractliffe $1 a day and the others $9 a week.

From the Boston Chamber of Commerce the mayor had a communication in which it stated that it would appoint a committee at his request to call on the New Haven road and try to have it continue to purchase supplies in Boston. These amount to more than $4,000,000 a year.

Under instructions from the mayor, Louis K. Rourke, commissioner of public works, is to abolish the position of superintendent of distribution, a branch of the water supply department, and notified William J. Welsh, the present incumbent, to that effect. The position pays a salary of $3000.

In line with the economy policy the mayor ordered the heads of all departments to return all bills for supplies to the city auditor in time that the city may save the 2 per cent which is almost always allowed for cash inside of 10 days. It is pointed out by the mayor that this discount could probably be saved on two thirds to three fourths of the city's annual expense of $5,000,000 for supplies which would be a net saving to the city of about $75,000. Attention is called to the fact that this represents the salaries of many employees, and can be saved without the loss to the city of the services of any one.

The mayor took another step toward saving the city's funds when he ordered department heads to condense the subject matter as much as possible in compilation of their annual reports, which under the present method are bulky and often cost as much as $20 each.

The mayor yesterday renewed the lease for quarters on Bristol street occupied by the fire department and costing the city $30 per month.

COUNTRY CHURCH PROBLEM THEME OF CONFERENCE

Problems arising in the country church in its relation to the community and community recreation were discussed at the opening sessions of the Country Church conference held under the auspices of the Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, Methodist, Unitarian and Universalist social service commissions in Pilgrim hall this morning and Channing hall this afternoon. The speakers were the Rev. Howard F. Legg of Wilbraham, Mass., and J. A. Scheuerle, secretary of the Hampden County Improvement League.

The addresses were followed by discussions from the floor opened by the Rev. A. P. Pratt, secretary of the Inter-Church Federation of Vermont. The Rev. Samuel A. Eliot presided at the morning session, and Prof. Alexander R. Merriam of the Hartford Theological Seminary was chairman of the afternoon. In the afternoon addresses special emphasis was laid upon "Recreation as a Constructive Force," by C. C. Carstens and "What the Church Can do for Rural Recreation," by the Rev. Silas E. Persons of New York.

Community cooperation with the church is the theme of the evening session at Kingsley hall, the speaker being Prof. F. W. Howe, dean of the department of agriculture, Syracuse University.

The Rev. Willard E. Waterbury, field secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Missionary Society, leads the discussion.

HUNDREDS ADMIRE WORKS AT EXHIBITION OF PORTRAITS

About 600 persons attended the opening reception of the loan exhibition of portraits by contemporary artists at Copley hall Tuesday evening. The exhibition occupies three rooms and includes oil paintings, miniatures, crayon and charcoal studies.

Of oil portraits there are 100, among them being pictures by Edmund C. Tarbell, John S. Sargent, Wilbur Dean Hamilton, Renoir, Charles Hopkinson, Arthur M. Hazard, John E. Bird, Anders Zorn, William Thorne, Sarah C. Sears, Marie Danforth Page, Claude Monet, F. H. Tompkins, Carl J. Nordell, Cecelia Beaux, Frank W. Benson and Henry Oliver Walker.

In the small room Paul Helleu is represented by characteristic drawings. Mrs. Lillian Wescott Hale shows two delicate charcoal studies. Joseph Linden Smith and Albert Sterner show examples of their work and John S. Sargent has several studies. The Misses Sally Cross, Laura Combs Hills, Jean Nutting Oliver and Margaret Foote Hawley are the principal miniature exhibitors.

Some of the works were loaned by the artists, but most of them came from private collections.

The committee that did the work consisted of Holker Abbott, Thomas Allen, Mrs. J. Tucker Burr, Edward R. Warren, John Endicott Peabody, Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, Miss Martha Silsbee, Miss Annie C. Putnam, Mrs. Everett Morse, Desmond Fitzgerald, Frederick W. Coburn, Mrs. William L. Parker, Mrs. Charles S. Sargent, Joseph Lindon Smith, C. Howard Walker, Thomas G. Frothingham, A. W. Longfellow, Frank Gair Macomber, Henry D. Sleeper, Miss Helen G. Moseley and J. Templeman Coolidge.

Sargent's portraits are of Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, Mrs. Fiske Warren and daughter, and Mrs. Endicott. The last is a notable work, both as a portrait and as a picture, the subject being a type of the finest New England influence as seen in character and environment, unmixed with the influences that have flowed in from Europe in the last half century.

Edmund C. Tarbell's portrait of "Mrs. A." is in this artist's finest vein of color, balance and harmony, and is sympathetic in character interpretation. Miss Beaux's three works are a feature, and Mrs. Adelaide Cole Chase's youth with a violin is an outstanding work.

Mr. Hamilton's portrait of F. L. Higginson is a work notable in conception and execution. William Paxton's portrait of "Miss —," Frank W. Benson's portrait of a young woman in a dark hat and a DeCamp work are charming examples of the interest these artists have in matters of technic, and their mastery of them.

Mary Cassat, Renoir and Monet are represented by interesting examples, and Louis Kronberg shows a vigorous portrait of Jean Guiffrey. Robert Vonnoh's large portrait of Charles Francis Adams, recently seen at Doll & Richards, has a good place on the stage.

Phillip L. Hale shows a live study called "The Four Art Students," one of the best things in the hall. Emil Ahlborn's fine portrait of his mother is a feature, and Wilton Lockwood's portrait of James J. Storrow attracts for its sparking truth and freedom. Gasi Melcher's portrait of Hugo Reisinger has bigness.

But a brief and general impression, most of the display may be left for detailed and deliberate consideration, together with the drawings and miniatures, or better to the individual opinions of the many who will doubtless attend this exhibition during the next three weeks. Nothing like its scope and interests has been done here in years.

WOMEN ORGANIZE CHILDREN TO HELP SUFFRAGE CAUSE

Junior Corps Being Formed as Branches of the National Association—One in Jamaica Plain

Junior suffrage corps are being formed by children in the New England states as branch organizations of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, a group now being in the process of formation in Jamaica Plain and Framingham and in Connecticut.

The corps are formed in groups of 10 under a captain and each child in turn forms his own group of 10, the first captain becoming a centurion. The first group of 10 is to be known as the founders' group. The plan took form in answer to a request received by the national association from a group of children in South Carolina. In New York and Pennsylvania groups are also being organized.

The cards of admittance to the national association which each child receives will be signed by Dr. Anna Shaw, president, or Miss Jane Addams, first vice-president. The corps are open to children under 17 years of age. The button which has been adopted as an emblem shows a pine tree, contains the name of the corps and the motto.

IRONWORKERS AND CARPENTERS TO BE CALLED BY BOARD

After hearing from the international presidents of the two unions involved in the controversy, the state board of conciliation and arbitration has decided to call before it the parties to the dispute between carpenters and ironworkers employed by Norcross Brothers in the construction of buildings in Boston.

Both crafts claim the right to install a new kind of door buck. Both threatened to strike if either were allowed to do the work, and the employer suspended operations and appealed to the state board which in turn notified the international officers at Indianapolis, James Kirby of the Carpenters, and Frank M. Ryan of the ironworkers. These officials authorized representatives to consult with the board.

Acting on a wage dispute between the railway telegraphers who man the signal towers and the Boston Elevated system, the state board of conciliation and arbitration took up the matter at its meeting yesterday.

COUNTY FINANCE BOARDS URGED AND OPPOSED

The county commissioners are so far moved from the people that it is impossible to know what is going on in Middlesex county, declared Senator John P. Brennan of Cambridge before the legislative committee on counties today at the State House in supporting his bills, taken together, for a finance commission for Middlesex county and a finance commission for all counties except Suffolk.

Representative Harry J. Mahoney of Cambridge, asked the committee for an investigation of the government and financial administration of Middlesex.

Levis S. Gould, chairman of the Middlesex county commission, did not consider there was need for any further investigation of Middlesex county affairs.

John I. Bryant, Bristol county commissioner, opposed.

Chester I. Williams, member of the Middlesex county commission, also opposed.

The reason that Senator Brennan asked for a finance commission, he said, was that the Boston finance commission had saved hundreds of thousands of dollars to the government of the city.

Representative Haines of Medford said the attorney-general had exonerated the Middlesex county commissioners.

Daniel P. Leyden of Cambridge and Representatives Glennon, Glynn and Conroy of Cambridge were recorded as favoring Representative Mahoney's bill for another investigation.

ROOSEVELT FEE STORY IS DENIED

NEW YORK—Lawrence F. Abbott, president of the Outlook Company, today characterized as ridiculous the published reports of a statement given out in London by John T. Lenfestri of Chicago, declaring that Colonel Roosevelt had presented a bill for $3000 for delivering a short lecture before the Rio Janeiro Historical and Geographical Society after he had been feted at great expense by the government.

Colonel Roosevelt was offered in advance an honorarium, such as is customary to offer university lecturers in this country, said Mr. Abbott, and the offer was made without any proposal for or expectation of remuneration on Mr. Roosevelt's part.

NEW HAVEN ROAD PLANS CHANGE IN TRAIN SCHEDULE

Reorganization of Operation of the System Aims at Greater Economy and Some Runs Will Be Annulled

GIVE NEED OF CHANGE

Train service on the New Haven railroad is being reorganized on a more economic basis starting with a number of reductions and time changes, in some cases in compliance with public request, in effect March 15. Changes of a few minutes in the schedules and some annulments of trains of the suburban traffic will occur and numerous revisions such as cutting runs short, making additional stops and removing trains on the lines between Boston and points to the south and west will be in order.

The railroad announces that this modification of its passenger service is in pursuance of a policy of needed but conservative retrenchment to reduce operating expenses and in line with similar action by other important lines.

The main changes affecting the eastern end of the system are in service between Boston and Mansfield, Canton Junction, North Easton, Taunton, New Bedford, Fall River, Newport, Providence, New London, Cohasset, Greenbush, Chatham, Hyannis, Woonsocket, Medfield Junction, Newton Highlands, Needham Junction, Stoughton branch, South Braintree, Readville, Dedham, Mattapan, Norwood Central and the West Quincy branch; and between Whitman and Bridgewater.

The change is expected to affect many employees and result in a considerable saving in operating expenses. Revised time tables will be ready at terminal and station points prior to March 15.

Changes in the parlor and drawing car rates whereby passengers are obliged to hold more than one railroad ticket in order to reserve an entire section or compartment with from two to six Pullman seats for their exclusive use, are said by the New Haven to be working out successfully and at a benefit to the railroads. One ticket before last Sunday has been sufficient to enable one person to secure an entire section from the Pullman company which would thereby get most of the profit on the sale as the railroad would be deprived of the fares of those persons who would otherwise occupy the other seats.

The road states that more persons are using the single parlor car seats and it is enabled to run less cars to accommodate the traffic.

WELLESLEY HEAD DELIVERS ADDRESS AT ANNIVERSARY

WELLESLEY, Mass.—Wellesley College today celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of student government at a gathering at which Miss Ellen Pendleton, president of the college, made an address. Miss Margaret Elliott of Lowell, president of the Wellesley College Student Government Association, presided.

Miss Isabelle Douglas, former president of the association, also spoke. Present were delegates from several Massachusetts colleges, including Miss Margaret Ashley, president of the student council at Smith College; Miss Gertrude Brum, president of the students' league at Mt. Holyoke College, and Miss Katherine Dummer, president of the Student Government Association at Radcliffe.

SUMMER COURSES AT HARVARD TO AID TEACHERS

Many of the courses to be taught at the Harvard summer school which will be in session from July 1 to August 12, will be especially designed for teachers and with a few exceptions all courses taught will count toward the degrees of A.B., M.A. or S.B. Most of the courses will be open to women as well as men.

The school will be open five days a week, the classes usually being conducted in the morning. In connection with other work a number of public lectures and readings will be given, as well as excursions to points of historic interest.

At the beginning of the next college year Harvard will establish a kindergarten in accordance with the proposal made some months ago by Prof Paul H. Hanus of the division of education. Children of Cambridge and vicinity will be eligible, and only a nominal charge will be made for instruction.

New Cape-Coats and Wraps

From the Manufacturer whom Paul Poiret Called the Artist of His Profession

Opened yesterday and to be shown for the first time tomorrow are the latest authoritative styles of women's Spring wraps. Each one is a sympathetic copy of a distinguished adaptation of a good Paris model created by a master. This manufacturer imports all of his materials and is careful to employ the combinations and colors of the original models.

Notable among them are the flare coats of plain and checked materials. They fasten with one button and have high turnover collars. Women will also notice the straight line and the immensely wide belts of the new walking coats.

ARLINGTON VOTES NEW HIGH SCHOOL

ARLINGTON, Mass.—After having the question under consideration for five years Arlington voted definitely yesterday to erect a high school building on Massachusetts avenue, on the site of a street now known as Schouler court. The town meeting, which was supplementary to the annual election Monday, was attended by 1509 voters.

A month ago, at a town meeting, the Schouler court site was accepted by a two-thirds vote. Opponents of the site, questioning the legality of the meeting, succeeded in having a special election called. The Schouler court site needed two-thirds of the total vote cast yesterday, or 1006, and received just 30 more than that number.

IMPORTATION OF EGGS INCREASED

WASHINGTON—A bulletin issued today by the department of commerce shows that 18,172,552 eggs were imported December last, which exceeds the entire amount for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913. Asia furnished most of the eggs. The free entry of eggs in the shell under the new tariff is ascribed as the cause of the increase.

WESTERN LUMBER MAN TALKS NEW STEAMSHIP LINE

H. W. Meyer of San Francisco, manager of the lumber department of Hind, Rolph & Company of that city, has been spending the past few days here looking over the lumber situation and holding conferences with lumber dealers in connection with the establishment of the Boston & Pacific steamship line. The firm he represents will be the San Francisco agents of the new line.

Upon the completion of the Panama canal, the company will start a coast to coast service with Boston as headquarters. Present plans call for constructing a 1000-foot pier in the Mystic river with lumber storage facilities, that virtually will be an extension of the terminal owned by Lawrence & Wiggin. The steamers Atlantic and Pacific, now building at Fore River will run in this service.

Philadelphia Plans for Piers and Harbors

Proceeds of Bond Issue of $12,900,000 Before People in March if Passed Will Be Used for Making a Greater Port

BELT LINE PROPOSED

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—With natural advantages equal to, and in some ways exceeding other important inland ports, Philadelphia, after some years of planning, is advancing to meet great opportunities afforded today, and it is thought the public is assured of the honest and intelligent cooperation of political forces in the development of a greater Philadelphia. Like the landlord of a public house who realizes the necessity of accommodations to offer before he can expect to draw trade, the city appreciates that to keep old business and draw new to it—to bring the consumer more conveniently to the many natural and artificial resources in this locality—its docking, warehouse accommodations and railroad connections must be adequate.

Preparing to utilize the Delaware river front to the fullest advantage, with city railroads and belt line, with modern docks and wharves, and with all manufacturing and shipping interests acting as a unit, Philadelphia hopes soon to be as great a factor in the world's trade as are other inland ports such as London, Hamburg or Antwerp. The opening of the Panama canal is expected greatly to increase coastwise trade, and Philadelphia wishes to be prepared to handle its portion of this business. The port means to keep pace with its shipbuilding industries situated along the Delaware—long the unquestioned center of the American shipbuilding industry—and procure its proportionate share of the prosperity which is everywhere indicated, by immediately providing piers, docking space, railroad and storage facilities which a substantial increase in the port's commerce will require.

Better water facilities will mean competition for the railroads and result in lower rates, encouraging more shipping through this port. Philadelphia's nearness to the coal, iron and cement industries, it is believed, should entitle it to much shipping that at present it does not receive because of high rates. For instance the great amount of cement used in the construction of the Panama canal, although sent from points nearer Philadelphia, has been shipped from New York because of its present superior facilities.

Moyamensing piers in the Delaware river as they will appear when completed

The two important features in this development of a greater Philadelphia are thought to be, one, adequate wharfage and mooring facilities, and two, facilities for the prompt interchange of business on equal terms between all docks and all railroads entering the city. Thus the immediate works planned—and part of which is under way—are the building of piers on the Delaware for the accommodation of ocean traffic; the elimination of all grade crossings in South Philadelphia, and construction of a belt line circling the city for the use of all railroads entering the city, and which will connect directly with the piers in a union terminal station.

Rests With People

The city has just authorized a bond issue of $12,900,000—to be voted on by the people at a special election March 31—part of which is to be applied to immediate work on pier construction, and a large part of which is to be put to internal improvement deemed quite necessary—better roads into the city—grading and repaving of many streets; better fire and police protection; improved sewerage; adequate filtration plants for city water; the building of subways and elevated street car lines. There is to be a subway running north and south on Broad street and an elevated line running to the southwest of the city on Woodland avenue, also one to improve transit into the Kensington district in the northeastern section. This appropriation includes as well provision for an art museum, central library and park improvement.

An ordinance authorizing an agreement between the city and the railroad companies—and which has for some years been under consideration—providing for the removal of grade crossings in South Philadelphia, south of Christian street between the two rivers, the Delaware and Schuylkill, has been signed by the mayor. This agreement will include the elimination of tracks from many streets entirely, abolishing all grade crossings, elevating tracks in some places and, as in the case of Broad street, the street will be carried over the tracks by a 300-foot wide ornamental bridge just north of the entrance to the League Island navy yard. The city proposes to provide a section of about 4000 acres now mostly marsh lands, to be filled in for the use of the railroads as yards. Likewise the city will acquire from the railroads an additional river frontage of 3400 feet.

The railroads will connect directly with ocean traffic by the proposed belt line at the terminal piers. There are at present the means to start the work of abolishing the grade crossings as soon as the ordinance is passed. A group of piers to be known as the Southwark piers, located between Bainbridge and Christian streets, are planned, the contracts for the substructure for the two to be constructed by the city have been let. A third pier of this group in the original plan, is already in course of construction, having been undertaken by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company. This harmonizes in dimensions and location with those of the original plans. These piers, 180 by 550 feet, will be of concrete substructure surmounted by two-story steel sheds, mechanically equipped with modern freight handling machinery. These piers will be suitable to ocean steamship use.

Largest Piers Planned

The proposed improvement next in order to the Southwark piers is a group to be located farther south and known as the Moyamensing piers because they will be within the former limits of that district. This group of long, wide piers will be of much greater size and capacity than any heretofore constructed or planned for Philadelphia. They are designed to be uniformly 1200 feet long, 250 to 300 feet wide, provided with two-story sheds modernly equipped freight-handling machinery, and directly connected with large storage and classification yards and storage warehouses. For the first pier of this group, which will number about 12, it is said, $1,000,000 has been provided in the loan to bid for the sanction of the people the last of March.

It seems quite reasonable to expect that the new dry docks to be built by the government will be eventually built at League Island yards, as offering the best advantages, channel, time to the ocean, labor facilities and construction materials. A committee from the select councils of the municipal government has it in hand to encourage the government to locate many of its industrial plans here.

The government has appropriated $2,000,000 for channel maintenance, in conjunction with the support of the city to provide a 35-foot deep channel, 1000 feet wide. The desire of the city is to have several of the dredges used in the Panama canal work for this channel work, as being economical and efficient. A section of 4000 acres, approximately six square miles, south of Oregon avenue, up to now practically unavailable, is to be developed and made available for factories and residences, which the better shipping facilities and raw material at hand, it is believed, will attract to Philadelphia. The additional commerce and industrial activities expected to follow these improvements will provide employment for thousands.

With all obstacles removed in the shape of legislation, court decisions, and floating of loans it is expected that before the close of the present administration there will be at least $15,000,000 under contract to remove grade crossings, develop the port, widen Delaware avenue, build piers and reclaim waste land in South Philadelphia.

LIBRARIES AND LIBRARIANS

Recreational Reading Circles for Working Girls Plan in Florida

During March the experiment is to be tried under the auspices of the public library of Jacksonville, Fla., of having purely recreational reading circles for working girls. Six persons, either college graduates or doing some form of college work, have volunteered to act as leaders at the meetings, which will be held one evening a week from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The Cleveland public library has issued an advance list of books of adventure for boys and girls. A new plan of annotation makes the list particularly valuable as a model. Three paragraphs are given to most of the books. The first is a summary of the plot or of the scope of the book; the second tells of other books along lines of like interest; the third gives information for the parent or teacher.

"What One Town Can Do With a Little Push" is the title of an item in the last Wisconsin library bulletin. The item reads as follows:

How Wonewoc raised money for the library in 1913. January $70, old-fashioned school; February $87, chain luncheons; March $20, apron sale; June $16, social; July $23, food sales; September $71, fair, given by reading club; October $55, Hallowe'en dance; total $342.

Plans for 1914 include chain luncheons for January, a dance February 22d, and a house-cleaning sale in March; and as the librarian says, "no doubt by that time the other months will be looked after." This town of 800 people may well be proud of its public-spirited citizens and an enthusiastic librarian.

Some features of the work of the Leavenworth, Kan., public library for the last year are summed up in the annual report as follows: During the early spring months several lists of books and invitations to use the library were mimeographed and distributed to homes in the north part of the city where people live so far from the library as to be very probably unaware of its resources. These lists included books on housekeeping, gardening, poultry-raising, carpentry, etc. In the fall lists of books on teaching were distributed among the teachers of the city, and other lists containing books on the mechanic trades were distributed to the various employees in several of the shops with invitations to take out library cards and use the books. The readiest response met with in these attempts to gain a wider use of the library has been among the teachers and pupils of the schools.

A comparison of the circulation by classes for the two years is interesting, showing an increase in every class with the exception of fiction, says the librarian at Portland, Ore., in her last report. The fine arts showed the greatest gain, with literature a brave second. As there has been no undue effort put forth to discourage fiction reading, perhaps the decrease of 2120 volumes is another indication that the day of the best seller is on the wane.

The following were among the requests made in three days of the librarian in charge of the children's department of the Boston central public library, and suitable books recommended to the applicants: Story of the Wooden Horse. When was the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" written? A poem about a boy pardoned by Lincoln. Five requests for material on both sides of a debate on Chinese immigration. Rules of order for presiding at a debate. Music as sound, for a composition. Battle of Lexington. Information about the buildings and streets of Paris. Name of the present secretary of state. The oath of Athenian citizenship. Sir William Wallace. A request for "geology" in which to look up ancestors. Story of Roland. Story of Bayard. Story of the golden touch. Comparative greatness of Washington and Lincoln. A story to read aloud to a group of children. Story of Massachusetts. How to organize a club. A piece to speak in school. Pantomimes. A good book to give an elevator boy. A present to a little girl of six. Description of Murillo's paintings.

Announcement is made that the training school for women organizers has made arrangements by which it is entitled to borrow from the well selected library of the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago. In cooperation with the league the school hopes also to have a well equipped library on social and economic subjects at the disposal of the students.

Attention is called in an editorial in Public Libraries to library progress in Canada and the statement made that, "Toronto is fast becoming one of the strong library centers of the continent, and today possesses the finest library system in Canada."

"Let's go to the library and have a swim," is said to be a common remark in Carnegie, Pa., due to the fact that the gymnasium and shower bath department of the place are housed in the same building as the library, and patrons have got the habit of referring to the whole building as the library without distinguishing between the separate departments.

Non-residents may take the examinations which are to be held soon in Chicago, Urbana and Springfield to fill the positions of librarian assistant in the state library, the university library, the library extension commission, normal school library and libraries in other state institutions. Further particulars may be obtained from W. R. Robinson, secretary of the civil service commission, Springfield, Ill.

Tomorrow is the last day upon which exhibits showing the special work of individual libraries will be received by the A. L. A. Leipzig exhibition committee who have in charge the preparation of material for the display of American library work, which is to form part of the international exhibition of the book industries and graphic arts to be held in Leipzig from May to October

EDUCATIONAL AND MUSICAL ACTIVITY FELT IN ABERDEEN

South Dakota City Known as Railroad Junction Point Has Largest Normal School in the State—Chorus Work Is of a High Grade

ABERDEEN, S. D.—Prominence as an educational and musical center has been attained of late by this city of 13,000 people, already known as a junction point for four important railroad lines of the Northwest. The public schools now have a total attendance of nearly 2000, of whom 250 pupils are in the high school, and a faculty of 75 teachers, with seven separate buildings located in different parts of the city. Notable among these is the new high school building, erected two years ago at a cost of nearly $150,000. Both the high school and the Northern normal and industrial school, a state institution, have a chorus and an orchestra.

The high school curriculum recently was enlarged to admit courses in manual training, domestic science and agriculture. The normal school, attended by nearly 600 students, offers the ordinary normal course of study and also courses in domestic science, music, commerce, agriculture and the mechanical and manual industries and arts. It is situated on extensive grounds near the outskirts of the city and, although it is the youngest of four state normal schools, having been established less than 15 years, it is the largest of them. Two members of its faculty have accepted the presidential chairs at neighboring state institutions in the present school year.

In the normal school chorus there are nearly 100 voices and in its orchestra 24 pieces. They have rendered difficult music together on various occasions in a highly creditable manner.

Another recent organization of note is the Monday Musical Club, composed of many of the leading musicians here. This club holds weekly meetings, at which selected vocal and instrumental numbers from the classics are given.

The Aberdeen Choral Society, under direction of A. W. Voedisch, has for several years given a May musical festival. The chorus, of 100 voices, assisted by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Emil Oberhoffer, has, in the last four years, given such pieces as "The Creation," "Elijah" and "The Messiah" of the oratorios, and "Faust," of the operas. At the next May festival the Biblical narrative of Samson and Delilah, by Saint-Saens, will be presented, and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, with such soloists as Aresoni, tenor, Mme. Loefler, soprano and Mme. Beck, contralto, will again accompany the chorus. The orchestra and soloists will also give three separate concerts; and an additional concert will be given by Sybil Sammis McDermid, the soprano. Mrs. McDermid will be accompanied by her husband, the pianist and composer. Sybil Sammis' former home was in this part of the state.

Other of the soloists who have participated in these festivals in the past are David Bispham, baritone; Evan Williams, tenor, and Luella Chilson Ormond, soprano. At the last festival music lovers heard Miss Cordelia Lee, violinist, in her first American appearance. Miss Lee, whose home is in this city, has spent the last nine years abroad studying under such masters as Ysaye, Thibault, Scevcik and Auer.

MAINE RIVER TOWN OF MILO KNOWN FOR ITS INDUSTRIES

MILO, Me.—This little town located on the Pleasant, Sebec and Piscataquis rivers has attained some note as a manufacturing place, and now has 2556 people. The principal plants here are the American Thread Company's spool mills, the Boston Excelsior mills, and the general car shops of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad Company. A cement bridge across the Sebec river was erected last year.

C. A. PROUTY NOT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR SENATE SEAT

Informs Progressives of Vermont That He Will Not Seek Place of W. P. Dillingham

MONTPELIER, Vt.—The contents of a letter received by Charles H. Thompson, chairman of the Progressive state committee, from Charles A. Prouty, just made public, is taken here as conclusive that Mr. Prouty gives up all intention of entering in any way into the contest for the seat of United States Senator William P. Dillingham.

"I decided after careful consideration not to be a candidate for the reason stated by me," writes Mr. Prouty. "Having reached and announced that conclusion I gave up all further thought of the matter and have entered upon my work here, which entirely occupies my time.

"Deeply as I appreciate the sentiment of my friends in Vermont I feel that I cannot be directly or indirectly a candidate."

REDISTRICTING OF RHODE ISLAND IS URGED ON SENATE

PROVIDENCE—Senator Archambault of West Warwick presented a resolution in the Senate yesterday proposing an amendment to the state constitution, providing for the redistricting the state into 14 senatorial districts and providing for the election of 14 senators instead of 39.

Accompanying the resolution proposing the change was a resolution authorizing the Governor to appoint a commission to draft and report an act providing for a Senate and report changes in the laws of the state necessary to carry into effect the proposed amendments to the constitution of the state. The resolution provides that this commission shall be made up of one person from each county.

Senator Archambault proposed a division of the state into 14 senatorial districts, his plan being to have districts containing approximately 40,000 voters, except in Washington county, where the territory is large and the population small. The plan gives Providence five senators

ANNUAL BUDGET IN PROVIDENCE SETS HIGH MARK

Sum Needed to Run Departments Is Believed to Exceed Six Millions, Largest in History of the City

PLANS FOR SUBWAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Estimates of the appropriations necessary to run the various city departments for the fiscal year of 1915 have been filed with City Auditor Philip S. Chase from all departments.

Although accurate figures on the sum requested for the coming year are not yet available, it is known that the estimates reach a total of close to $6,200,000, the largest amount in the history of the city.

City departments almost without exception have asked for material increases over the appropriations given them for the current fiscal year. It is estimated that the total amount asked for next year will be close to $450,000 above the sum finally approved by the finance committee for the current year.

Estimates for the present year totaled $6,064,896. The finance committee cut this figure, however, more than a quarter of a million dollars, and finally approved a municipal budget of $5,816,807. Of this amount, $1,212,223 was obtained by the city from various sources of revenue, leaving $4,604,584 which had to be met by taxation. The sum to be met by taxation was the largest in the history of the city, but it was raised at the old rate of $1.65, although sweeping revaluations of property were made by the tax assessors.

This year the increase in the amount which may be raised by taxation at the $1.65 rate will be small, according to Mr. Grimwood, with the result that estimates received by the committee will have to be materially cut if a jump in the tax rate is to be avoided.

The report, recommendations and draft act of the special committee on subways will be sent to the board of aldermen in special session Saturday morning.

It is known that the committee favors a plan for a general main subway system, with a bore running from the Trinity square district through the center of the city and extending toward Pawtucket to the vicinity of the North burial ground, and another running from Olneyville to the Seekonk river on the East Side.

FITCHBURG MAYOR FOR ECONOMY

FITCHBURG, Mass.—Realizing that Fitchburg, in common with Worcester and other cities in Massachusetts, is confronted by the highest tax rate in its history, Mayor Benjamin A. Cook read a special message in presenting the budget to the city council Tuesday night, in which he sounded a note of caution in expenditures.

Many Discuss the Sectarian Question

Seminary of Newton; the Rev. O. P. Gifford of the Brookline Baptist church, Bishop John W. Hamilton of the Methodist Episcopal church and Dr. Charles Fleischer.

Dr. Anderson said that prohibiting sectarian use of state money was a matter of actual necessity. By decree of the supreme court of Massachusetts he pointed out that there is no constitutional prohibition against appropriation of state moneys for higher ecclesiastical institutions or societies under denominational or sectarian control. Appropriations of this character have already been made by the Legislature.

The court had also expressed the opinion that school money could not be used for parochial schools; four members of the bench were in favor of this opinion and three opposed to it.

Should a new appointment to the supreme court of one man be made by Governor Walsh or any other Governor this decision might be reversed, he said.

Dr. Gifford pointed out that a rapidly growing number of citizens whose religious faith has its nucleus across the seas is filling the commonwealth. He quoted high authorities of the Catholic church and one of its large societies as favoring state aid in education and the opinion of Cardinal O'Connell that such aid was not contrary to the constitution.

"They do not make a plea for the state to support their church," he declared, "but that it should support their schools, and thereby ask the state to supply the bricks that they may build a building to supply thread that they may weave the cloth."

That the Legislature should rise to the dignity of statesmanship above all religious differences was urged by Bishop Hamilton, who deplored the introduction of any religious feeling into this matter. He pointed out that, as soon as the state is called upon to appropriate money to any denominational institution, it was thereby given a right logically and legally to exercise inspection and jurisdiction over such an institution. He said that Cardinal Gibbons had expressed a similar opinion.

"Massachusetts," he said, "is facing in this instance a world problem that has been brought to our shores. Remember that if one church is granted appropriations then all will come for aid."

The attitude of the Catholic church on the matter of connection between church and state was well known, according to Dr. Fleischer. "There is an increase of feeling on this question in the commonwealth," he declared.

Expressing the opinion that the Catholics might have some cause for feeling that they were paying a double taxation in supporting both state and parochial schools, he said that if any special element of the commonwealth feels the need of private schools they should be called upon to pay for this private privilege and should be loyal to their own institution to make this contribution.

Other speakers in favor of the amendment were Dr. Bradley Gilman, Dr. Arthur Little of Dorchester and Dr. Charles R. Rice, president of the Federation of Churches of Massachusetts.

Dr. G. L. Cady, in speaking in favor of the amendment, quoted Cardinal Gibbons as favoring the separation of church and state.

It was announced that Representative Chandler and Senator Burbank wished to be recorded in favor of the amendment. No one spoke in opposition, with the exception of Charles Fuller, secretary of the legislative committee of the Progressive party, who spoke, however, in his private capacity. A vote taken at the end of the hearing by the raising of hands showed practically all in attendance in favor of the amendment.

Dr. Prescott Everett, Dr. Charles W. Wendte, William Warren, former president of Boston University, Charles W. Blackett, De Witt G. Wilcox of Boston University medical school and Dr. Richard Wright of Cambridge also spoke in favor.

EXPRESS RATES TO BE CUT AGAIN IN THIS STATE

lowest in the entire country when the first reduction on the basis of the interstate commerce commission program was made Feb. 1.

The Boston rates made up on a basis of 50 cents per 100 pounds are now to become operative for every other express point in this state. The new system also will place the express rates on short haul business in a majority of cases at a lower level than existed here in Massachusetts before the new interstate rates went into effect Feb. 1.

It will be recalled, perhaps, that the broad schedule of interstate rates when placed in operation made very radical advances over the old express company rates so far as short distances were concerned. This was noticeable especially in this state where the old rates had been much lower than throughout the average of the country owing to the congested population and active competition.

Now, however, this new reduction will in most cases bring the short haul rates lower than ever, as low in some cases and in a few instances only a bit higher than the old schedule.

Inasmuch as the interstate basis is arbitrarily applied to definite territory limited by the meridians and parallels of latitude it is difficult to describe in general terms exactly how the new basis will work out. Briefly, it may be said that the present rate running from 21 cents for a single pound up to 60 cents for 100 pounds will be changed to one covering a limited area averaging in a general way within a radius of 25 miles, running from 21 cents per pound to 50 cents per 100 pounds. A fringe of adjacent territory will carry a rate from 21 to 55 cents and beyond that the system in effect Feb. 1 will stand.

It is interesting to note how some of the principal cities and shipping points in this state will be benefited by this change. The reduction of 10 cents from the 60-cent to the 50-cent per 100-pound rate will apply to shipments between Worcester and Webster, Fitchburg, Marlboro and Clinton, between Springfield and Northampton, Holyoke and Palmer, between Fitchburg and Leominster, Winchendon, Athol and Ayer, between Lowell and Lawrence, Framingham and Wellesley, between Lynn and Salem and Beverly, between New Bedford and Fall River and Middleboro, between Fall River and Taunton.

The reduction to 55 cents per hundred in the adjacent territory will affect shipments between Worcester and Framingham, Concord and Waltham; between Springfield and Greenfield, Belchertown and Southbridge; between Fitchburg and Lowell, Webster, Marlboro and Northfield; between Lowell and Clinton; between Lynn and Gloucester and Lawrence; between North Adams and Greenfield; between New Bedford and Plymouth and Taunton, and between Fall River and Attleboro.

ROTARY CLUB TO DONATE $1000 TO CITY BOOM FUND

Members of the Boston Rotary Club entertained Mayor James M. Curley and John J. Martin, president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at a luncheon at the Boston City Club today.

Following an address by Mayor Curley the club voted to subscribe $1000 to the industrial fund which the mayor is raising for developing the city. The mayor urged that the Boston Chamber of Commerce establish committees to work all the time to bring big conventions to Boston. He said J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., president of the chamber, had assured him that a committee would be appointed to negotiate with the New Haven railroad in an endeavor to have the purchasing and supplies department of the road here instead of removing to New Haven or New York.

ORDER REQUESTS INFORMATION OF TRANSIT BOARD

Representative McInerney Introduces Twelve Queries to Boston Commission and Asks House to Pass the Order

FACTS ARE SOUGHT

Representative McInerney of Boston this afternoon introduced in the House an order requesting the Boston transit commission to furnish the House with certain information in answer to 12 questions which Mr. McInerney submitted.

These questions are in substance:

1. In the year 1913 how did the transit commission meet?
2. As a general rule how long did the meetings last?
3. According to their salaries, what has been the recompense per meeting that each commissioner received in 1913?
4. Are there stenographic records kept of each meeting? If so, by whom?
5. How many of the commission are engineers or have had experience in engineering?
6. Who would be most efficient at the head of the commission, a thoroughly competent engineer as a single head commissioner or the present board of five?
7. Would the efficiency of the board be impaired if it was reduced to three members?
8. How often in the past five years have plans for excavations been altered before or after the excavating work began?
9. What claims have been made on the city of Boston by the present transit commission and who was responsible for such claims?
10. What sums have been allowed for excavations above the original bids made?
11. Have any non-competitive contracts been given out?
12. At whose recommendation were the entrances and exits to the Cambridge subway at Tremont street altered and what was the cost?

Among the measures relative to the board in the Legislature in favor of continuing the work of the commission of five members in Senator Malcolm E. Nichols' bill, Senate 102, which provides for extending the term of the commission for three years after July 1, 1914, at which time it would ordinarily expire under the present statutes.

GOVERNOR WALSH SENDS MESSAGES TO COMMITTEES

Postponement of Salary Bill for His Office and Regulation of Wire Companies Are Themes

Governor Walsh today sent to two committees of the Legislature communications relative to measures before these committees awaiting their report.

In a letter on public lighting Mr. Walsh urges favorable report on a bill to transfer regulation of telephone and telegraph companies from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commission. He recommends also that the gas and electric light commission be given jurisdiction over all water, water power and electric power companies.

The other communication was sent to the committee on public service. In this letter the Governor requests that the bill to increase the salary of the Governor from $8000 to $12,000 take effect at some time later than the present year. Mr. Walsh says that inasmuch as he was elected by the people with the understanding that he was to receive $8000 he feels that the measure should not be made applicable to his services this year.

MILITIA MEN ASK PAY OF U. S. ARMY

Col. Walter E. Lombard of the coast artillery corps, Col. Winifred Merrill and Col. Edward L. Logan of the ninth infantry were before the legislative committee on military affairs at the State House this morning to urge the passage of bills to increase the pay and allowances of officers and the organizations of the militia.

Colonel Lombard urged that officers of the militia should receive the regular army pay, not only during maneuvers and stated tours of duty in the field, but at all times. His associates supported him.

ESSEX CITIES AND TOWNS ASK FOR BETTER TROLLEY SERVICE

Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen and Andover Make Plea to Public Service Commission for Transfer and Other Privileges—Reading Also Sends Representatives

Residents and city officials of North and South Lawrence, Andover, Methuen, Haverhill and Reading appeared before the public service commission today seeking extensions of transfer privileges and better car service.

The car service in Reading was first taken up. Jesse Morton, who conducted the case for that town, said that the Bay State Street Railway Company recently cut off three trips in the evening between Reading and Lawrence and three between Reading and Lowell. The action of the company had been detrimental to the business of the town and had caused great inconvenience to the residents.

Edmund L. Hutchinson said that a short time ago the town had granted the road the privilege of laying a turnout on its streets, and soon afterward the company cut down its service. Officials of the road, he declared, admitted at a recent conference that the Lawrence line was profitable.

Frank F. Strout proposed that if the road did not pay, its officials should go to the Legislature and have the fares raised from 5 to 6 cents. He said residents would rather pay the extra cent than experience the present inconvenience.

Walter K. Badger pointed out that the curtailment of cars was detrimental to business.

James F. Jackson, counsel for the road, called on Superintendent John Grey, who stated that there was little or no local traffic here and from figures taken 10 days before and 10 days after the curtailment he found this section of the service did not pay.

The petition was taken under advisement.

On the question of the Lawrence car service, J. Frank James, representing the Lawrence Real Estate Association, said that there is discrimination in favor of Haverhill in the granting of transfer privileges and he asked that the city he represented should have its share.

Mayor Michael J. Scanlon of Lawrence asked for the same transfer privileges as Haverhill.

Representative Arthur Bauer spoke in favor of the petition for better transfer privileges from the point of view of the working people, whom they most affected.

It was finally agreed that both sides would confer if the road had any concessions to make and if not the commission would bring both sides together and make a finding.

Representatives of the town of Methuen next had their case for extension of transfer privileges considered.

LEGAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE HAS TWO HEARINGS

Several employment bills on the list for hearing today by the legislative committee on legal affairs at the State House were not taken up.

The committee heard Mrs. Mary Newman in favor of a bill to make Abraham Lincoln day a legal holiday. No opposition.

Walter L. McMenimen spoke for his bill to provide that no employee of a railroad or a street railway corporation shall be disciplined or discharged in consequence of information affecting such employee's conduct until after a hearing.

Henry F. Sterling of the American Federation of Labor, Martin Joyce, secretary of the Federation, Massachusetts branch; P. F. Coyle of the Station Agents Union, Henry H. Wilson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and John J. Mullen of the Telegraphers Union urged the passage of the bill.

DRYDOCK LINING TO BE DEBATED

Material to be used in construction of the lining of the new drydock to be built in South Boston will be the topic of a hearing to be given interested parties by the port directors at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow. Granite, concrete or a combination of concrete base and granite facing are to be discussed. Most of the engineers employed in the work favor the combination, as it will be about $500,000 cheaper.

Owing to delays contract time for completion, May 1, of the construction of the new Commonwealth pier will be extended. Before the present month is gone the fish dealers will be occupying the new fish pier.

HARVARD OFFICERS FUND TO ELECT

Members of the Harvard Officers Fund Association will hold their annual meeting Friday afternoon at 4:30 in the meeting room of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, 5 University hall. At the meeting two trustees will be elected, one for three years as successor to Prof. I. N. Hollis, and one for five years to succeed F. W. Taussig, whose term expires.

MUSIC

GOUNOD WORK TO BE PRODUCED

Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet," will have its first presentation on the Boston Opera stage tonight, with Lucien Muratore and Miss Alice Nielsen in the title roles and with Mr. Strony conducting. The scenery will be that used at the Metropolitan opera house in New York. Mme. Rienskaja will be the nurse, Mr. Marcoux will be the friar, Mr. Danges will be Mercutio, Mr. Deru will be Tybalt and Mr. Everett will be Paris. Other artists appearing are: Mme. Swartz and Messrs. Wronski, Grand, Sampieri and Fusco.

There will be six scenes, showing palace hall, garden, chapel, city square, palace chamber and crypt. The performance begins at 7:45 o'clock.

The director is said to have introduced the piece into the repertory in order to give the public an opportunity to hear Mr. Muratore in one of the tenor roles which he has sung with great acclaim in Paris. The work is interesting as an example of opera of the middle nineteenth century French school and as an interpretation of a Shakespearean plot by French librettists. As a piece of musical picturing the tragedy is treated by Gounod in the vein of sentimental opera, not like the tragedy of "Othello" as handled by Verdi, in the vein of romantic and heroic opera. The piece resembles Massenet's "Manon" not a little when that work is presented in its complete form, in having a spectacle introduced by way of diversion. The ballet is not to be omitted from "Romeo and Juliet," as it has been from Boston opera performances of "Manon." The hour of beginning has been put ahead so that the ball room scene can be given as nearly as may be in the manner the stage directions demand.

MISS DODGE SINGS

In Jordan hall Tuesday evening Miss Elizabeth Dodge, soprano, gave a recital with Carl Webster, 'cellist; Alfred De Voto, pianist, and William L. Bates, organist, assisting. On the program were pieces of varied technical demand and of high interpretive challenge, including Gilda's aria from "Rigoletto," a selection from the music which Liza Lehmann wrote to poetry of Omar Khayyam, and Handel's "O Had I Jubal's Lyre." There were also works by Faure, Gounod and Strauss.

Miss Dodge pleased her house by the geniality and intelligence of her readings and made a record of excellent work in handling songs in three languages. Dramatic effects found significant value, but effects which depended on pliant execution did not always strike home to her listeners. The singer's assisting 'cellist, Mr. Webster, contributed to the interest of the program both by taking part in Gounod's serenade and in playing solo numbers.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS MEET

Mrs. Frank Foxcroft of Cambridge spoke at a meeting of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Woman Suffrage held at the Kensington building last night.

MANY APPEAR FOR STATE FARM BILL

About 200 men and women, said to be unemployed, appeared at the State House today to second the efforts of Morrison I. Swift who spoke before the committee on social welfare in behalf of his petition for the establishment of a "state farm with appropriate manufacturing industries," where unemployed persons may be put to work.

To enable unemployed persons to support themselves while being taught farming is the purpose of the bill under consideration at the hearing today.

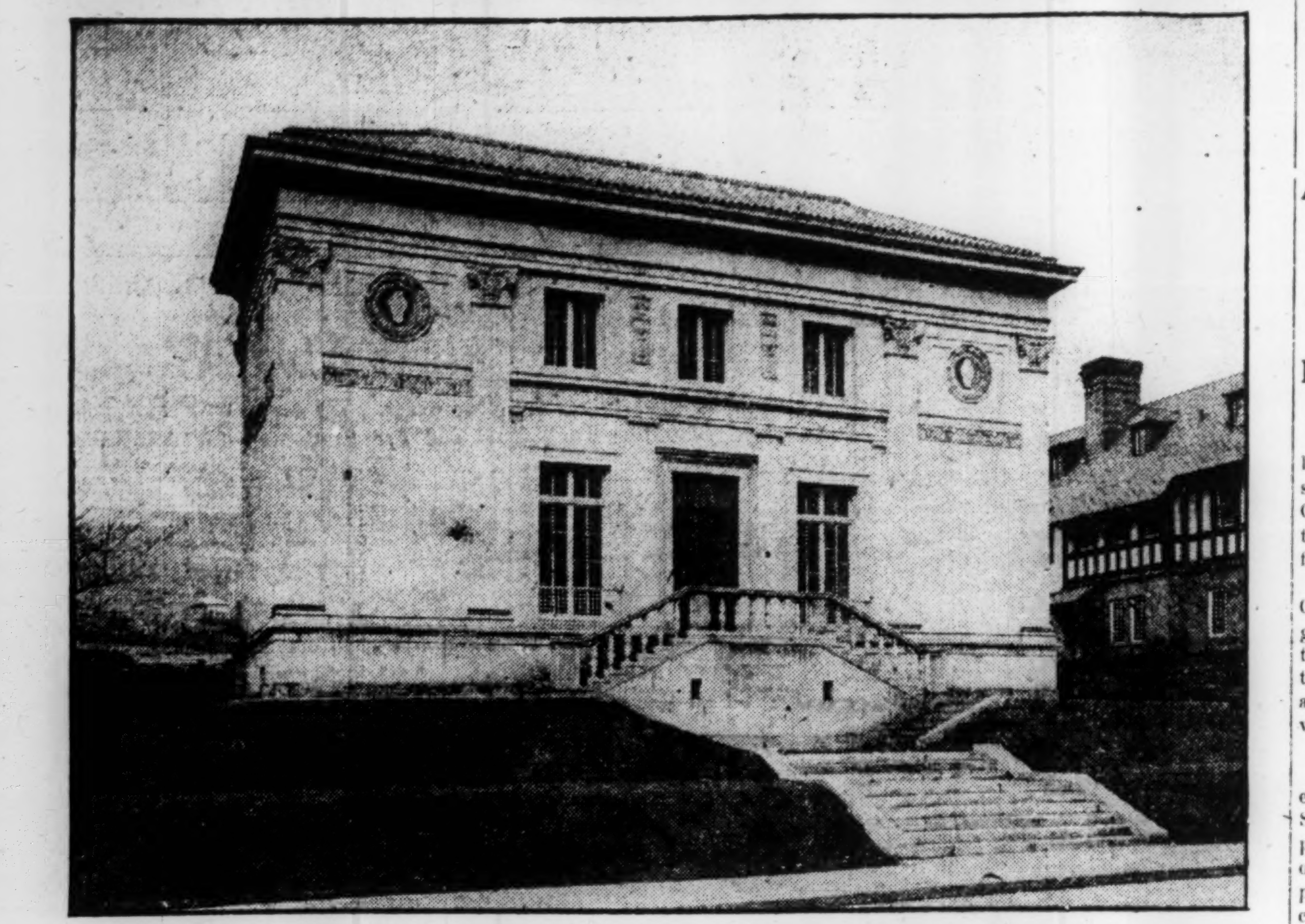
PENNSYLVANIA HISTORY HOUSE OPEN



First building of group proposed by Western society dedicated in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH—The building of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania at Schenley Farms, recently dedicated, is the first of a group that is to be erected by the society. It was built at a cost of $25,000, donated by the state. The lot on which the building was erected cost $15,000 and was purchased by the society.

The interior of the first floor has a tile flooring and many Corinthian columns. A broad stairway leads to the second floor which is used as a library museum, reading room and offices. The first floor will be used as a meeting room. Many valuable paintings are hung on the walls. The building is situated in the center of the University of Pittsburgh group, near the Soldiers Memorial hall.

Later another building is to be erected immediately in the rear of this building which will cost $50,000. The present building will then be used as a foyer to the entrance of the contemplated new building. The society has a rare collection of books, documents, pictures and relics relating to the early history of Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania, which will be placed in the museum of the building, on the second floor.

The opening celebrated the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the first white settlement at Pittsburgh. It was Feb. 17, 1754, that Captain Trent and 40 men sent from Virginia arrived at the forks of the Ohio and erected a fort, which some time later they were compelled to yield to a greatly superior force of French and Indians whose commander christened the post Ft. Duquesne.

LARGE PARK AT KANSAS CITY'S STATION ASKED

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The resolution of the ways and means committee of the Commercial Club calling on the directors to appoint a committee to bring about a station park on "the largest practicable plan" was adopted in full by the Merchants Association at a meeting at the Hotel Baltimore, the Star reports.

The association also adopted a resolution in favor of a celebration of the opening of the station, preferably to be held in the fall of 1914.

PARADE ROUTE IS FIXED BY MAYOR

Regardless of protests from the South Boston Citizens Association Mayor Curley has ruled that the Evacuation day parade will begin as planned, at Edward Everett square, and march in Dorchester as well as South Boston. The parade will proceed along Columbia road to Dorchester avenue, to Dorchester street, to G Street around Thomas park, East Sixth to H street, to East Fourth street to L street, to East Broadway, to finish at Dorchester avenue and West Broadway.

It was announced yesterday by Head Master Small that a misunderstanding which arose over the question of declamations by two boys from the South Boston high school had been settled and the boys will declaim at the exercises.

DIVIDEND APPEAL CASE TO BE ARGUED

Arguments are expected to be heard today before the court of errors and appeals in Trenton, N. J., on the appeal of Godfrey M. Hyams from Vice-Chancellor Howell's decision in the suit brought by Mr. Hyams to prevent the Old Dominion Company of New Jersey paying a "special dividend" from proceeds of judgment secured against A. S. Bigelow.

Although the lower court decided adversely to Mr. Hyams, a temporary restraining order was issued preventing the payment of the dividend. The hearing will be limited to arguments by counsel.

SENATOR WEEKS TALKS TO BANKERS

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt.—Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts discussed the expected benefits of the new banking and currency measure before the annual convention of the Vermont Bankers Association. He advocated financial cooperation with Central and South American countries and the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine.

Henry F. Field of Rutland was elected president of the association.

DR. NORTHROP NOT TO ENTER POLITICS

MINNEAPOLIS—Dr. Cyrus Northrop, president emeritus of the University of Minnesota, will not permit the use of his name as a candidate for the state Senate in the twenty-ninth district, the Journal states. He was waited on recently by a committee appointed at a mass meeting of East siders, but he decided that it would be unwise to tie himself down to the arduous service required in the Legislature.

EDISON COMPANY GIVES DINNER TO MOTOR CAR CLUB

Because it will need its prosperity to offset the 25 per cent reduction in the rate of the new lighting contract with the city which he is going to do his utmost to obtain, Mayor Curley, in the American House last night, said he is interested in the success of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company. The occasion was a dinner to the Electric Motor Car Club by the Edison company.

Lieut. W. J. Keville delivered a message of greeting to the club on behalf of Governor Walsh.

Frank H. Smith, president of the Electric Vehicle Association of America, came over from New York to act as toastmaster. The dinner was the third anniversary of the campaign started by the Edison company to aid the development of the electric vehicles, and the speakers all dwelt upon conditions surrounding that subject.

HARVARD COLLEGE HAS TUNNEL RIGHT

Cambridge aldermen granted a franchise to Harvard College last night to build a tunnel from the power house of the Boston Elevated Railway Company on Boylston street to the college yard for pipes for the new Widener library and other buildings.

Alderman Mullen offered three amendments providing that all sewer work and water pipe work occasioned by the tunnel and all digging shall be done by the city departments at the expense of the college.

These amendments were adopted, 6 to 5. The order as amended was adopted.

ST. PAUL PARKS TO GET GOLF LINKS

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Efforts to establish public golf links in St. Paul, as proposed in resolutions adopted by the fourth district of the Federation of Women's Clubs reported in the Dispatch, have been made by the park board for several years, according to President Smith, but lack of funds has blocked the plan. It is probable, however, that public links will be provided at Phalen park this summer, and in other sections of the city when funds are available.

REVERE BOARD TO NAME POLICE HEAD

Revere selectmen will meet tonight to act on the appointment of a chief of police, following the removal from office of Acting Chief Clair P. Chainey on Monday evening. Lieut. George C. Devine is filling the vacancy.

Charges preferred against Mr. Chainey by Chairman White of the board include incompetence, neglect of duty and inaction in the prosecution of illegal resorts. March 12 has been set for a hearing.

AID PLANNED FOR STUDENTS ABROAD

NEW YORK—The appointment of correspondents abroad who will aid graduate students of Teachers College of Columbia University, who go to Europe to study educational systems and methods is a new departure in American education just announced by the university trustees. Five correspondents have been selected.

WIRELESS HEARD MORE THAN 6000 MILES IN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO—When the Island of Yap, in the Caroline group, more thna 6100 miles distant from San Francisco, talked with one of its sister islands in the Marshall group on a recent afternoon the young wireless operators of the experimental station of the University of California "listened in."

As a result a new record for long distance has been established on the coast, the Examiner announces. The message was intercepted by Haraden Pratt, San Francisco boy student in the college of engineering. The news which Pratt grabbed out of the ether was a commercial message in code.

WICHITA TEACHER OF ENGLISH USES MINIATURE STAGE

WICHITA, Kan.—A Wichita teacher, Miss Millicent Noftzger, daughter of Senator Thomas A. Noftzger, attorney of this city, has published in a theatrical magazine an article entitled "A Stage in an English Class Room." Accompanying the story is a cut of the stage, with the actors presenting "As You Like It."

"The actors are five inch dolls," states Miss Noftzger in her article quoted by the Eagle. "Costumers, carpenters and scene painters are students. The five foot stage resting on a movable table was made by a student, the son of a carpenter. The dimensions of the stage are on a scale of one inch to the foot."

CHANCE MEN HAVE HARD WORKOUT

HOUSTON, Tex.—Frank Chance of the New York Americans did not lose any time Tuesday, the first day of work at the training camp. In fact, it has been years since a ball club was put through such a stiff practise the first time out.

The New York manager was well pleased with the way his infield went about their training. Williams, the big first baseman, was placed in that position, Hartsell at second, Peckinpaugh at short and Fritz Meisel on third. Chance hit the ball to his men at a lively pace and some sharp fielding was in order for more than a half hour. It begins to look, even at this early date, as if the infield will open the season that way, unless one of the young men comes forward with some star work or a deal is made for a second baseman.

OLD BROOKLINE BLOCK BURNED

One of the first buildings erected in Brookline on the cooperative plan in 1840 was practically destroyed today when fire damaged the Lyceum hall block, 111 to 113 Washington street, Brookline village, to the extent of about $12,000.

The historic structure, which used to be a transfer station for stage coaches, was almost burned out in three hours. Three alarms were sent in. The owner of the structure was Mrs. Mary R. Johnson of 205 Davis avenue, Brookline.

BUFFALO BOARD PLAN PASSES

ALBANY, N. Y.—The bill designed to give to Buffalo a commission charter, with the approval of the voters at the next election, passed the Assembly Tuesday, 107 to 3.

COURT WILL FIX DATE FOR STEEL SUIT ARGUMENTS

Agrees to Motion of Special Assistant to the Attorney-General, Who Asks the Judges to Name Any Time After Sept. 15

INQUIRY IS RESUMED

PHILADELPHIA—A step toward bringing to a conclusion the government suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation was taken Tuesday, when the federal district court was asked to fix a date to hear argument in the case.

The motion was made by Henry E. Colton, special assistant to the attorney-general, who asked the judges to fix any time after Sept. 15. John G. Johnson of this city, counsel for the Steel Corporation, agreed to the motion. The court will announce the date later.

WASHINGTON—Certified copies of entries on the books of the United States Steel Corporation, alleged to show the payment of large rebates by railroads on the corporation's ore shipments, were promised to the interstate commerce commission Tuesday by William H. Green of Nebraska.

Green was testifying before Commissioner Harlan in the Senate inquiry into alleged rebating. He agreed to have the copies on hand when the hearing is resumed today.

VOTERS ASKED TO GO TO POLLS IN BROOKLINE

Thirty Brookline citizens signed and issued a circular to Brookline voters last night urging them to go to the polls tomorrow to insure the reelection of the present board of selectmen and of George H. Worthley as tax collector, opposed by the new candidate John H. McMahon. Four of the present board of selectmen were renominated at the town caucus, but William Craig, a member of the present board, and George H. Abbott, a new candidate, were tied with 382 votes each and obliged to file nomination papers.

The circular is signed by James M. Codman, Jr., Charles F. Greenough, Frank M. Seaman, Herbert Jacques, Charles A. Williams, Alexander Pope, George H. Wightman, former Senator Charles H. Pearson, Robert A. Boit, Frederick P. Fish, Moses Williams, Dr. Walter Channing, Leslie C. Wead, Henry B. Cabot, Judge Harvey H. Baker, Francis H. Rowley, George B. Baker, William C. Hunneman, George S. Parker, Albion F. Bemis, George L. Perin, Jerome Jones, Alfred D. Chandler, Albion L. Lincoln, Representative John H. Sherborn, Harry W. Cumner, Nathaniel A. Francis, Harold Williams, Jr., Charles P. Coffin and G. Loring Briggs.

HARD SCHEDULE IS ARRANGED FOR PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA—One of the hardest schedules ever arranged for University of Pennsylvania crews was announced Tuesday after it had been ratified by the board of directors of the athletic association.

In addition to the American Henley and the Poughkeepsie regatta, Pennsylvania will compete for the first time in a regatta with five of the local club crews on the Schuylkill river May 2, and will meet Princeton and Columbia in a triangular race on Carnegie lake a week later. The schedule follows:

April 18, varsity and freshman dual races with Annapolis at Annapolis; May 2, interclub regatta at Philadelphia; May 9, triangular race with Columbia and Princeton at Princeton; May 16, American Henley regatta at Philadelphia; June 26, intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie.

It was also announced that Yale would be represented in the American Henley by a varsity and junior eight and also a freshman crew.

AT RAILWAY TERMINALS

The Boston & Maine railway official inspection train left North station at 7 o'clock this morning, en route to Sherbrooke, P. Q., via Southern division, Concord and Newport.

The private car Elysian, occupied by President Theodore N. Vail of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, arrived at South station today, over the New Haven road's Shore line from New York city.

The Pullman Company forwarded by special Boston & Albany train from Exeter street this morning 30 sleepers to Pittsburgh for distribution.

The New England Coal & Coke works of Everett, Mass., has placed in service 50 new steel cars, with the intention of loading them to nearby New England points.

CAMPAIGN FACTS SOUGHT

Obert Sletten, chairman of the city committee of the Citizens Municipal party of Cambridge, yesterday afternoon called on District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Cambridge and gave him names of 10 or 12 persons who could give information as to alleged practise of assessing apothecaries for campaign contributions.

MISS CRABTREE TO RECEIVE PLAYERS AND SUFFRAGISTS

Miss Lotta Crabtree, vice-president of the Players National Equal Suffrage League, will entertain the members of the league and players filling engagements in the city, at the Hotel Brewster next Friday afternoon. Miss Mary Shaw of New York will talk on woman suffrage and read from an original suffrage play. Miss Margaret Sawyer will sing, accompanied by Prof. John T. Marshall of the Symphony orchestra. Miss Jane Cowl and Miss Margaret Anglin will act as hostesses. Mrs. Guy Currier, president of the league, receives with Miss Crabtree.

At the last executive meeting of the league, permanent officers elected for the organization were: President, Mrs. Guy Currier; vice-president, Miss Lotta Crabtree, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Priscilla Webster; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Cram, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. F. L. Milliken.

Although Miss Webster and Mrs. Milliken have resigned from the league, contrary to reports they still retain their membership in the state and city woman suffrage organizations.

WATER INCOME BILL OF MAYOR HAS HEARING

Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan appeared before the committee on municipal finance at the State House today in support of a bill filed by Mayor Curley to provide that the income received each year by Boston from its water works shall after Feb. 1, 1913, be applied to meet the expenses for maintenance of its water works, to meet the assessments and the interest and sinking fund requirements of the loans and the principal of maturing serial loans issued for the works.

By the time the bonds mature there would be $900,000, more than sufficient to mature them, he said. It had been argued that no profit ought to be made out of the water works but he contended that the city was entitled to by law make a reasonable profit, say 5 per cent. A reduction of the water rate benefits nobody materially, and reduced rates make for waste of water. By passing the proposed amendment the Legislature would put Boston on an equality with other cities and town in the metropolitan district.

EVERETT MAYOR SUBMITS BUDGET TOTALING $823,551

Mayor Chambers has completed his recommendations for the budget which will be acted upon at the next meeting of the city government. The budget calls $823,551.18 less revenues of $254,699.72, leaving the net amount to be raised by taxation for municipal purposes $568,851.16.

The budget is now in the hands of the finance committee of the council and by it will be reported. It is expected that more reductions will be made by the committee, but the aggregate amount will be about the same.

Under the education item are salaries of teachers $170,460, $18,950 for salaries of other officials and $46,100 for the running expenses of the schools, this amount being $2300 more than asked by the school board to permit of extension work in the schools.

LEGISLATORS PLAN VISITS TO MANY HARBORS

For examining, first hand, proposed waterway and harbor developments, the legislative committee on harbors and public lands plans to visit the following places during March:

Lynn, Salem, Gloucester, Rockport, Beverly, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport, Holyoke, Chicopee, New Bedford, Fall River, Taunton, Scituate, Duxbury and Bourne.

An order providing formally for this inspection was introduced in the House this afternoon.

MAYOR SEEKS LOMASNEY AID

Representative Martin M. Lomasney appeared at city hall at the request of Mayor Curley today and was asked to help defeat all bills in the Legislature which would increase the tax rate. It is said this is Mr. Lomasney's first visit to the mayor's office in many years.

HOUSEHOLD NEEDS HOUSEHOLD NEEDS

"It's The Best Polish I Ever Used"

That's What Every One Says Who Tries

Black Silk Stove Polish

DON'T imagine for a moment that all brands of stove polish are the same. Don't get the idea that to keep a nice glossy shine on your stove you must black it every few days. It is not a question of oft-repeated application. It's a question of the stove polish to use.

Black Silk Stove Polish is so much better than any other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison—it's in a class by itself.

It makes a brilliant glossy shine that does not rub or dust off. It anneals to the iron—becomes a part of the stove. It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other shine.

Get a can and give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove, your cook stove, or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Black Silk Stove Polish has been made by the same formula and sold under one name for 30 years.

Here is what some of the ladies write us:

"I sent to you for a can of Black Silk Stove Polish and found it so much better than any I had ever used that I asked my hardware dealer to order a supply. He did so, and is now selling nearly everyone in the place your polish. I had no idea there could be such a difference in stove polishes."

"I was visiting friends and they used Black Silk Stove Polish on their stoves. IT made the best shine I ever saw, and after blacking, the polish did not rub or dust off. IT is way ahead of any polish I have ever used."

Ask Your Dealer for Black Silk Stove Polish and refuse a counterfeit brand. Costs you no more than the ordinary kind, so why not have the best. Made in liquid or paste—one quality.

Black Silk Stove Polish Works, Sterling, Ill.

We want you to try our polish. If you cannot obtain it in your city, send us 10 cents and we will mail you sample can.

Use Black Silk Air-Drying Iron Enamel for grates, fenders, registers, stove pipes, etc. Prevents rusting.

Use Black Silk Air-Drying Iron Enamel for brass, silverware or tinware. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

Real Estate Market ◆ T Wharf Activities ◆ Sailings

Attention is drawn to Boylston street again today through the sale of premises No. 292, near Arlington street, where so many interests have been rapidly changing that prominent thoroughfare into one of Boston's most favored retail districts. The parcel was owned by Robert W. Hill, who sells to Herbert W. Mason. It consists of a four-story and basement brick building, long since remodeled into a store, standing on a lot of land extending through to Providence street, measuring 2579 square feet and valued all told at $149,000. Land value $129,000.

Thomas G. Washburn has just closed the sale of a residence property recently purchased at No. 832 Beacon street, near Arundel street, consisting of a four-story octagon brick building and 2497 square feet of land. Improvements are taxed on $10,600 and the lot on $7000 valuations. Charles W. Rowell is the buyer.

WEST END ESTATES SOLD

Joseph Rittenberg has purchased from the Edward W. S. Jones estate and William W. Doherty estate et als. the four-story brick building and two 3½-story brick buildings numbered 23 to 27 Lyman street, corner of 23 to 27½ Leverett street, together with a total of 2985 square feet of land. All assessed for $26,800, including $19,000 land value.

Morris Chiplovitz is another buyer of West End property, taking title from Martha J. Magee to a four story brick building standing on 666 square feet of land at 135 Myrtle street near Revere street. All taxed on a valuation of $5500 including land value of $2500.

Another parcel changing hands is a frame building on Hawthorne street near Florence street, taxed in the name of James F. Howarth for $2500. The 6245 square feet of land carries $500 of that amount. Katherine F. Brennan is the new owner.

BOSTON REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

The directors of the real estate exchange have registered with the committee on metropolitan affairs their objections to bills proposing changes in the city charter of Boston, as inexpedient and inadvisable, excepting bills reducing the number of names necessary for a place on the ballot.

MASS. REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange will be held at the headquarters, 209 Washington street, tomorrow, March 5, at 12 o'clock noon.

The meeting will have before it for consideration the following business: The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer; the election by ballot of a board of directors for the ensuing year; the election by ballot of a clerk for the ensuing year; the election by ballot of a treasurer for the ensuing year.

Members are urged to make a special effort to attend this meeting.

DORCHESTER TRANSACTIONS

Through the office of Raymond P. Delano papers have gone to record in Land Court Registry of estate 75 Pleasant street, Dorchester, consisting of a three-family house and 5043 square feet of land. All taxed for $7600, $1600 being on the land. Julia Cartoof buys for investment from Caroline Eichorn.

The same broker sold for Mary Fagan, property at No. 7 Holden street, Dorchester, to John Bernacchi, who buys for investment this three-family house and 3294 square feet of land, all taxed for $5000.

Mrs. J. P. O'Connor has sold to Colombo Graglia her estate corner Boston street and Clapp place, Dorchester, taxed for $4900, the lot containing some 1854 square feet of land. Mr. Graglia buys for home and investment.

This sale was also made through Raymond P. Delano of Dorchester.

Frame dwelling house property situated 33 Melville avenue, corner of Allston street, has been sold to Mary E. Trowan by J. Frank Gear, the owner. It is valued by the assessors at $10,000 and the 8096 square feet of land carries an additional $4000.

Charles E. Merrill has taken title from Helen C. McCarthy and others, to the frame dwelling and 5009 square feet of land situated 82 Maxwell street, corner of Capen street, Dorchester. The total assessment is $3700, of which the lot carries $1300.

ALLSTON AND BRIGHTON SALES

Henry W. Savage, Inc., has sold for Ralph F. Calef a lot of land on the north side of Commonwealth avenue near the corner of Allston street, containing 23,623 square feet, assessed for $9700. Deeds have been recorded conveying to Arthur Reingold who will erect high class apartment houses thereon.

Deeds have gone to record whereby the Carnegie Steel Company of New Jersey, have purchased land on the corner of Everett and Lincoln streets, Brighton, containing 307,352 square feet assessed for $26,100, conveyed by the Sewell-Day Land Company. This is the parcel of land on which the mayor used his influence to secure construction of a spur track crossing the street, thus bringing another large interest to Boston.

Peter Landry sold a small frame house and 1521 square feet of land at 14-16 Hano street near Braintree street, to Mary O. Smith. Total valuation $1800.

FACTORY WORK IS THEME

William C. Crawford, master of the Industrial School for Boys, assisted by boys from the school, will speak on factory work at the North End branch of the Boston public library this evening at 7:30. This is one of the talks on vocations in cooperation with the placement bureau.

CIVIL SERVICE PREFERENCE FOR SOLDIERS OPPOSED

R. H. Dana, Speaking for Reform League, Says It Neither Aids Efficiency Nor Patriotism

LYNN, Mass.—Richard Henry Dana, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, speaking before the Lynn branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Massachusetts Civil Service Association this afternoon, declared that the league believes it is neither good for the civil service nor a wise way to reward patriotism to appoint in the civil service Spansh war veterans who are less fitted for doing the work than others who meet them in open competition.

He asserted that, although the Spanish war veterans are asking for what seems but a small preference, this preference is really greater than at first seems, and as in the case of the veterans of the civil war, if the practise is once granted, they will doubtless go on and ask for more.

Mr. Dana declared that the efficiency of the civil service had increased tremendously since the merit system of selecting and making appointments became established, and that the development of the system would be seriously retarded, if not checked, by the enactment of preference legislation in behalf of any class in the community.

The civil civil service commissions are now as some people suppose, conducting only written examinations of an academic kind, but they are employment bureaus using all the best methods that are known for ascertaining capacity and fitness of every kind, was another statement of Mr. Dana.

HOIRONIMUS CLAIM GRANTED

CINCINNATI, O.—The national baseball commission has decided that the claim of Player W. V. Hoironimus, formerly of the Chicago Nationals, that he be paid $200 per month by the Terre Haute club to which he was sold or be declared a free agent, is just and right.

SHIPPING NEWS

Coming from Liverpool and Queenstown, the White Star liner Cymric, on her first visit to Boston in months, was reported 1100 miles east of Boston lightship at 6 a. m. today. She is expected to arrive at Portland Saturday morning and reach Boston late Saturday or early Sunday. She has 114 cabin and 294 steerage passengers for Portland and 60 cabin and 180 steerage for Boston.

Because of a fire in the forecastle of the steamer Indian, which left here last Saturday for Philadelphia, arriving there Tuesday, the steamer Frederick will take her place in the local service, leaving Philadelphia today for Boston. The fire on the Indian was subdued by the crew.

Conditions at T wharf were nearer normal today, with several good-sized trips at the pier. Arrivals: Schooners Alice 65,000 pounds, Morning Star 85,000, Flora L. Oliver 70,000, Robert & Arthur 42,200, Elizabeth M. Thompson 24,800, Sadie M. Nunan 19,700, Elizabeth W. Nunan 24,100, and Frances P. Mesquita 32,000. The Alice also had 1200 pounds halibut, F. P. Mesquita 800, Robert & Arthur 300, Flora L. Oliver 1000 and Morning Star 300. Dealers quoted prices per hundredweight as follows: Steak cod $7.75, market cod $3.75, haddock $5.25, pollock $6.75, large hake $8.75, medium hake $5.75 and cusk $4.

Although gill netters did not go out Tuesday, the Gloucester markets were supplied with fish by four other vessels today. Arrivals: Schooner Hattie L. Trask 2000 pounds salt cod, 4000 fresh halibut, Russell 4500 pounds fresh fish, Jorgina 3500 pounds fresh fish, and Adeline 3000 pounds fresh fish.

While fish was being removed from the schooner Mary F. Curtis at T wharf today, Capt. Henry Curtis and his crew discussed the rescue of William Welsh, one of the crew, and, brother of Capt. Martin Welsh of the T wharf fleet. Welsh was in his dory setting trawl with the rest of the crew on La Have bank a week ago. It was thick and rough, and a sea struck the dory, tossing Welsh out. The other fishermen, hearing his calls, cut the trawls and rowed to his assistance, rescuing him safely.

Members of the Boston Fish Bureau meet at their rooms on Long wharf this afternoon to discuss moving the bureau to the new Commonwealth pier, South Boston, when the fish dealers all move there the last of this month.

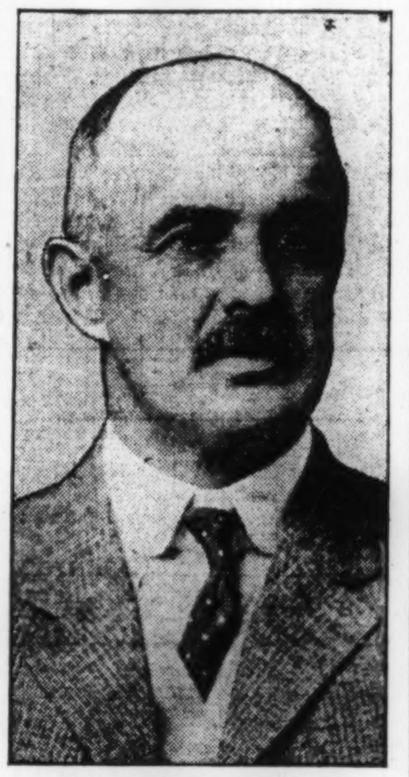
HARDWARE MEN OF NEW ENGLAND RESUME SESSION

Reports of Committees Mark Second Day of Association's Convention

Executive sessions today for consideration of reports of special and standing committees marked the second day of the twenty-first annual convention of the New England Hardware Dealers Association being held in Horticultural hall.



D. FLETCHER BARBER

William H. Sawyer of Providence, R. I., the president of the association, presides.

Lengthy debate was given the proposition of dividing New England into six districts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, eastern Massachusetts and western Massachusetts. It was proposed that each district be governed by a district council consisting of four councilors and a president. Proposed changes in the constitution of the association were also discussed.

An address was given this forenoon by Charles A. Ireland of the National Retail Hardware Association. This afternoon the convention acts on the question of continuing as a permanent monthly publication the New England Hardware News.

While the convention is in session this afternoon the New England Hardware Associates, Paul F. Burke, president, also holds an executive session. Tonight a reception and assembly will be held at the Copley-Plaza. The exhibition is open to the public today.

Mayor Curley welcomed the delegates to Boston in an address at last night's meeting.

ST. NICHOLAS IS VICTOR BY 9 TO 7

NEW YORK—In the highest scoring game of the season, the St. Nicholas Hockey Club defeated the Wanderers Hockey Club Tuesday night by 9 goals to 7 in a contest that practically gave the amateur championship to the winning aggregation.

St. Nicholas has yet to meet the Hockey Club of New York, the present holder of the title. If the champions win it will mean that the two teams are tied in the race for the title and an extra series will have to be played. However, as St. Nicholas already has defeated Hockey Club, the followers of the sport believe that they will be able to do it again.

INVESTORS' LAW STANDS TEST

ATCHISON, Kan.—Judge Jackson in the district court has upheld the constitutionality of the Kansas investors' protection law. This was the first test of the act.

WYOMING COAL GIVES BIG VALUE

WASHINGTON—The mineral product of most importance in Wyoming is coal, the value of which represents nearly 90 per cent of the total mineral production of the state. The value of the products of all the mines in Wyoming in 1911 was $11,483,377, of which the coal output, amounting to 6,744,864 short tons, represented $10,508,863. In 1912 the value of all mineral products in the state was $13,374,088, of which coal, 7,368,124 short tons, represented $11,648,088, says the United States geological survey.

The value of the other mineral products of Wyoming in 1912 was about $1,700,000, representing asbestos, clay manufactures, gems and precious stones, gypsum, iron ore, lime, mineral waters, natural gas, petroleum, phosphate rock, sand and gravel, silver, stone and sulphur.

Stock Market Closes Dull and Strong

SPECIALTIES COMMAND MOST INTEREST NOW

Brisk Advances by Some and Sharp Declines Recorded by Others—American Woolen Issues Are Weak Features

BOSTON & MAINE OFF

Little animation was noted in the trading on the New York stock exchange this morning. Here and there were some fractional advances from last night's closing prices but the price movement seemed to be perfunctory and professional in the extreme.

The volume of business has dwindled down to midsummer proportions. It is believed that the many uncertainties regarding operations of laws already enacted and others that are proposed at Washington has much to do with the dulness that has generally prevailed since the January rise.

New Haven was a weak feature of both the New York and Boston markets, declining to a new low record during the first sales. Some of the specialties advanced well before the end of the first half hour and the general tone improved.

The specialties continued to command the most attention in the New York market throughout the forenoon. Bethlehem Steel was unchanged at the opening at 38¾ and sold up to 40½ before midday. The preferred opened unchanged at 79½ and advanced 3 points. Baldwin Locomotive opened up ¾ at 49¾ and crossed 50. The low priced rails were weak, including the Rock Island and Wabash securities.

On the local exchange American Woolen preferred was a weak feature. It sold off on the unfavorable annual report issued yesterday. After opening unchanged at 75 it improved ¼ and then declined to 72¾. The common declined from 15 to 14. Boston & Maine opened unchanged at 42⅝ and dropped to 41. New Haven was up ¼ at the opening at 65¾ and receded to the new low of 65¼. Edison Electric opened up ½ at 261½ and advanced to 264.

Some improvement was made by New Haven in the early afternoon and additional gains were made by some of the specialties. United Fruit was weak on the local exchange. American Beet Sugar and American Sugar sold off in New York.

WEATHER

UNITED STATES WEATHER BUREAU PREDICTIONS FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY: Fair tonight; Thursday unsettled, probably fair; moderate westerly winds.

WASHINGTON—The U. S. weather bureau predicts weather as follows for New England: Generally fair tonight and Thursday; moderate westerly winds.

There is much unsettled weather over the country with local snows in the lake region and rains in the western gulf states and the north Pacific coast section. Pressure is low in the Northwest, the lower Mississippi valley and the Northeast and near the average elsewhere. The temperatures are generally higher and are normal or above in about all parts of the country; above zero at all stations and above freezing over a large portion of the country.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK—Cotton opening: March 12.09; April 11.85 bid; May 11.61; June 11.62@11.63; July 11.61; Aug. 11.50 bid; Sept. 11.32; Oct. 11.29; Nov. ofd. 11.25; Dec. 11.32; market opened steady, unchanged to 3 points lower.

LIVERPOOL, 2 p. m.—Cotton futures easier, 2½ to 5 points net lower: March-April 6.57; May-June 6.51½; July-Aug. 6.42½; Oct.-Nov. 6.15. Sales, spot 8000, including 7200 American.

NAVAL STORES

NEW YORK—Naval stores were easier yesterday in sympathy with the easier tone in the Savannah market and in reflection of the continued lack of a demand of any consequence locally. Spirits of turpentine were available at 46½ to 47 cents per gallon, although a few dealers were asking as high as 47½ cents per gallon for smaller quantities.

Rosin—The market was easier yesterday to the extent of a 10 to 30 cent decline for the medium and pale grades. The position abroad continues steady with the common strained grades available at 10s on the spot and 9s. 9d. to arrive c. i. f. Common to good strained varieties were quoted at $4.30 to $4.40 in the local market. The New York Commercial quotes:

Graded B $4.30@4.40, D $4.35@4.45, E $4.40@4.50, F $4.40@4.50, G $4.45@4.55, H $4.50@4.60, I $4.55@4.60, K $4.80@4.90, M $5.50, N $6.30, WG $6.65, WW $7.

Tar and pitch—Kiln burned and retort tar lacked quotable change yesterday and dealers were again doing business on the basis of $7.25 to $7.50 with single barrel quantities ruling at about $8. Pitch was quiet and unchanged and business was done at from $3.60 f. o. b. to $4.25 for round lots of 200 pounds.

GRAIN MARKET

C. F. & G. W. Eddy, Inc., of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, received the following from their Chicago correspondent:

Wheat—A further setback of ¼c. to ⅜c. occurred today. The list is now nearly 2 cents under recent high levels. Favorable crop conditions are having material effect in restricting fresh speculative support. There is a small export business doing on the decline, but apparently the demand is not of a character to inspire confidence in values. Sentiment would be more bearish but for the belief that the leading western interests will give support.

Corn was barely steady. A demand from shorts and more or less fresh buying checked the downward tendency. There was talk of an improved cash inquiry. Country offerings were not heavy, but many in the trade expect a revival of offerings in the event of any important rise in the market.

Oats—Were a shade lower. There was selling by cash houses. The country movements not large but apparently sufficient to supply the cash demand. Speculative support is negligible.

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK—Domestic, refined and spot raw sugar unchanged. London beets steady, unchanged. Mar. 9s. 2¼d., April 9s. 3¾d., May 9s. 4½d.

SLOSS SHEFFIELD STEEL & IRON COMPANY'S YEAR

NEW YORK—J. C. Maben, president of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company, has returned from a trip to Birmingham, Ala., in connection with the affairs of the company. While prices for No. 2 foundry iron are 25 to 50 cents a ton firmer, he said that the demand continues light. During January, the Sloss company's sales were the heaviest for some months, but in February they fell off materially, particularly during the last two weeks. The company's correspondents and salesmen report that the stocks of iron in the hands of consumers are small and that any material increase in the activity of the steel market will compel them to buy on a larger scale.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sloss-Sheffield company will be held on March 17, at which time the report for the last fiscal year will be presented. It is now practically completed and will be submitted to the board of directors for their approval next week. It is understood that it will show a surplus of a little more than $200,000 over fixed charges, preferred dividends and depreciation. The working capital at the close of the year was a little less than that of the previous year, but this was due to the expenditures made out of earnings for improvements. These outlays were in the neighborhood of $500,000. About $200,000 more will be required to complete the work that was begun last year.

The company has 80,000 tons of iron on its yards. More iron was made last year than the year before, but the deliveries were smaller. Except for the latter fact the earnings would have been larger.

LOWER TARIFF ON SUGAR ADDS LARGE PROFITS

Profits of $6,000,000 accrue to importers in Boston because of the reduction of the tariff rate on sugar which went into effect March 1. This sum represents the difference between the old and new tariff on the sugar in government storehouses in excess of that stored there in the normal year of 1911. It is estimated the reduction of more than a quarter of a cent on the pound resulted in a profit of $30,000,000 to the sugar interests of the country.

According to the treasury department records, the large sugar importers paid duty last year on only three lots—988,328, 2,269,772 and 3,365,963 pounds. The total is 6,634,063 pounds as compared with the total amount stored in the warehouses, according to government report of 42,293,190 pounds.

The record shows that 35,780,638 pounds on which duty had been unpaid, in excess of the amount on which duty had been paid, were stored in this port alone.

THE ROCK ISLAND COMPANY

Stockholders' Protective Committee

At the request of the holders of a very large amount of the Preferred Stock and the Common Stock of The Rock Island Company, the undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee to protect the interests of the stockholders of the said Company.

The Committee is informed that The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co. is about to suspend dividends upon its stock, which will result in a default in the payment of the interest upon the Collateral Trust Four Per Cent Gold Bonds of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co. A Bondholders' Committee has been formed and it has been deemed essential that like action should be taken by the stockholders of The Rock Island Company.

The Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York City, has been appointed the Depositary of the Committee and will be prepared to receive deposits of stock on and after Monday, March 2, 1914. Agents of the Depositary have been appointed to receive deposits in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis, and suitable arrangements made to facilitate deposits in London, Amsterdam, Paris and Berlin.

All stock when deposited must be endorsed in blank or be accompanied by power of attorney for transfer executed in blank and must also be accompanied either by a proxy to vote the stock signed by the registered holder, or by stock transfer stamps at the rate of 2 cents per share required by the laws of New York. Such forms of proxy may be obtained from the depositary and its agents.

The Deposit Agreement, to be dated March 2, 1914, under which certificates of stock will be deposited, is now in course of preparation and will be lodged with the Depositary on or before March 3, 1914.

Stockholders are urged to deposit their certificates of stock without delay, as the situation calls for prompt action by the Committee on their behalf. Certificates of Deposit will be issued by the Depositary for deposited certificates of stock, and in due course application will be made for listing the Certificates of Deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

THE OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY HAS BEEN APPOINTED THE AGENT OF THE DEPOSITARY IN BOSTON.

CABLES CONFIRM FORECAST OF HIGHER WOOL QUOTATIONS

Holdings on This Side of the Atlantic Are Expected to Reflect the Strength and Increased Value of Offerings Abroad in the World's Leading Market

Demand for wool eased off a trifle in the past week, the advancing tendency having some effect upon the absorption of supplies, although at the same time it had been quite generally conceded that the March sales in the London market were likely to open firm and above the January price level.

Nevertheless there was some waiting to see what the London market would do, and less keenness in securing additional supplies was observed in various quarters. The wool outlook abroad, always of interest at this season of the year, when the new domestic clip is close at hand, became more than ordinarily a feature of importance at this juncture, with home-grown 1913 stock well cleaned up and new American wools as yet a factor of the future.

Tuesday's cables confirmed previously prevailing impressions. Quotations were 7.5 to 10 per cent higher on crossbreds and up about 7.5 per cent on merinos, compared with quotations at the first series of the year at London. Bidding was lively, and a number of American buyers were on hand. There are indications that they will take considerable stock for importation to this country.

Naturally it is expected that values in the primary markets of the West will be strengthened by the pronounced firmness of the world's markets as reflected in Tuesday's bidding at London. Contracts already closed lose some of their speculative aspect in view of the advances reported from the other side of the Atlantic.

Manufacturers who have named low prices for their fabrics are concerned over the prospect of higher cost of the wools which they may require. Efforts to obtain higher prices on recent orders for goods have checked transactions to some extent, but the trend necessarily must be upward if new business is to be booked on a profitable basis.

Notwithstanding the heavy receipts to date of imported wools, compared with last year's arrivals in the corresponding period, this market continues to absorb current arrivals freely, and imported stock is the subject of increasing inquiry by reason of the decided scarcity of domestic offerings.

In some respects this works to the disadvantage of American wools, for it heightens the probability of continued use of foreign stock whenever it proves acceptable to the manufacturers.

Further contracting for western wool is in progress, however, and dealers look for continued activity in that respect, now that imported wools have attained a still higher level of values than they commanded when a start was made on the acquiring of the new domestic shearings.

Negotiations are under way in Montana and other northern states for some of the well-known clips, and a number of deals are reported closed at prices close to those prevailing early last season. Growers are very firm in their attitude, and this week's cables do not improve the position of representatives of eastern merchants who are trying to secure the new wools.

Demand in the Boston market takes a wide range. It is observed, however, that the transfers are not in large lots, as a rule. Considerable scoured stock changes hands, values keeping firm all along the line. Pulled wool is steady and strong, with holders certain that they are justified in maintaining quotations at recent figures. For fine A-super the range is from 49@55 cents, second basis, and B-super brings 39@45 cents.

Quotations on territory wools, scoured basis, have been around 55@57 cents for fine staple, 53@54 cents for fine medium staple, 51@53 cents for choice fine clothing, and 50@51 cents for fine medium clothing, with some holders asking ½ to 1 cent more.

On Ohio fleeces the asking price for fine washed delaine has been 27½@28 cents, with Ohio XX at 26½@27 cents, half-blood combing 24 cents and clothing 21½@22 cents.

Quotations on imported clips have been firm during the past week, with Australian merinos at 29@34 cents, crossbreds 23@30 cents, Lincoln's 22@23 cents.

It is deemed likely in many quarters in the trade that a further slight rise in values will result here if London quotations hold their advance.

LONDON—Many Americans attended the wool auction sales which opened Tuesday. Buying was active. Cape of Good Hope and Natal realized 5 per cent, merinos 7½ and crossbreds 7½ to 10 dearer than the last sale. Coarse varieties showed the most advanced, and American buyers secured a few of the latter grades. The offerings number 10,456 bales. MARKET FOUND FOR AMERICAN GROWN EGYPTIAN COTTON WASHINGTON—The problem of finding a satisfactory market for the Arizona long staple cotton of the Egyptian type has apparently been solved. The crop of 1913 in the Salt river valley amounted to 2100 bales, and was grown from seed bred by the department of agriculture.

Some difficulty in disposing of this cotton was anticipated for the reason that it is a new product, with which manufacturers were not familiar. Nevertheless, information has recently been received that the 1200 bales produced by the Cotton Growers Association of Mesa, Ariz., have been shipped out, a part on direct sale and a part consigned to eastern brokers on a liberal advance.

In order to open a wider market for this cotton, 50 bales were consigned in December to a broker in Liverpool. A few days after this cotton was landed 26 of these bales were sold at a price of 23½ cents, which netted the growers, f. o. b. at their shipping point in the Salt river valley, 21½ cents per pound. In the present condition of the long staple market this price indicates that English spinners consider this cotton equal to the best grades produced in Egypt. Several hundred bales have already been sold to American spinners at a price which makes this a very profitable crop for the irrigated lands of the Southwest.

As a result of the progress made in marketing the 1913 crop, the farmers of the Salt river valley are now unanimous in their determination to plant only the one variety and to keep out upland cotton, the presence of which would cause a speedy determination of the long staple variety now being grown through hybridization and consequent deterioration of the stock.

GOOD PROFITS IN SPECIALTIES

The statement filed by the Coca Cola Company with the Massachusetts secretary of state is interesting as showing the abnormal profits which are sometimes made by specialty industrials. With only $50,000 capital stock the Coca Cola Company which is the manufacturer of the nationally advertised "coca cola" beverage, has a profit and loss surplus of $8,653,728. In other words, the stock has a book value of $17,000 per share. Further than that the company has cash and debts receivable of $6,496,395. The balance sheet as of Jan. 21, 1914, is as follows:

FINANCIAL NOTES

Charters of $1,000,000 or over, issued in eastern states in February, aggregated $51,575,000, compared with $120,050,000 in preceding month and $191,500,000 in February a year ago.

Grain arrivals at Chicago last week increased 380,000 bushels or 7.4 per cent over the previous week, but fell 4,031,000 bushels, or 40.2 per cent, under the unprecedented movement of last year.

The management of the Rock Island is preparing a detailed statement of the company's financial needs, which have been put at $25,000,000 by members of the stockholders' protective committee.

Dallas Cotton Exchange of Texas has forwarded a resolution to the New York Cotton Exchange urging a change in the present form of contract for future delivery of such a nature as to eliminate opportunities for manipulation.

A London special says that new issues that are now before the public include Canadian government £5,000,000 loan, which is going poorly; Lever Brothers £1,000,000 6 per cent and Cordova Central railway £1,500,000 in 4½ per cent.

There is talk about consolidating the New Haven County and the National New Haven banks. This union has been definitely voted and there is strong probability the City Bank will be taken in, making by far the largest and strongest bank in New England outside of Boston.

INTERBOROUGH'S GOOD MONTH

Interborough Rapid Transit traffic in February made the remarkable gain of $5200 per day, which is by all odds the best record in many a month. It figures out an increase for the month of $145,000, which compares with $30,000 in January and $74,000 in December. In fact, the February growth in traffic was 50 per cent of the $292,000 gain in gross for the seven months to Jan. 31 last.

An interesting feature of this February showing is that it was fairly evenly divided between the subway and elevated. The subway gained about $2800 per day and the elevated about $2500. For some months past it has been the unresponsive character of elevated traffic that has restricted Interborough's expansion this fiscal year to its rather modest proportions.

SHRINKAGE IN B. & M. GROSS FOR JANUARY

Unfavorable Comparison of Earnings Is Made, but Loss in Net Is Not Severe—Higher Freight Rates Likely Soon

RESULT NOT SURPRISE

Not only did the improvement noted in Boston & Maine's earnings in December fail to hold in January, but the shrinkage in gross was the heaviest of any month of the current fiscal year, and the drop in net was the largest since October.

The December earnings, showing an increase of $28,000 in gross and about $98,700 in net after taxes gave basis for some hope that the turn had been called in Boston & Maine's declining revenues. In spite of the fact that January gross dropped $338,000, however, the loss in net—$140,400—was less severe than might have been expected.

In every month since its fiscal year began, with the exception of July and December, Boston & Maine's gross earnings have suffered by comparison with the previous year. Net has shown an increase in only one instance. At the end of seven months operating revenues are over a half million dollars behind and net after taxes is smaller by $982,000.

As the road has already filed its new schedule of class rates with the several interested commissions, to take effect April 1 unless suspended, the road should soon begin to get some relief from the higher rates and comparisons of earnings with last year should be rendered less unfavorable. While these new rates are expected to yield $500,000 additional revenue, the actual increase is problematical.

In comparing January earnings it should be remembered that January, 1913, was a particularly good month, revenues being larger than in any previous January. This was true of many railroads and a considerable shrinkage this year is therefore not surprising.

The course of Boston & Maine's earnings by months from the beginning of the current fiscal year is shown below:

1913-14	Op. revs.	Dec.	Net af. txs.	Dec.

October	4,351,378	165,100	837,181	180,628

M. RUMELY CO. NOTE EXTENSION

NEW YORK—A circular has been issued to the noteholders of the M. Rumely Company, making it plain that unless all holders enter the agreement for the extension of the $10,000,000 notes until March 1, 1918 it will be impossible to obtain the $4,000,000 necessary for this year's requirements, in which case the only alternative will be a receivership for the organization. During the next 10 days the time in which the company has to meet the March 1 interest, which was defaulted, an effort will be made by noteholders committee to secure as many assents to the plan as possible. Up to the present time 60 per cent of the notes has been deposited and 15 per cent more promised so that there is but 25 per cent to come in.

Private bankers have agreed that if, contrary to estimates of President Funk, the $4,000,000 for which the company has arranged should prove inadequate, they will furnish additional funds up to $40 000 by the purchase of more farmers' notes.

MOVEMENT OF THE AVERAGES FOR FEBRUARY

Contrasting with a busy January, the past month, stock marketwise, was a disappointment. Stock dealings on the New York Exchange were the smallest for any February since 1897, and, without allowing for a 28-day month with six Sundays and holidays, showed a falling off of 38 per cent from the January turnover. Share dealings on the Boston exchange were the smallest for any February within a decade.

While the coppers' and industrials' averages advanced and declined about one half a point, respectively, the rails dropped four points. The continued activity in the bond business was a redeeming feature.

	20 rails	12 industrials	20 coppers
February high	109.07	83.19	43.68
February low	105.04	81.31	41.91
Average Feb. 28	105.48	82.26	42.56
Net decline for February	3.95	.59	*.70
January high	109.43	82.88	41.86
January low	103.51	78.43	38.45
Net advance for January	5.71	4.07	2.58

*Advance.

Sales on the New York stock exchange totaled 6,235,159 shares, compared with 10,135,727 in January and 6,648,955 in February, 1913.

Sales in the local market totaled 507,017 shares, compared with 634,406 in January and 517,086 in February last year.

MODERATELY CONSERVATIVE VIEW OF THE SITUATION

Large Amount of Money Invested in High Grade Securities Recently Emphasizes the Return of Confidence—European Conditions Better

CHICAGO—A conservatively hopeful view of the financial and business situation is taken by the National City Bank of Chicago in its monthly review of conditions. Illustrating the increased confidence of the people the circular says:

' large amount of local money has been used since the year opened in the purchase of high-grade securities much of it being placed in municipal and state bonds which are not subject to the income tax. This absorption continues on a large scale and is in marked contrast to the conditions prevailing a year ago when trade was stagnant and the investing community could not be induced to put its money into long term securities, on even very advantageous terms.

The call for safe bonds has been so great as to virtually deplete the supply of many classes of securities which at such times as these are invariably attractive to discriminating investors. This reinvestment movement has not been confined to the United States alone but has become a feature of great importance in Europe where the markets have been much cheered by the constantly broadening demand for first class securities. It is to be hoped that the movement here will extend further until it shall soon be possible for the railroads to obtain what capital they need at attractive rates. There has been a tieup of new construction work by the railroads for months past owing to the difficulty experienced by prominent corporations in obtaining capital at anything like reasonable terms.

It may be doubted whether the railroads will be able to defer the purchase of new equipment until the interstate commerce commission has taken definte action with reference to the proposed rate increases. Some roads have deferred purchases so long as to make it necessary for them to enter the market soon with large orders for rail and equipment. There has already been some buying by the larger systems but the orders have not been nearly as heavy as usual, while the demand from the small roads has been much below normal for a year or more.

As there is little prospect of putting into effect any general advance for several months, even if the interstate commerce commission should rule favorably on the request for a 5 per cent increase, it seems clear that a good deal of financing will have to be arranged for by roads which had expected to postpone such operations until the application for increased rates had been definitely acted upon. This can probably be done without much difficulty by roads of good credit as there is still an immense amount of money awaiting investment in the possession of individuals and corporations. In instances where it is difficult to obtain this accommodation through the sale of long term bonds it will be easily possible for the borrowers to sell short term notes.

Although the technical suspension from March 15 until Sept. 15 of the proposed increase of freight rates has been received with disappointment, the delay may not cause the roads much inconvenience so far as plans for new financing are concerned owing to the very much better investment conditions which now prevail. Recent developments at Washington, however, would show that President Wilson and his advisers are alive to the need of an early decision in the freight rate cases. It is also evident that from this time the roads should gain a largely increased revenue by charging for services which were formerly rendered large shippers gratuitously.

The situation in the money market is even more interesting than it was a month ago when the relaxation in discount rates became the factor of chief importance. It looks as if the decline had gone about as far as it could go in this territory at least, since the banks are nearing the time when they will be asked to make heavy advances to the interior markets. These requirements are likely to aggregate a very large total during the next eight weeks when some large borrowings will have to be arranged for. Europe is still taking a little gold every week out of the United States and unless the situation at Paris clears up in the near future the chances are that the withdrawals for that quarter will be rather heavy. At the same time it is possible that we shall import a little gold from London so that one movement may in a way offset the other.

The income tax payments are likely to have some effect upon the money market but it is difficult at this time to tell just what it will be. It will take several months for the public to become accustomed to the new tax which represents a radical departure in the fiscal policy of this government. There is no doubt but that the tax has some excellent features, but its imposition will probably excite resentment on the part of individuals to the provisions enforcing publicity respecting matters which had previously been regarded in the light of a man's private and confidential affairs. Its method of collection moreover has imposed many onerous duties on the banks and so greatly increased their cost of handling coupons that some radical changes in the government's routine seem imperative.

TEXAS COMPANY'S OPTION ON LANDS

NEW YORK—Announcement that Texas Company has sold $1,000,000 6 per cent bonds is taken to mean that it proposes to exercise an option on some western oil lands and also to make possible reduction in capitalization through probable conversion of $15,000,000 convertible bonds outstanding.

These may be converted into stock at $150 a share for the latter, every $1000 convertible bond to receive in stock, $666.66. The bonds are convertible up to Jan. 1 next. Should Texas Company shares advance beyond $150 there would be a market value rendering conversion attractive.

Present issued share capital is $30,000,000 and convertible bond capital $15,000,000. There are $2,400,000 serial bonds having no conversion privilege. Should $15,000,000 convertibles be turned into stock, the latter issue would be increased by $10,000,000, making total $40,000,000, as against stock and convertible bonds at present of $45,000,000.

MONTANA WOOL PRICES

BUTTE—Eighteen cents was paid for one of the largest wool clips in southern Montana and an offer of 19 cents for another large clip was refused.

EDISON COMPANY CAPITAL ISSUE IS DEFEATED

NEW YORK—The public service commission on Tuesday, by a divided vote, defeated for the time being the application of the New York Edison Company for permission to issue additional capital stock to the amount of $15,800,000. The application of the Astoria Light, Heat & Power Company for authority to issue stock to the amount of $9,500,000 and bonds to amount of $5,000,000 went over one week, when it will probably be approved.

On both the questions Chairman McCall and Commissioner Williams voted to grant the application, while Maltbie and Cram voted no. Commissioner Eustis, the remaining member is now in South America.

CLEVELAND BONDS

CLEVELAND, O.—The city has sold $1,050,000 4½ per cent street improvement bonds to Hayden, Miller & Co., Rhoades & Co. and Merrill, Oldham & Co., jointly, for a premium of $42,059.50. Of the bonds $350,000 mature in 18 years and the remainder in 20 years.

WEEGHMAN TO BUY CHICAGO IS LATEST REPORT

Backer of Federal League Club in That City to Hold Conference With Owner, Charles P. Taft, Friday, in New York

TENER TO CONFER

NEW YORK—Charles Weeghman, backer of the Chicago Federal club, will become the owner of the Chicago Cubs before the end of the week, according to a report here today, originating from a source close to C. P. Taft. This disposal of Mr. Taft's interest in the Cubs, assumed by the elimination of C. W. Murphy, is the method chosen by the National league to avoid a destructive financial fight with the Federals, it is declared.

Mr. Weeghman, being popular in Chicago, is looked upon as a prospective asset to the National league. Gov. J. K. Tener will arrive here Friday. C. P. Taft will also be on hand, and the report today declared they would meet Mr. Weeghman and arrange the sale of the Cubs.

Mr. Weeghman, it is said, has no intention of dropping the Federals but a part of the deal will be recognition of the new league in some way. Whether this will be the assuming of all Federal league contracts by the National and the disbanding of the new organization or its admission into organized baseball with a revised circuit to form a new major league is not definitely known.

It is declared, however, that the new ownership of the Cubs will be definitely settled this week as well as the relations between the Federal league and organized baseball and that a compromise of which the sale of the Chicago club to Mr. Weeghman will be a part, appears most likely.

GRANGE ORGANIZED AT WINCHESTER

SEVEN PLAYERS ENTER FOR TITLE

NEW YORK—Seven players have entered for the national class A, 18.2 balkline amateur billiard championship tournament. The list closed Tuesday as follows:

Eugene L. Wilburn, Memphis; Joseph Mayer, Philadelphia, the holder of the title; M. D. Brown, Brooklyn; E. W. Gardner, New York; Charles Heddon, Dowagiac, Mich.; Dr. W. B. Uffenheimer, Philadelphia, and J. F. Poggenburg, New York.

Matches will begin at the Amateur Billiard Club of New York next Monday.

SUTTON VICTOR OVER DEMAREST

CHICAGO—George Sutton defeated Calvin Demarest Tuesday night 500 to 359 in the third game of the five-man billiard tournament. The game was slow, running 28 innings. Sutton's high run was 68 and Demarest's 74. Sutton averaged 17 24-28 and Demarest 13 18-27.

Yamada defeated Slosson in the afternoon game by 500 to 459. The victor's high runs were 84 and 62 and his average 13 19-37. Slosson's best runs were 59 and 47 and his average 12 23-36.

FIRST PRACTISE FOR DOOIN'S MEN

WILMINGTON, N. C.—The Philadelphia Nationals look for their first real practise today. With the arrival of Beals Beeker, the outfield is well settled with him, Devore, Cravath, Magee and Paskert, but the infield is annoying Manager Dooin. Dolan and Lobert are on their return from the world trip and are still open to Federal league offers.

CUTLER ELECTED AT WILLIAMS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass.—At a meeting of the Williams hockey team here Tuesday afternoon. Conrad Ford Cutler '15, of Mount Hermon, was elected captain of the seven for the season of 1914-15. Cutler will also captain the tennis team during the coming season.

MISS RAVENSCROFT ARRIVES

PINEHURST, N. C.—Miss Gladys Ravenscroft of England, present title holder of the American women's golf championship, arrived here Tuesday to prepare for play in the united championship tournament which will begin March 23.

YALE VICTORY OVER COLUMBIA BRINGS ON TIE

Cornell Now Even With New York Team in Intercollegiate Basketball League Series

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Followers of the Intercollegiate Basketball League are today taking renewed interest in the championship series of 1914 following the victory of the Yale varsity over the Columbia varsity in the first of their games here Tuesday night when the Blue won by a score of 22 to 15.

This victory for the Blue makes a tie between Columbia and Cornell for the championship and much will depend upon the meeting of Yale and Columbia in their second game at New York Saturday evening. Should Yale win, Cornell should take the title as she has two more games to play with the easiest teams in the league.

Yale won from Columbia Tuesday in a splendid game. Three times in the first half the lead changed, Yale having an 8 to 7 score when intermission arrived. Steadily Yale crept ahead in the second period, although in the middle of the half Columbia reduced the lead to a 17 to 15 score.

Benson's wonderful goal tossing from fouls for Columbia featured the play for both teams. He threw 10 out of 12 tries. Arnold's six misses for Yale from 12 tries handicapped the Elis.

Former Captain Swihart came into the play for the final five minutes and effectively settled the victory by his dashing all-round work.

Failure of Referee Fauver to arrive delayed the game. Columbia brought a band and a cheering section, the first that ever appeared at a Yale basketball game here. The line-up:

YALE		COLUMBIA
Pitte (Oleson), l.f.	l.f.,	Dwyer (Reynolds)
Stackpole, r.f.	r.f.,	Meenan
Smith, c	c.,	Wegener
Wilson, l.g.	l.g.,	Benson
Arnold, r.g.	r.g.,	Lee

Goals from floor, Stackpole 2, Arnold 2, Oleson 2, Smith Swihart, Benson, Dwyer, Wegener. Goals from fouls, Benson 9, Arnold 6. Referees, Hayward, Wesleyan, and Dr. Fauver, Wesleyan. Time, 20-minute halves.

BASEBALL DATES AT PENNSYLVANIA ARE ANNOUNCED

PHILADELPHIA—Two games with the Philadelphia American league team and one game with the Wilmington Tri-State team, in addition to 29 college contests, are the features of University of Pennsylvania baseball schedule ratified Tuesday by the board of directors of the athletic association.

The usual southern trip has been omitted, but Columbia University will be played at Atlantic City on April 10 and 11. The schedule follows:

March 28, Annapolis at Annapolis; 30 and 31, Athletics at Shibe park.

April 1, Swarthmore; 4, Franklin and Marshall; 10 and 11, Columbia at Atlantic City; 10, Pennsylvania State; 15, Wilmington Tri-State at Wilmington; 18, Yale; 20, Holy Cross at Worcester; 22, Rutgers; 25, Princeton; 29, Lafayette.

LEAVE TO WELCOME TOURISTS

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mordecai Brown, manager of the St. Louis Federal League baseball team, and Walter Fritch, financial agent for the local club, left for New York Tuesday.

RATIONAL GOLF

By STEVEN ARMSTRONG

As one of the two amateurs who have held the title of open champion of Great Britain, H. H. Hilton is better qualified than most to express an opinion on the new regulations governing the open championship. His editorial in Golf Illustrated is as follows:

The first step has been taken towards a solution of the difficulties which have during recent years beset the authorities who manage the open championship event.

Whether the new scheme will prove to be an efficient method of bringing the championship field down to proportions which can be readily handled is a point which future experience alone can determine. But those responsible for the scheme are to be heartily congratulated in taking prompt action and in deciding that the new regulations are to come into force at this year's meeting at Prestwick in June next. For although there was not any cause for complaint with regard to the carrying through of the championship at Hoylake last year (which was managed in the thorough and efficient manner which one always associates with the management of events organized by the Royal Liverpool Club), still after the event had been brought to a successful conclusion the executive of the club readily admitted that the strain consequent on the holding of a meeting in which so many players were competing was too great even for the very finest organization backed up by the help of the most willing of workers.

At Hoylake last June 269 players sent in their names, and very few of this number failed to answer to the starter. Play was spread over no less than five days, and markers had to be provided on all these five days. Those who have not been associated with the management of an open championship meeting have no conception of the difficulty of arranging for markers for all the couples. It is a task which is a constant source of concern to the secretary of the promoting club.

But the difficulty of obtaining the necessary number of individuals willing to mark is not perhaps the most serious drawback to a championship meeting at which an enormous number of players are competing: the chief drawback is the crowded state of the course previous to the actual play in the event. On each of the three days before the qualifying stage commenced at Hoylake there must have been something like 250 players on the links, the majority of whom wished to play two rounds of the course—an absolute impossibility; for the man who succeded in getting more than one round during any of these three preliminary days might be considered extremely fortunate. Speaking personally, we arrived on the teeing ground on one of these days at 9:45 a. m., and the first time then vacant on the starting sheet was 4:42 p. m.: and there were names on the sheet until 5:12 p. m. Under these conditions it was quite impossible to obtain the amount of practise on the course which many considered was necessary.

Under the new regulations the players who wish to play in the event will all have to travel to Ayrshire; but as the qualifying stage is to be played on two courses, which are quite separate and apart from the championship links, the huge field of contestants will of a necessity be divided into two camps—both in the actual play and in the practise preliminary to the event; and there will in consequence be infinitely better opportunities for practising than was the case last year at Hoylake.

On this account alone the change in the regulations is to be commended. If there is a cause of complaint in connection with the new scheme it would appear to lie at the doors of "time" and "expense," in that it may be wise for the players to be on the scene for a longer period of time than has been necessary in the past. But to our way of thinking this is not a very serious consideration, as the majority of the professionals have always made a practise of being on the scene of action long before the event is to take place. And one may safely assume that in open championships of the past few years the professional player reckons on being away from home for at least 12 days, if not considerably more.

At the coming championship at Prestwick there would not seem to be any great necessity for even the most ardent in the field to be on the scene of play for a longer period than two weeks. This period of time would allow them about four days' practise on the two courses on which the qualifying rounds are to be played; and another full four days in which to accustom themselves to the peculiarities of the links over which the event proper is to take place. And although some of the professionals may consider that this is not sufficient time, we have an idea that they will be in a minority.

That the new regulations will not altogether appeal to the large number of professional players who look upon the championship meeting as a pleasant form of holiday we feel assured: and for the same reason it may not be considered an advisable change by a certain section of amateur talent. But these represent a class of golfer who, in connection with such an advent as the open championship, is not worthy of very great consideration, as in the past they have simply served to take up time and fill up spaces which have both been badly needed by those who are bent on more serious endeavor. The men who are worthy of consideration are those who have much to gain and much to lose in the play for the championship: and the prospective change is certainly all in their favor, as it should undoubtedly be.

The extension of the number of players who are entitled to pass from the qualifying stage to the championship course is admittedly a concession to the men of greatness who in the past have not relished the task of having to struggle to obtain a place in the first 20 on the individual day's play; but if it is a concession, it is nevertheless a very just and fair one.

In conclusion, we must congratulate the championship management on their wisdom in taking into their confidence the officials of the P. G. A. (a procedure which, by the way, we advocated in these columns some little time back). The compliment has been thoroughly appreciated by the professionals, and it will certainly tend toward general harmony in future years.

There may be flaws in the scheme which is to come into operation in June next, but we can afford to wait and learn wisdom by experience, and then if necessary set the house once again in order.

NEW CANDLEPIN RECORD BY CAREY OF ALLSTON FIVE

A new world's record for a single string at candlepin bowling is today being credited to Carey of the Allston team of the Greater Boston league, who rolled 187 in his third string of Tuesday's match against the Egglestons. Carey's three-string total was 374. Other bowling results follow:

CHANGES MADE IN TUFTS DATES

MEDFORD, Mass.—Four important changes in the Tufts College baseball schedule were announced this morning by Manager Ford. Three games have been added since the schedule was published, bringing the number of games up to 26.

The game with Boston College originally scheduled for April 11, has been postponed until April 29. Arrangements have also been made for a return game in Boston June 6. The other two additional games are both to be played at home, Colgate appearing Friday, April 10, followed the next day by Dartmouth. There is a possibility that the Dartmouth game may be played in Boston if proper arrangements can be made.

FEDERAL UMPIRES MEET

CHICAGO—The Federal League umpires will meet today to discuss interpretation of the rules. Brennan, chief of the umpires, will preside, and the other umpires are Cusack, S. Kane, G. Bush, A. Manasau, B. McCormick, M. Cross and O. Anderson.

YALE BOWL MORTGAGED

NEW HAVEN—Yale's committee of 21, incorporated to have charge of the Yale bowl enterprise, has executed a mortgage deed of $25,000 upon the Yale bowl property. The deed was filed in the office of the town clerk of Orange, into which the property extends.

FEDERAL STAND TO COST $219,000

CHICAGO—The Federal league's grandstand here will cost $219,000, according to the contract, which has been let by President Weeghman of the local club. Ground will be broken today.

PLAYERS WITH CHICAGO NAMED BY J. B. TINKER

CHICAGO—Followers of professional baseball are today much interested in the list of names of players who are to start the season with the Chicago Federals as announced by Manager J. B. Tinker Tuesday.

According to this list William Killifer, the former Philadelphia National league player, who is said to have signed with the Federals and then signed with his former team, will play with Manager Tinker. The full list follows.

Pitchers—A. Brennan, Philadelphia Nationals; Claude Hendrix, Pittsburg; T. McGuire, Chicago Federals; Irwin Lang, local semi-professional; C. J. Watson, Milwaukee; Henry Schmidt, Milwaukee; John Glazer, Chicago semi-professional; Dave Black, Chicago semi-professional, and Leo Prendergast, Peoria.

Cathers—A. Wilson, New York Nationals; J. Block, Milwaukee; W. Killifer, Philadelphia Nationals; J. McDonough, Chicago Federals, and George Mulvaney, Cincinnati semi-professional.

First basemen—W. R. Jackson, Spokane; John Kading, Chicago Federals; Fred Beck, Buffalo; W. Zwilling, St. Joseph, Mo.

Second basemen—John Farrel, Chicago Federals; John Granan, Lake Forest University; Leo Kavanaugh, Chicago semi-professional.

Third basemen—R. Zeider, New Americans; James Stanley, Chicago Federals.

Shortstop J. B. Tinker, Cincinnati.

Outfielders—A. Wickland, Cincinnati; C. Coles, Baltimore and Elmira; John Muncie, University of Minnesota, and Max Flack, Peoria.

CLEVELAND CLUB SIGNS BLANDING

CLEVELAND, O.—President C. W. Somers of the Cleveland American league club has signed Pitcher Fred Blanding, and he is on his way to join the main body of the club at Athens, Ga. Blanding previously signed a Federal league contract.

"We are ready to fight for Blanding," said Somers. "His 1913 contract contained a clause which gave us an option on his 1914 services. We developed Blanding and think the courts will say that we have acted within our rights."

Massachusetts Institute of Technology freshmen won the annual freshmen-sophomore track meet Tuesday evening in the Technology gymnasium by the score of 37¼ to 34¾ points. The races were very close, the weight and the jumping events deciding the meet.

CATCHER WHALING SIGNS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—B. Whaling, the Boston star young catcher, who is working out here, has forwarded his signed contract to President Gaffney.

DRAWINGS MADE FOR DAVIS CUP TENNIS TOURNEY

Australasia Meets Canada and British Isles Meets Belgium in First Round for the Trophy

NEW YORK—The draw of the six nations challenging the United States for the Davis international lawn tennis cup was made Tuesday by R. D. Wrenn, chairman of the American committee, assisted by G. T. Adee.

Germany and France drew byes in the first round. Australasia and Canada were coupled on the brackets of the first round in the top half, and the British Isles and Belgium were drawn against each other in the lower half.

Germany will meet the winner of the Australasia-Canada matches and France will meet the successful nation of the British Isles-Belgium series.

At the close of the drawing, Wrenn said that he regarded the manner in which the names had been picked from a hat as an admirable arrangement. He expressed the belief that at least four of the nations would be engaged in the cup competitions on the courts of this country. Canada and Australasia are certain to meet here, and the winner of this match will play the Germans here also.

Probably all the nations in the lower half of the draw, he thought, would elect to decide their matches in Europe. Only the team of the successful nation in the lower half would visit this country for the final, which would decide the challengers.

Wrenn and Adee at the completion of the drawing at once began negotiations by telephone and telegraph with Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia to decide upon the dates for these matches.

NO MESSAGE FROM THE BOSTON CLUB TRAINING CAMPS

President Joseph J. Lannin of the Boston American League Baseball Club left this city Tuesday afternoon in response to a telegram from New York calling him there. Besides being on the reception committee that will welcome the world tourists when they reach New York Thursday night or Friday morning from Europe, Mr. Lannin has private hotel interests there that claim attention.

No word has been heard at the Red Sox headquarters from the players who are training at the Hot Springs under the direction of Manager William F. Carrigan, or from the Boston National league camp at Macon, Ga. The recent storms have interfered with the telegraph systems between these two points and Boston, and until the wires are replaced no word can be received of the progress being made by the local ball clubs. The last party of Red Sox players will leave this city Friday afternoon for Hot Springs. The party will consist of Harold Janverin, George F. Wilson and W. L. Gardner, and at New York they will be joined by James Cooney and J. I. Judge.

ROWING ASSO. TO MEET MARCH 11 AND PLAN SEASON

One week from today, March 11, the annual meeting of the Boston Interscholastic Rowing Association will be held at the Boston Athletic Association, and arrangements for the opening of the outdoor season, which will probably begin March 30, will be completed. Last year Brookline high school won the interscholastic championship and the trophy will probably be awarded at this meeting.

Chairman H. P. Wardwell states that he expects Patrick Manning and Frank B. Greer will be available again this year, and that these two men will coach the crews. Brookline high, Cambridge Latin, Boston Latin, Rindge Technical, Boston High School of Commerce and Boston College high will in all probability be represented by crews this season.

HARVARD SHOWS BIG GROWTH IN COLLEGE SPORTS

Crimson Athletic Authorities Issue Statement on Financial Aspect of Athletics During Past Season—Football Pays Best

GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

No better evidence of the growth of college athletics can be found than the statement of the Harvard Athletic Association issued late Tuesday regarding the financial aspect of Harvard athletics during the season of 1912-1913.

According to this report athletic teams at Harvard last year cost the university $125,000. The receipts for the year were $155,553.56 and the expenditures $124,930.43. The receipts took a falling off of approximately $1500 from the figures of 1911-12, while the expenses were decreased about $4500.

The crew, as usual, furnished the largest deficiency. About $1100 per man is expended on the Crimson oarsmen, the total expenses being $16,131.67 and the receipts $4,584.61. The hockey players called for the smallest amount per man and only about $200 was expended on each member of the team.

Football, baseball and hockey are shown to be the only paying sports at Harvard. Football had receipts totaling $114,864.82, while the expenditures on the team amounted to $30,151.53. Football in fact practically carried the whole burden for Harvard, since the $84,000 clear profit virtually paid the bills of many of the unprofitable Crimson teams.

Graduate Treasurer William F. Garcelon stated that the net profit was about $30,000, as compared with about $27,000 the year previous. The falling off of about $1500 in the receipts was doubtless due to the fact that the Harvard-Yale game was played in New Haven during the fall of 1912.

The total amount of cash handled during the year was $245,057.52, but the larger part of this was for guarantee and for the expense of managing games, so that it cannot properly be said that the whole amount was spent on the several teams.

The athletic association paid out to coaches and trainers of the football eleven $30,151.53.

Baseball showed a good surplus to the association. The receipts were $20,107.37 and the expenditures $13,711.57, showing a net gain of about $7000.

Track receipts for 1912 were $2715.68, and the expenses of the team were $9797.70. This showers a net loss from the sport of about $7000.

All the minor sports at Harvard are losing propositions. They are soccer, fencing, golf, gymnasium, lacrosse, tennis, rifle team, swimming and wrestling. The total receipts from all these was $977.32, and the total expenditure $5356.45. The net loss on the combined minor sport list totaled $4379.13.

J. E. PATTERSON TO MEET RELLER

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—James E. Patterson, the University of Pennsylvania sprinter, was matched Tuesday with Oliver A. Reller, the Cornell star, in a special 50-yard dash at the track meet of the Missouri Athletic Association on March 14.

Last year Patterson defeated Reller in the 100-yard intercollegiates at the Harvard Stadium in 9 4-5 seconds.

SNODGRASS SIGNS WITH GIANTS

NEW YORK—The New York National League Club has received word from President Hempsted that Snodgrass, centerfielder, has signed a three-year contract. Snodgrass was dissatisfied with the first contract sent him and was considering a Federal league offer.

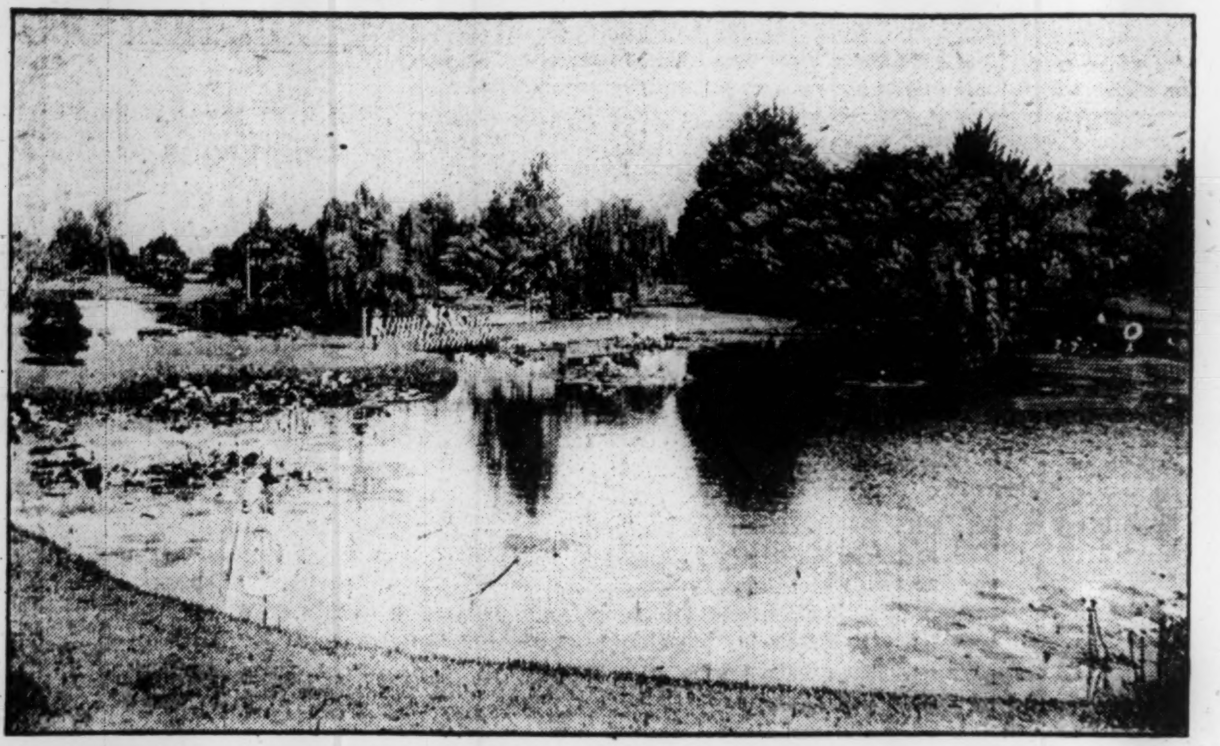
QUEEN'S PARK, PERTH, WESTERN AUSTRALIA



(Reproduced by permission of E. L. Mitchell, press photographer)

THE city of Perth, the capital of Western Australia, is well provided with public parks and squares, the most important being King's park and Queen's gardens. King's park is situated on Mt. Eliza to the west of the city and being on a considerable eminence commands a fine panoramic view of Perth and Melville Waters, of the suburbs of South Perth and of Victoria park and the outer country stretching away to the Darling ranges. The park, in which the indigenous trees and flora have been preserved, covers upwards of 1000 acres. Queen's gardens are at the foot of Hay street East. Here the art of the horticulturist and landscape gardener has converted what was formerly a brickyard into a beautiful garden, tastefully laid out with flowers and shrubs, and with a large pond in which float quantities of beautiful water lilies.

POE AND MRS. LEWIS' POETRY

ESTELLE ANNA ROBINSON LEWIS of Baltimore is the theme of a panegyric on the part of Edgar Allan Poe at the same time when Longfellow and Lowell, Miss Margaret Fuller and people of that stamp were feeling the thrust of his caustic pen. Mrs. Lewis was, he thinks, the most highly educated woman of her time, and the account he gives of her attainments tends to bear him out. She was a distinguished classical scholar, and her translations of some of the more difficult parts of Virgil were considered the most successful ever made by an English writer. She wrote a tragedy called "Sappho of Lesbos," which was translated into Greek and performed at Athens.

Poe describes her as a beauty, with auburn hair and hazel eyes, grace and nobility mingling in her bearing. She married S. D. Lewis, an attorney, and they were living in Brooklyn at the time Poe writes of her. Afterward she lived in London.

She wrote much for periodicals of the hour, including the old Family Magazine, published at Albany, and her collected poems, called "Records of the Heart," were published by Appletons in 1844. Poe finds that they all breathe the true poetical afflatus. Of her ballad, "The Forsaken," he states that it was rated at that time as the "most beautiful ballad of its kind ever written." Her volume called "Child of the Sea and Other Poems" was published by Putnams in 1848, and Poe says it at once placed its fair authoress in the front rank of American authors. He compares the leading poem here, a tale of adventure at sea, with Byron's "Corsair," which it resembles "in all the noble poetic elements." He finds that her verses have in certain passages "a vigorous, trenchant euphony which would confer honor on the most distinguished masters of art." There is no attempt at what is called "imagery" in the whole poem. All is "direct, terse, penetrating." He finds in it, moreover, the same "seemingly reckless abandon of thought and manner that elsewhere characterizes this writer" with, however, her fastidious sense of beauty. He thinks her description of sunset upon the bay of Gibraltar will compare favorably with anything of a similar character ever written.

Of another work he says, "A nobler poem than 'La Vega' could not be easily pointed out. Its fierce energy of expression will arrest attention very especially; but its general glow and vigor have rarely been equaled."

Democratic Language

There is much to be said for Dr. Bridges' plea that language should be democratic, and that "its word-makers are the uneducated and not the educated classes." Unfortunately, with a democracy so largely confined in great cities, word-making is apt to degenerate into freaks and vulgarities. But when England was an agricultural nation, says the Daily Chronicle, and knew the face of its own countryside, we may be pretty sure that it was the people who had the naming of plants and flowers. No mere specialist would have thought of eye-bright, lady's slipper, buttercup, heartsease, king-cup, or lords and ladies. These are of the soil and of the people, intimate, homely, beautiful. But if, as the Laureate would seem to intimate, new inventions were given the names applied to them by the workmen who actually made them we should have some fearsome results.

Companions

When, one by one, a loving student has gathered from all departments of human learning a multitude of books, they are not alabaster vases filled with the sweetest perfume of the human soul, they are living creatures; they are companions; they have received the homage of our best hours. We have hung our hearts upon them, and as they sprang from the noblest parts of their authors, they are clothed with the noblest associations of our own lives.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Former American Birds

Among the birds no longer seen in the United States, having disappeared under the regime of civilized man between 1840 and 1910, are the great auk, pallas cormorant, Labrador duck, passenger pigeon, Eskimo curlew, Cuban tricolor macaw, Gosse's macaw, Guadaloupe macaw, yellow winged green parrot, purple Guadaloupe and Carolina parakeets.

A Maine Trail

Come follow, heart upon your sleeve,
The trail a-teasing by,
Past tasseled corn and fresh-mown hay,
Trim barns and farmhouse shy;
Past hollyhocks and white well sweep,
Through pastures bare and wild,
Oh, come let's fare to the heart o' the wood
With the faith of a little child.

Strike in by the gnarled way through the swamp,
Where late the laurel shone,
An intimate close where you meet yourself
And come unto your own,
By bouldered brook to the hidden spring
Where breath of ferns blows sweet,
And swift birds break the silence as
Their shadows cross your feet.

Stout-hearted thrust through gold green copse
To garner the woodland glee,
To weave a garment of warm delight
Of sunspun ecstasy. . . .

Oh come, the welcoming trees lead on,
Their guests are we today,
Shy violets smile, proud branches bow,
Gay mushrooms mark the way;
The silence is a courtesy,
The well-bred calm of kings;
Come, haste! the hour sets its face
Unto great happenings.

—Gertrude Huntington McGiffert.

Content in Simple Things

The most restless heart can train itself to find content in simple, commonplace things, like work, nature . . . books, meditation and friends.—Atlantic Monthly.

JOHN WYCLIFFE AND HIS WORK

FROM what depths of tyranny and ignorance John Wycliffe, by his translation of the Scriptures, rescued the world in the fourteenth century is exemplified in this passage of Knighton's, "This Master John Wycliffe translated into Anglic, not Angelic tongue, the Gospel. Whence it is made vulgar by him, and more open to the reading of lay men and women, than it usually is to the knowledge of lettered and intelligent clergy, and thus the pearl is cast abroad and trodden under feet of swine. The jewel of the Church is turned into the common sport of the people."

However, in another passage Knighton says, "In philosophy, Wycliffe came to be reckoned inferior to none of his time, and incomparable in the performance of School exercises, a man of profound wit, and very strong in disputations, and who was by the common sort of divines esteemed little less than a god."

The picture which W. Thorpe (1410) draws of the translator of the Bible shows in reality what manner of man he was: "Master John Wycliffe was considered by many to be the most holy of the men in his age. He was of emaciated frame, spare, and well nigh destitute of strength. He was absolutely blameless in his conduct.

"Wherefore very many of the chief men of this kingdom who frequently held counsel with him, were devotedly attached to him, and kept a record of what he said, and guided themselves after his manner of life."

DECORATIVE ART IN THE MODERN CITY

A CITY should be regarded as an expression of the kind of civilization its people had attained and a criticism of it. Due care for the things that make life dignified and worthy should replace the struggle for material comfort and the grosser forms of luxury in the individual with the old desire for the common welfare and a noble pride of citizenship and race, said Prof. Anning Bell in a lecture delivered at the Kelvingrove Art gallery, Glasgow. In Athens or Rome, in Venice and Florence the strength and beauty of their city occupied the thoughts of the burghers more than the comfort and luxury of their private lives. To this attitude we must return. Cleanliness and gay color, light, beautiful buildings and beautiful streets were a direct assistance to healthy living and promoted that high social virtue, cheerfulness.

Prof. Anning Bell said that he would like to see gayer paint used on doors, window bars, and street palings in cities, and especially in Glasgow, while playgrounds, sports buildings, stands and sheds could receive agreeable stenciling or other treatment in color. When platforms or other contrivances for flying machines came to be planned for, as they soon would, he hoped they would be considered artistically, so as to add to rather than detract from the appearance of the city. He pointed to the wide field for painting and sculpture, for stained glass, mosaic, and embroidery in public offices and institutions, now generally so depressingly ugly.

In the case of national or civic functions he pleaded for an artistic treatment of processions and street decorations. Banners should be much more used, and could be made very beautiful. Every shop along the line of the procession should have its banner, made and designed for it, in addition to the national and local ones which manifested their sense of fellowship. All who remembered the halls of the Bargello in Florence and Pistoia well know what beautiful though small remembrances a man might install of his civic services, instead of limiting that recognition to an occasonal subscription portrait. A coat of arms, a motto or emblem with the name in color, or carved, might result in time in a collection with a very legitimate decorative effect.

Wiping Out Illiteracy

From one of the counties of Kentucky comes a report of what has been done by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, county superintendent of schools, who began two years ago to wipe out the illiteracy she had found there. When she began there were 1152 people who could not read and write. Now there are only 23. The rural schools have been enlisted in the cause, and the mountain people have been roused to do this great work for themselves. Of the 23 illiterates remaining in the county Mrs. Stewart gives definite account, with an excellent reason why they have not yet been led into the light. It is said that nowhere in the United States was ever before such a victory recorded as practically wipes out so great a percentage of illiteracy in so brief a period of time.

That Hudson River Bridge

The project of spanning the Hudson river by a bridge that should cost according to one estimate, $75,000,000, is still under discussion in New York city. The bridge would be the greatest ever built in the world and its towers would have to be, says one enthusiast, as tall as the Eiffel tower at Paris. Many people oppose a bridge as not really the solution of the traffic problem, and others counsel waiting till aviation has developed a safe and convenient way of crossing where the mighty cables now swing in fancy. A more conservative estimate, that the Hudson bridge would cost only $42,000,000, was brought forward at a recent meeting of commercial and civic organizations of New York.

Growing Willow Shoots

It is said that one farmer in the middle West last year cleared $10,000 from a crop of willow shoots raised on 60 acres. Whether or not these figures are authoritative, comments Opportunity, it is certain that there is money in willow growing where the conditions are right and the highest grade willow is produced. The usual way is to start with seedlings which are of quick growth and soon produce shoots of marketable size. When the right size has been attained the shoots are cut, stripped of the leaves and bark and shipped in bundles. The market is never oversupplied and the product meets with a ready demand from basket makers and furniture factories.

Our Ideas Reveal Ourselves

Our ideas of spiritual things reveal ourselves. What sort of light is within? Is it clear or colored? Is it smoky, or prismatic, or transparent? . . . We project ourselves into the world about us and see what we project. "To the pure all things are pure; but to them that are defiled and unbelieving nothing is pure; but both their mind and their conscience are defiled." Most rare indeed is the simple childlike spirit that does not intrude itself into what it sees. —Rev. William C. Bitting.

Hunting Out Autographs of Great Americans

TAKING his position as an autograph collector with a serio-comic dignity that is very entertaining, Adrian Joline in the last of several leisurely books he has written on the subject, seizes upon the Japanese word doraku as Lafcadio Hearn used it of a collection that to him had an appeal of sentiment. Mr. Joline thinks doraku might be made to express more respect for the collection of autograph documents than either "hobby" or "fad." To him an autograph meant a signed letter, bill, or document of some sort, not merely a signature; the latter he never sought. It is the human interest not the money value nor the sense of possessing something hard to come by that made these documents of worth to him. He says in one of his books that he believes he has made a mistake to spend so much time and money in collecting political autographs, such as presidents, governors, congressmen of the past and "signers," having come to the conclusion that literary autographs are the most desirable, because men meet in them on a more common ground, the interest in a political autograph being variable and somewhat ephemeral.

In making his large collection only the most legitimate and courteous methods were used. The serious and genuine collector—he says—does not write for an autograph to any one with whom he is not personally acquainted. Yet he defends his "tribe," and assumes an air of guardianship over his avocation that partakes of the respect due to an art. Once, after a rather searching criticism of the bookish fad of a friend who was greatly elated over a complete set of first editions, he pursues his irony until the reader begins to feel that one collector should not so deprecate the doings of another; and then just at the end, with all the effect of a twinkle of the eyes, comes the explanation: "This person has laughed at my autographs."

One of the most amusing letters of this collection, albeit unintentionally, is that in which Bancroft, the historian, appears as fellow poet and censor of Bayard Taylor, amending the latter's poem written for the Century Club's celebration in honor of Bryant in 1864, where Bancroft presided. He says in closing, "I am very much, indeed very much delighted with your chant, and shall not make the changes . . . without your special consent." Then, in a postscript he adds that no one knows or will know of his "trifling" recommendations!

There is a full set of "signers," as the gentlemen who signed the Declaration of Independence are known in the collector's vocabulary. Morris, Carroll and Gerry are said to be plentiful and Button Gwinnett exceedingly rare. "I never heard of him," blurted out the young reporter to whom this statement was made, and he was not as singular as he may have felt, for people of ordinary historical information are apt to be in the same case. Yet the signature is one of the firmest looking of them all, and as that of a very cautious gentleman, no doubt expressed as deep a conviction as that of any of those whose longer careers as American patriots rendered their names more memorable.

Letters in Poe's beautiful handwriting are peculiarly apt, it seems, to turn out to be lithographs.

Longfellow wrote signatures in advance and never refused a request. Holmes was also patient and complaisant and Lowell upbraided him with making it hard for the rest of them to refuse.

Living With the Great

Only a half dozen biographies of men gloriously great if read again and again, would put fresh hope into the heart and brightened glory into the light of the sun. For the lives of great men reveal to us the fact that there is something in human nature mightier than circumstances, that obstacles, however formidable are never quite insurmountable. We might not . . . celebrate the birthday of Lincoln if Lincoln had not when a boy read and reread the life of Washington.—Woman's Home Companion.

"WHO GIVETH SONGS IN THE NIGHT"

WRITTEN FOR THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

MAN who has neighbored with the mocking-bird knows the indescribable sweetness of a song in the night, and the reassurance that it gives one that "all's well." The voices of nature rebuke us oft times. Jesus used as type and symbol the faith of the fowls, and the beauteous wealth of the God-clothed lilies. Why should mortals moan, lament, and fear continually? As St. Paul puts it, "Why stand we in jeopardy every hour?" Why do we not rejoice and unfold in natural loveliness,—in the image of our creator? Says the Rev. F. W. Faber in his well-beloved hymn:

> "If our love were but more simple,
> We should take Him at His word;
> And our lives would be all sunshine
> In the sweetness of our Lord."

However, the simplicity of love and its sincerity are based upon understanding, not upon blind faith. We must understand the nature of God and His creation else we cannot trust Him, nor love Him unfailingly. Mere optimism does not fulfil the divine requirements. It requires courage to sing in the night, courage born of conviction and gratitude born of love. It is the mission of Christian Science to enable us to understand our Bible, to understand and love God, man, and the universe as seen from the spiritual and eternal viewpoint. Indeed, there is no other true and reliable viewpoint. The Scriptures, from beginning to end, are filled with assurances that good is the only power—that evil is not power. We read in that magnificent one hundred and third Psalm: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies."

Why should we allow the evidence before the material senses to deprive us of fellowship with our heavenly Father, with our loved ones, with the ever-present bounty and goodness with which God surrounds us always? The material senses never testify to Spirit, Principle, cause. They are deceptive, limited, perishable. Man in God's image is eternal. Christian Science opens our blind eyes and redeems us in Christ's own way.

Now, it is worthy of note that Christian Scientists stand upon the same platform as other Christians. All acknowledge that God is all-power, all-presence, all-consciousness that "All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made"; that He "saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good." Also, we all coincide in professing that we believe the Scriptural declaration that God made man in His own image and likeness. Certainly nowhere and in no way could we hope to find or need to find a bigger, broader, grander platform than this, all based upon plain and unmistakable teaching of Scripture both old and new.

"What then," you ask, "is the difference between an orthodox Christian and a genuine Christian Scientist?" The word "science" means exact, systematized knowledge that is capable of proof. All Christians should be Scientists, but herein lies the difference between the Christian who applies his knowledge—the Christian Scientist, if you please—and the Christian who believes but does not understand and demonstrate his faith with "signs following," as Jesus required of his followers. The orthodox or average Christian accepts his sense testimony instead of holding to his platform in spite of what his material senses tell him. He sees sickness, sin and death, and at once accepts their testimony as real and as a part of life and man, just because his eyes see it, his ears hear it and his nerves feel it. At the same time he remembers, perchance, that Jesus counseled his followers, "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment." The Master said of Jairus' daughter, "She is not dead," even though "they laughed him to scorn," and he proved his correctness. To the sick he said, "Thou art whole," and he demonstrated it in the presence of all. He caused the deceptive senses to change their testimony, but he never changed his concept of man as the image of God, nor departed one iota from his platform.

The watchful, obedient, well instructed Christian Scientist endeavors to follow his Master not only in theory but also in practise. When temptation arises he valiantly declares the allness and goodness and presence of God, divine Life and Love, no matter what the senses say. He makes the senses conform to Christ, Truth, but he never leaves his platform to compromise his spiritual understanding with false material beliefs. We repeat, all Christians should be Scientists.

And what of the fruits? The multitudes are being healed today as they were of old on the shores of the Galilean sea and peace and good will toward men is a rapidly spreading contagion which no quarantine efforts of evil can check or stamp out. The Christian Scientist meets victory without in proportion as he is victorious within over false claims such as hate, dishonesty, lust, ingratitude, self-love and self-justification. Mrs. Eddy says of the Christian Scientist that he "has enlisted to lessen evil, disease, and death; and he will overcome them by understanding their nothingness and the allness of God, or good" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 450).

Healing of the sick and victory over evil is all a matter of abiding. "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you," said Jesus. Failure, discouragement, destitution is due to forsaking the true platform. Hence the importance of Jesus' command, "Watch." It is when we are off guard through ignorance, indifference, over-elation, or error of any sort, that we take in and accept as real the subtle seductions of material sense. And doing this it is with tears and weary hearts and sore steps that we return to our platform and resume our rightful stand.

One who plants his feet firmly upon the spiritual Rock, Christ, and there abides, naturally rejoices at all times, hence the lamentation of Elihu in the book of Job, and hence the mission of our little midnight musician, the mocking-bird. Elihu lamented, "None saith, where is God my maker, who giveth songs in the night; who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and maketh us wiser than the fowls of heaven?"

In "Miscellaneous Writings," the beloved Leader of Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy, reassures us in these blessed words: "In Christian Science the midnight hour will always be the bridal hour, until 'no night is there' . . . In the dark hours, wise Christian Scientists stand firmer than ever in their allegiance to God. Wisdom is wedded to their love, and their hearts are not troubled" (pp. 276-7).

TUNIS CALLS TO THE PAINTER

FOR a painter who would see the East with all its exuberance of life, brilliant color and sunshine, the land of Tunis has probably no equal. In comparison with Egypt it is much easier of access, says W. Holland Lupton in the Studio (London), being no more than about 28 hours from Marseilles, and also easily accessible from Italy. The semi-tropical vegetation and the varied scenery of mountains, lakes and desert compare favorably with Egypt. Then Tunis is not Europeanized like Algiers, and is more settled than Morocco.

The town of Tunis, where the visitor lands, contains an embarrassing wealth of paintable subjects. The street scenes are busy pictures of oriental life, and every corner with its native types clamors for a sketch. There is every opportunity of working out of doors in winter, as it is nearly always fine, and the brilliant sunshine of the early mornings affords ideal conditions for sketching. A walk through the souks, the covered-in native bazaars, all composed of narrow alleys, and covering acres and acres of ground, will be a revelation of oriental life in its primitive simplicity. The craftsman works at his trade, squatting in his little den of a shop, and turns out strangely beautiful ware in leather, embroidery and jewelry. The variety of native types is astonishing.

Everywhere one encounters Arabs, Berbers, Moors, Bedouins, Jews and many another in flowing robes of brilliant color. The women of the town are scarcely seen at all in the town, and the few that venture out of doors are closely veiled, so that except as studies in drapery they do not interest the artist. There is one class that is a boon to the artist—the Bedouins, women and girls. They will pose for a few pence and some are extremely graceful, making excellent models. For outdoor sketching the artist accustomed to northern climes will find his palette needs revision, and that the lightest and brightest colors, such as the cadmiums and cobalts, white, garance, etc., can be almost exclusively used. Nature's subtone is here not a dull gray, but rather a warm light fawn.

Amity Among the Republics

REPUBLICANISM finds its fullest expression in the Americas. Being so distinctly American in its habitat, interest in the changes time brings to the system of representative government is not so widely displayed as is concern with democracy itself. That is to say, the democratic ideal of popular rule commands vastly more adherents today than does the method by which the various countries are giving practical effect to the ideal. Nevertheless, especially in view of the record of Mexico during the rule of Diaz and since, there cannot but be acute interest among the peoples that are monarchistic rather than republican in all the mutations of South and Central American politics. For pecuniary if for no other reasons it is necessary to keep informed.

Especially important to follow are the alterations of policy toward the Central and South American states by the government in Washington, as from time to time the Monroe doctrine is given new interpretation by presidents and by secretaries of state, and as Congress acts on issues that arise. This being so, any definition of policy by Mr. Bryan at the present time is worth noting, especially since in this case his words find publicity in a journal that is to be sent forth quasi-officially and that is written to promote trade extension, namely, the Export American Industries.

In the first place, this new declaration gives reaffirmation of hostility to land conquest. This administration will not sanction any repetition of the Panama republic affair. Republics involved in the toils of money lenders, and needing moral support and administrative aid in revenue collection while working themselves free from creditors' claims, will still be aided. Revolutionists for revolution's sake will not be recognized. Citizens of the United States wishing to make legitimate investments in the southern republics will be encouraged, but not in any schemes of exploitation of the countries from which they obtain concessions and profits. Ethical standards obeyed at home cannot be disobeyed abroad, and offenders cannot find support from the United States government if the southern republics resort to processes of law as a punishment. In short, the United States is not backing extension of its outside trade, be the morals of its traders what they may.

If this seems a reflection on conditions that previously have been tolerated, the present administration apparently does not care. It wants to have friendlier, franker relations between the republics of the two continents, and it is free to confess that they are not possible until a higher moral basis for fraternity has been defined.

Control of Shipping Urged

NO NATION can shape an internal policy today without being forced, sooner or later, to find that it has indirect if not direct effect upon international policy and relations. The solidarity of the human multitude, however divided on lines of race, religion and notions of government, is in no other way so surely shown as by this interdependence of peoples nominally busy about caring for particular national interests but in reality shaping world history. The United States just now is trying to define for itself a national policy toward monopoly and "restraint of trade." After a period of popular debate, executive polemics and judicial interpretation, an era of legislative definition and demarcation has arrived. But with responsibility for statute making comes more searching inquiry as to possible effect upon oversea trade of the United States' prohibitions on domestic business, restrictions such as exist seldom in alien territory where the United States must compete. That this consideration will or should radically alter the character of domestic legislation relative to monopoly business, is not clear. But it is at least well for national lawmakers to know all the facts and to have in view all the contingencies before proceeding with new lawmaking.

This being so, testimony of considerable value will be available in the report just rendered to the House of Representatives by its committee on merchant marine and fisheries. Two years of study lead this body of investigators to believe that the mode of equitable handling of interrelated shipping companies of the United States and other countries, and the railways, is not one of forced competition but rather of governmentally supervised cooperation. To restore competition wholly and thus to control the situation is quite impossible, owing to the limits of national power in dealing with an international affair. Better far, says the committee, meet so much of the matter as can be dealt with governmentally on the basis of federal care for popular interests, and this through supervision by an enlarged interstate commerce commission. Eight hundred shipping companies of other countries are likely to acquiesce in a plan like this, whereas they might not be so complaisant to any other scheme.

Professor Taft on Mexico

PROF. WM. H. TAFT, speaking before the National Geographic Society last week, in a discreet aside so worded as to make it clear that he would be the last man to embarrass his successor in any way or to interfere with the course of national policy, came to the support of his countrymen who are opposed to intervention in Mexico. He spoke as one who had had costly experience in pacifying and administering a tropical country and who contemplated with aversion and disapproval any repetition by the United States of policing duties in Mexico such as have been borne in the Philippines since 1898. Those who talk lightly of intervention in Mexico must, says Professor Taft, either be ignorant or callous to human slaughter. So says the man among all his countrymen who has the amplest first-hand knowledge of the cost of pacification of an alien people by the United States.

Of course such testimony as this from such a source will strengthen the determination of President Wilson to resist pressure brought to bear at Washington to force his hand. Had he only this secretly operated influence to combat, the outcome would not be doubtful. It is the conduct of Mexicans opposed to Sr. Huerta, but who are inadequate for the task of disinterested service of Mexico, which may compel action that President Wilson has been loath to take, but which certain interests in the United States have urged incessantly.

Indeed, when the real, inner history of this period of Mexico's turbulent national career comes to be written, it will have to be done in terms of "high finance," of alien exploitation of national resources with the connivance of Mexican officials, and of perversion of diplomatic traditions for commercial ends. President Wilson has checked this trend so far as he could and has maneuvered the United States into a position where, if intervention be forced, it will be with a clearer ethical justification than was furnished to the United States at an earlier date.

REGISTRATION is pointed out here and there in the United States as the first duty of the voter—man or woman. Emphasis, however, should be laid upon the fact that it is not the only duty. Too large a percentage of those who register do not vote.

BALED hay by parcel post would not be such a dreadful thing after all if the service were only expeditious and cheap enough. Better distribution of all farm products is desirable.

Model Tenements Commercially Profitable

IT IS a great gain for the tenement population of large cities that decent housing has been made commercially profitable. The Monitor has recently presented in its news columns facts which leave no doubt on this score. Philanthropy as applied to the mass, whether it be private or public in character, must in the necessity of the case be lightly, even imperceptibly, spread. Perhaps when the personal independence of the citizen is considered as a communal or as a national asset this is just as well. It is just as well, that is, to preserve among all classes a wholesome sentiment of self-reliance. It is of immense importance in a democracy that the mass may not be compelled to solicit as a favor what belongs to it as a right. It has a right to be decently housed. Successful demonstration, therefore, of the ability of capital to make decent housing pay in a practical, businesslike way, marks a tremendous step forward.

Only in a practical, businesslike way can problems of this nature be satisfactorily or permanently solved. In many instances humanity's lack of financial success is encouraged by misdirected philanthropic effort. The group of men in New York who undertook to bring respectable and sanitary living quarters within the reach of respectable but poor people realized this. They cast aside all consideration of what the world calls charity and entered upon a purely commercial scheme for the construction of tenement houses in which livable rooms or apartments might be rented at a minimum rate and yet yield a profit on the money invested.

The Monitor's article has presented all the interesting details, but they may be summed up here in two brief statements; first, that the company or syndicate formed has now in use, or ready for use, 2500 apartments of from one to four rooms at an average rental by the room of $1.25 a week; and second, that the investment pays 4 per cent besides adding each year to a fund for further development. Full weight must be given to the decided advantages these apartments offer in comparison with ordinary city tenements. They are provided with all conveniences that might come under the head of modern necessities. They are managed, supervised, kept clean by competent staffs. So far they are not novel, however. In most cities of the United States are institutions of like character supported by private generosity. The difference lies here, that while the tenants of the apartments to which we are giving attention are enjoying advantages thus far denied the great majority of city tenants, they owe nothing to patronage in any form. They are getting only what they pay for. If they are enjoying anything in the shape of privilege it arises from the fact that, unlike many city tenants, they are getting the worth of their money. But their independence is secure, and this is a splendid inheritance for their children.

Portugal Prospering as a Republic

THE history of the Portuguese Republic, since the fall of the Monarchy in 1910, is fraught with interest. Prophecies of failure have come to naught and statements to the effect that the people were not really in favor of a Republican government have proved equally wrong. No more convincing proof of the prosperity of a country can be advanced than the growth of its trade, and that the condition of Portugal has steadily improved under the Republic has been shown more than once in the columns of this paper by the statement of facts obtained from sources of unquestionable reliability.

Among the most important measures passed since the revolution of 1910 is the law of separation of church and state, and it is this law, coupled with the proposed amnesty of all political prisoners, which is engaging the attention of those interested in the future of Portugal. Senhor Bernardino Machado has become premier on the understanding that he will support the proposal to grant the amnesty and will reopen for discussion the question of the separation of church and state.

Bernardino Machado is said to be a man above the vote-catching tricks of the petty statesman; and the explanation given of the reopening of the question is that the law requires modification. What the modifications will be is just what far-seeing politicians are anxious to know. It is true that when the law was passed by the provisional government, the displeasure of the Vatican was roused and some discontent expressed by both priest and laity in Portugal. It is equally true, however, that those who remember the bondage in which the country was held by the church under the Monarchy are determined that, in the eyes of the law, the church shall regain no undue control over the people. With the passing of the law of separation, Roman Catholicism as a state religion ceased to exist. The principal plank in the policy of the Republican government is toleration and freedom, and no form of religion should be dependent upon the legal support of the government. Freedom to adopt any reasonable form of worship will be welcomed by all who recognize the permanence and immutability of Truth; and the proposal to legislate in favor of one form of worship more than another will meet with opposition from those who stand for freedom and justice.

Argentine Politicians Are Busy

FOR some time previous to the recent cabinet overturn in Argentina the public had felt that it would be impossible for the existing relationship between the political leaders and the President of the republic to continue, strained as the situation had become, day by day. The protracted absence of President Pena, and his request for a further vacation of several months, gave the opposition a chance to make capital out of the presidential desire. Among the newspapers especially critical of each move made by the chief executive was La Nacion. Argentine newspapers are permitted a free scope in political discussion and there is perhaps no other capital city in South America where affairs concerning the government are more openly criticized than in Buenos Aires.

In the reorganization of the Argentine cabinet Jose Luis Murature was offered the portfolio of foreign affairs, a position which this leading South American journalist accepted promptly. It is probably a fact that before the fall of the ministry it had been as good as settled who of the leading factors in that political overturn were to profit by the change. Be this as it may, Senor Murature is looked upon as a man capable in many ways. He is a close student of international events, has traveled considerably, is popular with the intellectual classes and he owns La Nacion, a newspaper which compares favorably with the world's important journals in point of influence and scope. He is one of the strongest supporters of an entente with the United States and in a recent issue he spoke admiringly of the plan to raise the American legation at Buenos Aires to an embassy, emphasizing that the United States was the first nation to accredit a permanent legation to Argentina.

Dealing with a hostile Congress, as he has been doing for some time, President Pena is now forced to treat with a cabinet that, in a greater measure than the former ministry, conforms to the demands of the legislative houses. The matter of public expenditures which has been one of the points of contention for months, is likely to continue an interesting theme. Argentina, like its sister nations of South America, is feeling the effect of a financial stringency and there has been a tightening along the whole line as to the spending of money even for needed improvements.

Politics has come to mean something else than a pastime to the Argentinos. The power of the executive has been curbed in various directions. The requirements of the country are constantly increasing and the need is felt for an improved financial accounting.

New England Apples Not for Home Use

WHEN the son of Italy asks the New Englander to pay 10 cents a quart for Baldwin apples at a Boston fruit stand—and not very good Baldwins at that—and justifies the price by showing that he has to pay $7 a barrel, there is new occasion to inquire why the best of apple-producing regions does not yield enough to supply its towns at a price that is within reason. Apples, in this apple country, are among the dearest of fruits, actually more costly than the products of the tropics or the Pacific slope. But the reason for the scarcity, which brings the high price, is not that apples are not produced in ample quantities for all New England to have them at a fair price. They are, but they go to markets across seas and not enough are held to meet the home demand.

The central and western portions of Massachusetts, the orchard areas of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, are producing great and increasing quantities but the greater the production the less the reserve for the nearby markets. There are single counties in northern New York that are shipping more apples annually than all the states west of the Rocky mountains. One railroad station sends out more than the entire state of Oregon. But they do not stay in the neighborhood, nor in the country. The finest apple region in Massachusetts is swept of its fruit by buyers who cover the territory before the picking season and its output goes to Boston, not to stay but on the way to Liverpool. A high price at the shipping point is $2 a barrel for the best of fruit and the people of the British isles may enjoy it at a retail price below that in Boston.

The Burlington, Vt., Merchants Association has been asked to interest itself in the promotion of orcharding in the Champlain region, which is one of the regions that is capable of a higher development and ought to have it, both in the interest of the farmers, who have no better crop, and the consumers, who have no better fruit. Vermont has offered the encouragement to new orchards of agreeing that there shall be no increase in the tax valuation of orchards for fifteen years. Everywhere there is urgency for increased production and the farm schools are supplying all possible aid in directing the ways of setting out orchards, training the trees and marketing the fruit. All this is to little purpose from the consumer's point of view, when the addition to the output follows the beaten path out of the country.

The facts carry their own argument of the need of a trade enterprise that will secure a due proportion of the apples produced in the apple country for the people in its towns. There is no substitute for the New England apple. The more spectacular fruit from the far West is not to be compared in real merit with the substantial Baldwins of the New England hills. That New England should have the first right to the fruit of its orchards is only an assertion of the right of a region to its own. While the trade bodies of the interior are promoting the production, their efforts should be balanced by those of the similar bodies of the cities in securing the necessary share in the product. Or must the consumers combine to send their representatives out into the orchard country ahead of the export buyer, to secure the apples at $2 that through some neglect they are compelled to pay $7 for—or go without?

KANSAS CITY will plant as many as possible of the 1000 elm trees it has provided for on Missouri Arbor day, April 14, and it will probably have them all planted before the month is out. This, by the way, is to be an instance in which a Missouri community proposes to show communities all over the United States how a good thing can be rightly done.

ANOTHER bill to tax cats has been introduced in the New Jersey Legislature, the proposed charge being $2 per capita per annum. But New Jersey is a state that has long resisted all forms of taxation on necessities.

IF WOMEN are to work only eight hours a day, and if legislative philanthropy, like charity, is to begin properly at home, then there must be a general readjustment of the domestic schedule.
